Business Manager Urged Firing Of Library Employees

by WANDALYN RICE

A memo from Virginia James, business manager of the Elk Grove Village Public Library, was sent to the library board of directors in July recommending that three women employees be fired due to "lack of cooperation and insubordination."

The three, Jean Joy, Dorothy Homeyer and Ruth Bussard, had charged earlier this week they were told to resign or be fired.

At that time Mrs. James denied any knowledge of such a request, saying she knew nothing about any threat to fire the women.

The memo, which was made available to the Herald from two sources this week, is on library stationery and is dated July 20.

It reads, "As acting administrator, I recommend to the board, that Mrs. Jean Joy's, Mrs. Dorothy Homeyer's and Mrs. Ruth Bussard's employment be terminated due to lack of cooperation and insubordination." It is signed by Mrs. James.

Mrs. James refused to make any comment to a reporter yesterday morning about the memo and would only say, "You should come to the board meeting."

THE LIBRARY board will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the library to act upon the resignations of the three women and also the resignations of Ruth Stunkel and Evelyn Schmidt, the head librarian.

Mrs. Schmidt resigned Monday, Aug. 2, at the end of her first day of work since January. She broke her hip in January and had been recuperating.

Members of the library board met with Mrs. Schmidt later last Monday and after the meeting she submitted her resignation. She had been head librarian for 11 years, since the library was founded.

The day after she resigned Mrs. Schmidt, sometimes in tears, told the Herald she was shocked by what had happened in the library in her absence and upset because several of her employees had been removed.

Besides Mrs. Joy, Mrs. Homeyer, Mrs. Bussard and Mrs. Stunkel, the former librarian said she was concerned because Calvin Bickie, a professional librarian she had hired for the reference depart-

AND NOW THERE ARE TWO. A foal was born recently at the Childerley Retreat House in Wheeling. The new filly's mother is the pony that showed up two years ago in Wheeling Police Chief M. O.

Horcher's garden. After the pony was captured by police, the owner never came to claim the small animal and so she was given the name "Beauty" by the chief's children and has been living ever since at Childerley with two other ponies. The filly has not yet been named.

Band Director Prefers America

"I'm very glad I live in America," said Douglas Peterson, Elk Grove High School band director who recently returned from a 21-day trip to Europe with the school's jazz band.

"We hear about people critical of the American way of life for one reason or another but my reaction to that after traveling and living in Europe is I'm very glad I live here."

"It's very vital, alive, and robust here," he asserted.

Peterson reviewed the band's trip this week, following its arrival home Monday and a good night's sleep in the wake of 22½ hours of flying in jets.

He said he found life more relaxed in Europe when compared to the United States.

In Europe there are very few large supermarkets or fast food chain restaurants, he said. "There's almost none of this type of thing on a wide scale."

"Many of the people eat in restaurants at a relaxed pace. I imagine they have fewer ulcers," he joked.

The emphasis in European products seemed to be on quality and durability rather than bigness, he said. This was especially true in European automobiles, he said, which are much smaller than United States manufactured cars.

About 39 students and 18 adults made the trip with the band to Holland, Austria, Germany, Liechtenstein, France, Switzerland, and England. The group stayed in homes, hotels, and a university dormitory while touring the continent mostly by bus.

"Most of the Europeans travel by train," said Peterson, "Cars are too slow to get around largely because the roads are narrow and winding."

"I'd swear they never moved a house for the sake of building a road," he said, noting that the roadways in Germany, Switzerland, and Austria were always winding.

"Everywhere — a road would go around a house," he said.

PETERSON SAID one of the most interesting things the students noticed was the architecture and how it changed from country to country.

In Dinkelsbühl, Germany they have a rule that if any house that is worn down is to be replaced, it must be by the same type of medieval house, he said. In this way the architecture is preserved.

Peterson said he saw "too many hippies" in Europe. "I didn't like it but I don't know what effect it had on the people." He said the town center in Amsterdam was "wall-to-wall long hairs."

Several students made telephone calls home to parents, girl and boy friends, he said. Two transatlantic calls to the

Park District To Discuss Youth Employment Service

The Elk Grove Park District Board of Commissioners will discuss taking over the operation of Youth Employment Service (YES) for next summer at its meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The board will meet at the park district administration building, 499 Beisterfield Rd.

YES has been run in the past by the Elk Grove Village Community Service. The village-funded social service agency has asked the park district if it could operate the program as part of the summer teen program.

YES workers keep a file of youth looking for jobs and places them in positions.

This summer the director of the program, Dixie Foster, placed about 150 young people in part and full-time jobs.

In addition, the board will set interview times for the applicants for the vacancy, which was created when Comm. Daniel Gilbert resigned in June.

Also, the board is expected to receive the recommendation of the Teen Center Advisory Committee. The committee, which was appointed by the board to make recommendations for the Teen Center, last week agreed to recommend that the center be open to teens only on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday rather than all week.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 946.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 338 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

The Weather

A frontal system packing "thunders-torms, tornadoes and damaging winds swept the Midwest.

Seven Of 12 Districts Still Negotiating

Many Teacher Contracts Unsettled

by JUDY NAJOLIA

Teachers in seven of 12 area school districts may go back to the classroom this fall without teaching contracts.

A year ago at this time teacher-board of education negotiations were settled in nine of the 12 districts.

Two years ago negotiations in all the districts were completed during the summer and three years ago most local school boards were not negotiating salary, fringe benefits and working conditions at all with their teaching staffs.

The advent of collective bargaining in education has been heralded by teacher associations as the method of change in education and feared by boards of education as a threat to their constitutionally granted authority to educate Illinois youth.

Though more than 60 per cent of Illinois teachers collectively bargain for teaching contracts, Illinois has no mandatory public employee collective bargaining law. Twenty-six states do have such a law requiring school boards to negotiate with teachers if the teachers ask for negotiations.

THIS YEAR, with the opening of school less than a month away, three local districts have finished negotiations. High School Dist. 211 in Palatine and Schaumburg Townships was done just before school ended in June, Elementary Dist. 59 in Elk Grove Village followed a week later, and Elementary Dist. 23 in Prospect Heights announced agreement on a salary package about three weeks ago.

Observers in Elementary Dist. 25 in Arlington Heights and River Trails Elementary Dist. 26 in Prospect Heights predict teachers will begin school with negotiations settled, but final agreement on salaries has not been reached.

In the remaining seven school districts, negotiators in High School Dist. 214 in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, High School Dist. 207 in Maine Township, Des Plaines Elementary Dist. 62, and Schaumburg Elementary Dist. 54, hope settlement will come shortly after school opens.

Teachers in Wheeling Elementary Dist. 21 twice have rejected a board proposal to replace the guaranteed index system for raises with a system of annually determined increments.

Elementary Dist. 15 teachers in Palatine have asked the board to agree to declaring an impasse so disagreement over the index system and salaries can be settled through mediation.

In Mount Prospect Elementary Dist. 57, negotiations are underway between a professional negotiator hired by the board of education and Illinois Education Association (IEA) negotiators for the teachers.

THIS YEAR'S difficulty in completing teacher salary negotiations coincides with an increase in professional negotiation advisors made available to local teacher associations by the IEA.

Five local teaching associations have invited their IEA advisers to participate at the bargaining table. In Dist. 59, where teachers went out on strike for one day last February, settlement has already been reached. One district, Dist. 26, is near settlement.

The other three, Dists. 15, 21 and 57, are the ones apparently furthest away from settlement. Though no school districts in the area are seriously considering a strike this fall, Dist. 57 teacher negotiator David Metzler has said teachers would strike if the negotiating team said they should. The teachers have asked for a six per cent salary increase while the board has offered last year's salary schedule.

In Dist. 15, a questionnaire has been sent to teachers asking them to indicate whether they would accept or reject the board's six per cent offer and whether they would want to return to school this fall if settlement is not reached before school opens.

Of the districts which do not have IEA negotiators, two have settled, one (Dist. 207) is not in the IEA, three are near settlement and Dist. 214 has begun a fact-finding process.

NO DISTRICT has gone beyond negotiating to mediation, though fact-finding, which allows a third-party board to suggest a solution, has been introduced in Dist. 214.

Participation by a state organization in local teacher negotiations is not welcomed by local boards of education, though they have not refused to negotiate with IEA advisers present. IEA Executive Director Curtis Plott says there is a statewide board backlash to IEA intrusion. Intimidation, stalling, and reneging on professional negotiation contracts are appearing this year in many districts, he said, but he could not apply the charges to local districts.

Another IEA-supported trend which is not evident in local districts is teacher demands for a voice in decision-making about hiring and firing qualifications, budgeting and curriculum planning. Local districts are negotiating salary, fringe benefits and working conditions.

According to Plott, demands for involvement in more policy decisions will come as the collective bargaining process becomes stabilized in the next few years.

For the present, boards of education and local teacher associations are having difficulty reaching agreement on money matters. Until the collective bargaining process can be defined so that negotiations begun in February can be finished before school begins in September, there will be little time for negotiations on much more than money matters.

Funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Stanislaus Bishop and Martyr Church, 5352 W. Beldon, Chicago. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Surviving are two children, Tracy and Tony Barbalace, her parents, Walter and Jean Wojs of Hoffman Estates; one sister, Mrs. Pam (Daniel) Luneback, a brother, Ed Martin and her grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Zuba.

Mrs. Barbalace was born March 31, 1946, in Chicago.

Kenneth C. Behnke

Kenneth C. Behnke, 50, of 32 S. Walnut ave., Palatine, was pronounced dead on arrival Aug. 5 at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after an apparent heart attack.

Mr. Behnke, born July 14, 1921, in Chicago, had been a resident of Palatine since 1938. He was employed for the Public Works Department of Palatine, with 11 years of service.

Funeral services were held Monday in Ahlgrim and Sons Funeral Home, Palatine, with Vicar Paul Boelten of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Palatine, officiating. Interment was private.

Surviving are his widow, Audrey; his mother, Mrs. Lydia Behnke; one brother, William F. Behnke, both of Palatine; two nieces, Pamela and Linda Meyer; a nephew, Kenneth Meyer, all of Palatine; and a brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Adolph and Cecil Meyer of Arlington Heights.

A special memorial service will be held at a later date in The Palatine Bible Church, 312 E. Wood St., Palatine.

Dennis M. Grinnell

Dennis Michael Grinnell, 17, of 1912 Spruce Terr., Arlington Heights, a resident of four years, was pronounced dead on arrival early yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Visitation is tomorrow from 9 a.m. until time of funeral services at 2 p.m. in Haire Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vail Avenue, Arlington Heights. The Rev. Kenneth L. Roufs of Cross and Crown Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, will officiate. Interment is private.

Dennis, who was born May 1, 1954, in Detroit, Mich., was a student at Wheeling High School.

Surviving are his parents, Richard G. and Evelyn L. Grinnell; one brother, Jeffrey R.; a sister, Susan L. Grinnell, both of Arlington Heights; and his grandparents, Raymond E. and Laura E. Wilkins of Hillside, Mich.

Family requests, in lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Dennis M. Grinnell Memorial Fund, in care of Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights, 60004.

Maurice Wasserman

Maurice Wasserman, 53, of 807 Newberry Ln., Mount Prospect, a salesman for Beauty Stain Co., died suddenly Monday in Camp Douglas, Wis., after an apparent heart attack while on a business trip.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Original Weinstein and Sons Chapel, Chicago. Rabbi Herman Davis officiated. Burial was in Westlawn Cemetery, Chicago.

Surviving are his widow, Evelyn, nee Beloff; one son, Alan Wasserman of Chicago; a daughter, Mrs. Barbara (Dr. Marvin) Talsky of Mount Prospect; nine grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Fisher, Mrs. Bea Feldman and Mrs. Kay Stoller, all of Chicago.

Mr. Wasserman was a member of Noel Ekter Kidney Foundation. He was born Sept. 28, 1917, in Chicago.

Earl W. Bennett

Earl W. Bennett, 63, of 1150 Alfini Dr., Des Plaines, died Tuesday in St. Joseph Hospital, Chicago. He was born July 22, 1908, in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of the funeral home. The Rev. Charles Kepler will officiate. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery, Arlington Heights.

Mr. Bennett, before his retirement, was chief accountant for Uniroyal Tire Corp. for the New York and Chicago offices, with 33 years of service. After his retirement he was the accountant for the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at 2750 Lakeview Ave., Chicago. He was a past Exalted Ruler of Des Plaines Elks Lodge, No. 1528.

Surviving are his widow, Eleanor; one daughter, Mrs. Virginia (August) Hart of El Paso, Tex., and two grandchildren, Constance and Brad Hart.

Contributions may be made to Illinois Elk's Crippled Children's Commission or the Elk's National Foundations.

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, Aug. 12, the 224th day of 1971.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Leo.

Hall of Fame baseball pitcher Christy Mathewson was born Aug. 12, 1880.

On this day in history:

In 1658 a so-called "rattle watch" of eight men was formed in the colony of New Amsterdam, the first police force in America.

In 1851 Isaac Singer was granted a patent for his sewing machine, setting up business in Boston with $40.

In 1947 fashion designers caused a stir by introducing women's dresses that reached nearly to the ankles.

Housing Unit Member Resigns

Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek Tuesday accepted the resignation of Sandra Todd from the housing commission.

Mrs. Todd, of 500 Yarmouth Rd., in a brief letter, said she wanted to devote more time to her family.

A member of the housing commission since it was formed last summer, she was a member of the housing task force that preceded the commission.

Mrs. Todd was one of nine members of the housing commission headed by Neil Cooney, a local banker. Others are Edward Kenna, the Rev. Maynard Beal, James Monta, Catherine Duoba, Donald Oehl, Joseph Wellman, and William Korketke. Kenna is also a village trustee.

THE COMMISSION is currently completing a survey of the labor force to determine if there is a need for low and moderate-income housing in the community.

In other action by the village board Tuesday, permission was granted to the Junior Woman's Club to use the facilities at the Municipal Complex, 901 Wellington Ave., to store glass and paper bins Oct. 23-24 during a conservation project.

A request by Chicago Magnet Wire Corp., 901 Chase Ave., for building permits to install two pieces of air pollution control equipment was referred to the village attorney. The firm currently is being sued by the Illinois Attorney General for air pollution.

In addition, the firm has named the village in a suit charging that the village has prevented it from installing air pollution control equipment since 1965 by refusing to issue permits.

The board granted a permit to the Shell Oil Co. for construction of a 14-inch pipeline on the east side of Illinois Rte. 83 through the village. However, several trustees expressed concern that there already are four pipelines in the Rte. 83 right-of-way.

Trustees James O'Brien and Edward Kenna agreed to attend a meeting Friday in Park Ridge on the jet noise problem. Four Congressmen including Philip Crane, R-13th, are expected to attend.

A REQUEST for $200 from the O'Hare Area Noise Abatement Council was referred to the aeronautical noise abatement and safety committee.

Cpt. Donald Kuhn was authorized an expenditure of $200 to attend a University of Illinois fire department management conference in Urbana-Champaign Sept. 26-Oct. 1.

The judiciary, planning, and zoning committee announced it would meet Saturday at 9 a.m. in the village hall to discuss several topics, including the garbage system.

Band Director Prefers America

United States to let parents know the group would be a day late in arriving home cost $15 each, he said.

The Herbert Jarosch family used the trip to visit relatives in Heidelberg, the scene of one of the band's 11 concerts.

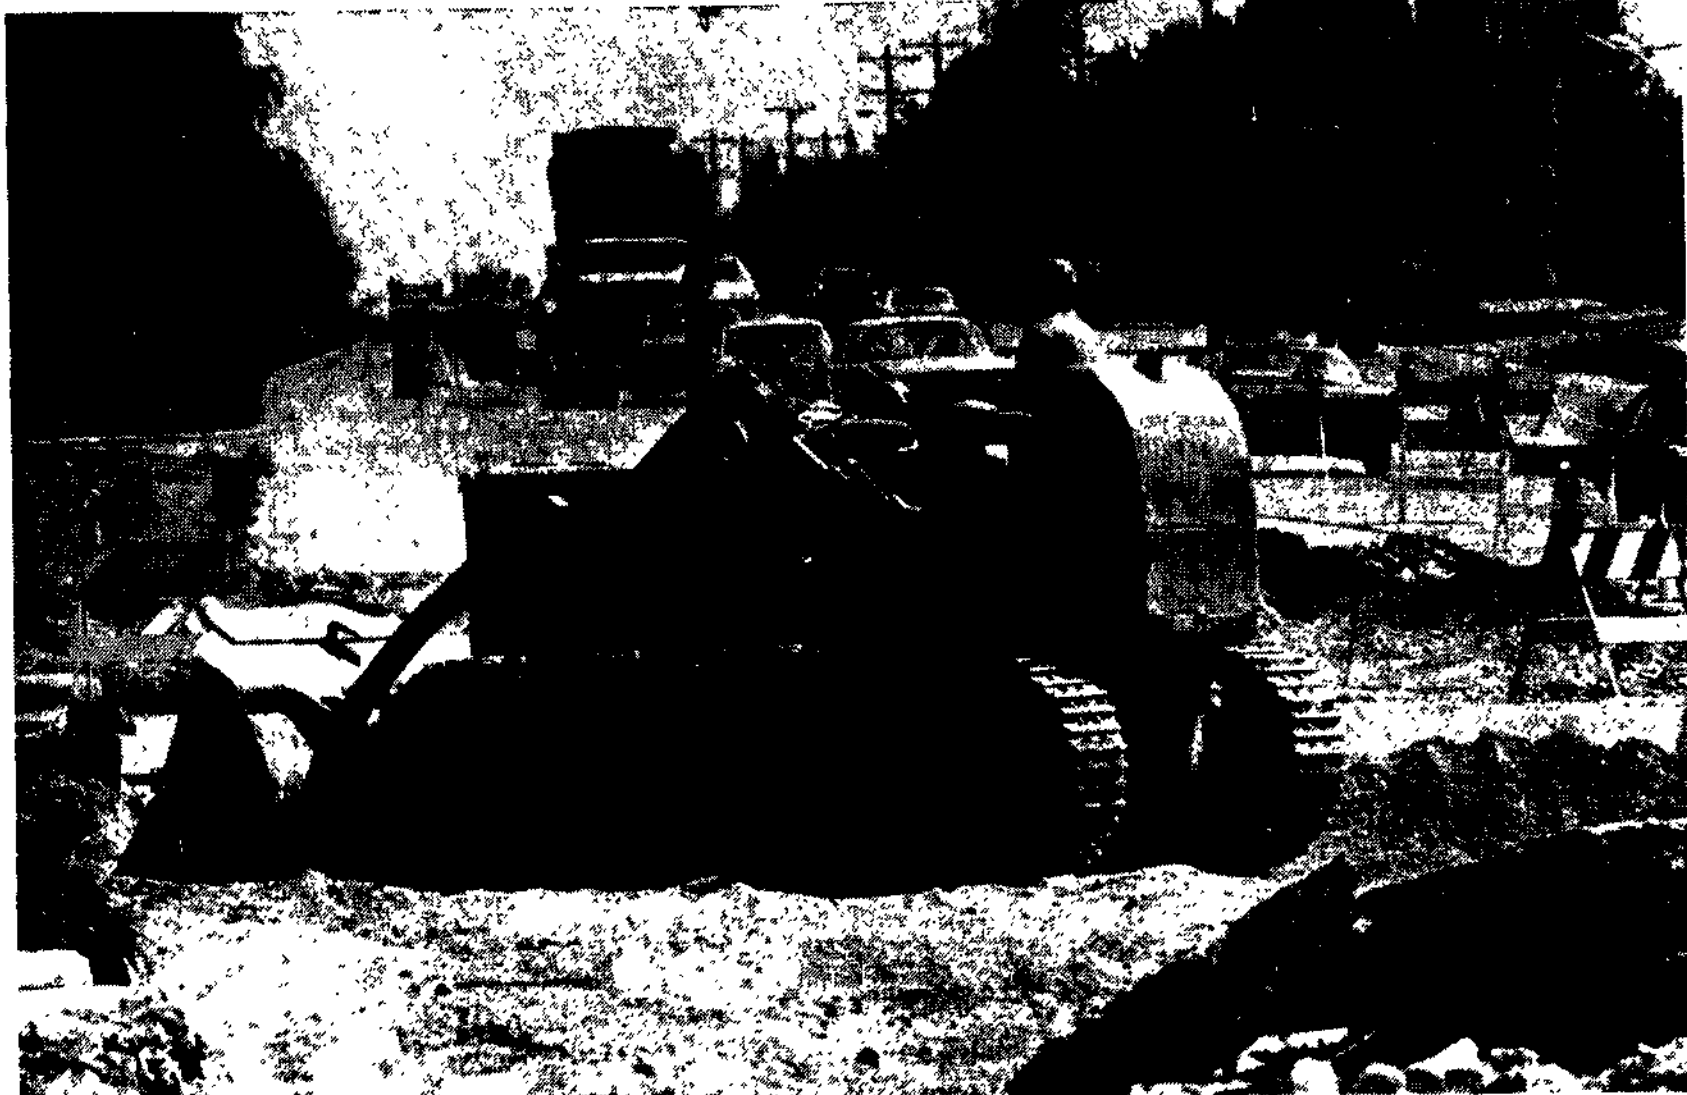

ON THE DAYS the students had some free time, two of the students, Fred Klink and Wayne Wille practiced their running. Both are members of track and cross country teams. Klink at Elk Grove High and Wille at Augustana College where he is a junior.

In England, the group met Scott Phillips, a tuba player who was unable to make the trip with the band. Instead, he and his parents went on a four-week tour of Europe on their own but managed to arrange a meeting with the group in Guildford, England.

Few of the students got sick on the trip, though a few got upset stomachs from the water. Peterson said. The weather was very good and exceptionally clear on day the band viewed the Alps, he added.

"Everywhere we went people spoke enough English for us to get by," Peterson said.

Asked if there would be another trip next year, he said he didn't think so but that there may be another in years to come.

INTO THE INTERSECTION, a bulldozer works on the Higgins Road improvement project at Roselle Road. Sections of the improved Higgins Road will be completed late this fall, an Illinois State Highway Department spokesman said yesterday. When fully completed in fall 1972, Higgins Road will be a four-lane divided highway between Meacham and Barrington roads. Allocation of funds and the completion of right-of-way acquisitions are needed before improvements are scheduled on the village also failed.

Deny Zoning For Hospital Complex

by PAT GERLACH

The idea of constructing a hospital on a 20-acre donated land site on Schaumburg Road suffered a fatal blow Tuesday night when village trustees voted to deny issuance of planned unit development (PUD) zoning to J. Emil Anderson & Sons for a hospital-medical-residential complex.

Since its formal presentation to the zoning board of appeals last February, the plan has been opposed by area residents primarily from Timbercrest subdivision which is near the site.

The idea has also been thought to stimulate hospital planning in several other nearby communities.

In extensive remarks to trustees preceding the vote, Mayor Robert O. Atcher spoke for approval of the PUD and made it clear that the idea of a hospital in central Schaumburg was his own and had been picked up by the developer more than four years ago.

TRACING THE history of the Anderson firm in Schaumburg and its history of close cooperation with village officials through the years, Atcher referred to J.

Emil Anderson & Sons responsibility for the creation of Woodfield Mall.

He noted that principals in the firm bought land when they were involved in industrial development and could have carried through with such a local project "but they saw our dream and recognized the need for a regional retail facility and were certainly helpful in bringing this about."

He said that since the inception of the Woodfield plan, the Anderson firm has acquired other properties in the immediate vicinity and has decided to develop these in line with an auxiliary center to the mall which will result in a total $200 million tax base for Schaumburg, its school districts and other taxing bodies.

The mayor has on several occasions asked trustees to mentally divorce themselves from the hospital concept in the PUD and consider the 37 per cent land donation being offered to the village.

Atcher stressed the fact that in all matters including the PUD in question the developer has concurred with the requests of the village.

"I FEEL that the integrity of this board is on the line and ask you to remember that once a developer gets zoning he can sell land to the highest bidder and that is not always the best quality firm."

"We want and we need his (Anderson's) cooperation and if your way of saying thanks for Woodfield is to treat him as though he is trying to do something wrong, you can point your finger at me," he said.

Also speaking against the PUD was Mrs. Jane Murphy, a Weathersfield resident interested in preserving the heavily wooded Sarah's Grove portion of the land involved.

Mrs. Murphy presented Atcher and the trustees with petitions against the project signed by 81 local residents and suggested that Anderson "develop an ecological conscience" regarding elimination of what experts say are "priceless specimens of trees."

Several trustees noticed that the PUD which would have included 567 townhouses and apartments in addition to the doctors' offices and hospital on the 57-acre total tract is not in keeping with guidelines for the requested zoning.

Several times during the discussion, it appeared that further postponement of the decision, suggested by the mayor,

Believe Teen's Death Due To Drug Overdose

A 17-year old Arlington Heights youth was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital early yesterday morning, the apparent victim of a drug overdose.

Dennis Grinnell, 1912 Spruce Terr., was found late Tuesday night motionless on his bedroom floor by his father, Richard.

Arlington Heights police do not know what type of drug killed Grinnell, a Wheeling High School student. A Cook County Coroner's office spokesman said an inquest into the death will be held in about two or three weeks.

Dennis is survived by his father, Richard; his mother, Evelyn; a brother, Jeffrey, 19; and a sister, Susan, 14. Visitation at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vail, Arlington Heights will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m.

ment, had left in May.

Blickle, now working for the Wheeling Public Library, said this week that he did not want to say anything until he could talk to Mrs. Schmidt, who has been out of town since last Tuesday.

BLICKLE DID say, however, that he left the library May 5 and submitted a resignation, which the board then asked him to resubmit.

"It said some things they didn't want to hear," he said. "I gave them something for the record. I was trying to be professional about it."

Blickle's resignation was not officially accepted by the board until its regular meeting in July.

Mrs. Joy, a library clerk full and part-time for 9½ years, was making $6,100 per year. Mrs. Homeyer, a full-time technical processor for 6½ years, and Mrs. Bussard, a library assistant in the reference department for six months, were making $7,000. Mrs. Stunkel, a processor for three years and acting children's librarian the past year was making $6,900.

Since the resignations began, Mrs. James had said she hired three persons, Ruth Griffith, a professional librarian for the post of children's librarian and Karen Kelly and Rheon Dolby.

Mrs. James refused to say recently what salaries would be recommended for the three women, saying the board will set the salaries at the next meeting.

Board president Robert Fleming has consistently refused to comment on any of the resignations or the reasons for them. Fleming could not be reached yesterday afternoon.

Community Service Eyes Psychiatrist

The Elk Grove Village Community Service and Mental Health Board will discuss a possible arrangement to have a part-time psychiatrist on its staff at the regular meeting today at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave. The board will also discuss the preliminary 1972 budget that must be submitted to the village board by Sept. 7, executive director Jordan Rosen said.

Negotiations have been going on between community service, a village-funded mental health and social service agency, and the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights, about the psychiatrist, Rosen said.

He said if a cooperative arrangement can be worked out with the Northwest Mental Health Center, community service may have a part-time psychiatrist available.

'Treasure Island'

"Treasure Island" will be shown at Grant Wood School as the Thursday night movie sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District at 7 o'clock today. The movie is the last in the series of weekly features.

Park District Investigates Drowning

An investigation into the drowning of a youth Monday at Kopp Pool in Mount Prospect is being conducted by Mount Prospect Park District officials.

A report on the incident will be made to park district commissioners Monday at a special meeting scheduled for 6:30 at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. The monthly meeting of the park board will follow at 8 p.m.

Kevin Kalita, 9, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead about 3:30 p.m. Monday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. He had been found unconscious with a cut on his head in about three feet of water about 30 minutes earlier by other swimmers.

Paul Caldwell, a park director, said the investigation began at the scene of the accident with the questioning of lifeguards on duty. An account of the incident given to park district officials and police by a woman witness will also be included in the report.

The woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, told police she saw the victim, who was running, slip at the east edge of the outdoor pool, hit his head and fall into the water. She said lifeguards were at his side "within a second or two."

According to police, the witness said she had warned the boy not to run in the pool area just before the incident occurred. She indicated he continued running, however.

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held in the matter, but no date has yet been set.

The pool where the drowning occurred is adjacent to Dempster Junior High School at 420 W. Dempster St. The drowning was the first to ever occur in a swimming pool operated by the Mount Prospect Park District.

NATIONAL TRAILS — Three years ago federal legislation was passed establishing the national Scenic and Recreation Trails System, shown above. The dark lines indicate nationally established trails, such as the Pacific Crest and Appalachian Trails. The dotted lines indicate trails under study now. A National Trails Symposium was held in Washington, D.C., this summer, at which a growing interest in trails was shown by many groups.

Seek Urban Trails Funds

The Council of Governments (COG) of Cook County and the Open Lands Project are currently seeking $15,000 in contributions to help pay for an urban trails master plan in Illinois.

The plan seeks to establish interlinking bicycle, hiking, canoe, horse and nature trails in northeastern Illinois, which was given a preliminary study by the groups during the last two years.

The master plan would: Pinpoint existing and potential trail sites; facilitate coordination between public and private agencies to develop linking trails; assist in the procuring of state and federal funds for land acquisition and development; provide detailed information for construction of trails; and develop a trails guide.

Estimated cost of the plan is $30,000, half of which could be obtained from federal sources.

Those who wish to make a donation may write to: Trails, Open Lands Project, 53 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill. 60604.

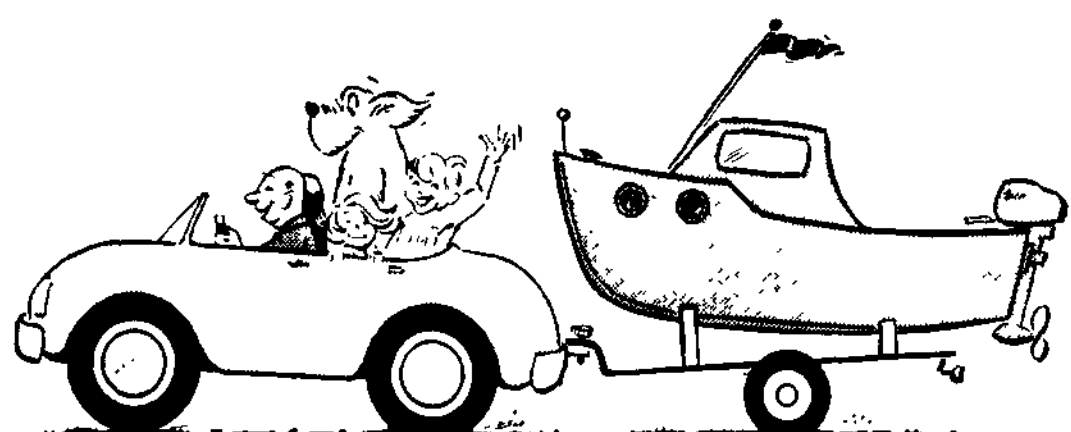

Last year the COG and the Project conducted a conference on trails in Chicago and it has led to national interest in a trails symposium.

The Illinois Prairie Path, which runs along the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin right-of-way, has been cited nationally as the best example of citizen work in establishing a trails resource.

In fact, the Prairie Path was praised as a prime example of a recreation trail at the national symposium on trails held in Washington, D.C., in June, under the sponsorship of the U.S. Dept. of Interior, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and the Open Lands Project.

In a speech at the symposium, Gunnar Peterson, executive director of the Project, said trails in and out of the city are necessary to establish a two-way line of "leading people out of the ghetto... and as a way of bringing the concern of suburbanites back into the heart of the city."

Smut Mail Complaints Down 41 Per Cent In Past Year

by ISABELLE HALL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount yesterday said complaints about obscene mail dropped 41 per cent in the fiscal year ended June 30.

A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service, meanwhile, estimated that the number of "major and persistent pornographic dealers" had been reduced from about three dozen to about one dozen.

In the 12 months, Blount said, 168,400 persons complained to the Postal Service about receiving unsolicited, obscene materials, well down from the 294,000 complaints received the previous year.

Other officials said 410,000 persons had taken advantage of a new law and added their names to a computerized list stating their objection to receiving "sexually oriented" advertisements.

This law took effect Feb. 1 and prohibits anyone from mailing obscene materials to a person on the list. It carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, but there have been no prosecutions.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Rep. Philip Crane

A group of about 75 teenagers heard a lecture last weekend which spelled out some of the basic tenets of the conservative political philosophy when they attended a seminar conducted by the Teen-Age Republicans and the Young Americans for Freedom.

The youngsters gathered at the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn for an all-day exercise in practical politics, organized by Steve Leewy, intern to Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Keynote speaker for the seminar was James Evans, president of the L. G. Evans Co., and an authority on the constitution of the Soviet Union.

Evans is the author of a book which espouses the conservative viewpoint, "The Glorious Quest," and he has a way of dramatizing some basic points which make them worth passing on.

TO ILLUSTRATE the advantages of free enterprise over government supervision, Evans asked the audience to consider itself a committee organized in 1871 to choose one project from five alternatives by which it could benefit the country.

The alternatives

1. Construction of a highway network which could accommodate movement of as many vehicles as necessary to any point in the country

2. Organization of a postal system which could assure prompt delivery of as much mail as needed from any point in the country to any other point

3. Creation of a system which would allow the human voice to be transmitted to any point in the world in a manner of minutes

4. Construction of a device which would allow transportation of hundreds of people from coast to coast in four hours

5. Creation of a device to transmit pictures instantaneously to anywhere in the world

EVANS POINTED out that in 1871 only the first two alternatives would even have been considered by the "committee" as the other three were still beyond imagination.

A hundred years later, he declared, radio, jet airplanes and television, all developed by free enterprise, have been perfected to a high degree while the highway and postal systems linger somewhere between inefficiency and chaos.

Pointing out that government spending and the national debt have grown beyond the comprehension of the people, he gave an example of what $1 billion — which has become the monetary unit people expect to hear about from government — really amounts to.

If you had, Evans explained, $1 billion in $1,000 bills on the day Christ was born, and you had been throwing away one bill a day since that time after 1,971 years, you would be down to $280 million — and would have 768 years to go.

These somewhat amusing points, however, were secondary to Evans' message to the young people.

"In political philosophy," Evans told them, "there is no place for a moderate."

"YOU MUST either accept that the role of government is to protect the God-given rights of the individual — or you must accept the idea that it is the government which itself extends these rights to men."

That, he pointed out, is the basic distinction between the constitutions of the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Russian constitution, he said, enumerates dozens of freedoms, guaranteed by the state, ranging from freedom of religion to guaranteed employment. The fact that few of these freedoms exist, he pointed out, is compatible with the constitution because a government which may extend a right may also withdraw it.

Government, he said, is simply another word for power "and power is what makes a dictator, whether he achieved it through a coup d'etat or a free election."

Citing James Madison's assertion that government should exercise only those powers over men that one man may exercise over another — such as self-defense — he questioned the right of the government to establish rules for compulsory union membership or compulsory Social Security.

HE TOLD THE teenagers he hoped they would use his ideas "as tools with which to question your teachers and your parents."

But, he added, "I would caution you to use them as questions, not as diatribes, and to use them with good humor and a little humility."

Frost, Gabinski Appointed To Area Plan Commission

Two Chicago aldermen have been appointed to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Wilson Frost, 34th Ward, has been named to a term expiring on Sept. 30, 1974, and Theris M. Gabinski, 32nd Ward, will serve until Sept. 30, 1973.

They are the two of the five appointments allotted to the mayor of Chicago under the legislative act which created NIPC in 1957 to coordinate regional planning in Cook, DuPage, Will, Kane, Lake and McHenry counties. There are 19 commissioners on the NIPC board.

Frost succeeds Ralph Metcalfe, who resigned when he was elected to Congress this year. Gabinski replaces James F. Ryan, a charter member of NIPC and

Morris To Head NIPC Transit Unit

John G. Morris, deputy commissioner of the Chicago Department of Environmental Control, has been named head of the transportation division of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

The appointment is effective August 1. Morris, a resident of Wheaton, will be dealing with transportation problems in Cook, DuPage, Lake, Will, Kane and McHenry Counties.

Morris was instrumental in formulating the development of air, water, noise and solid waste pollution control programs for Chicago's environmental control operations, according to NIPC.

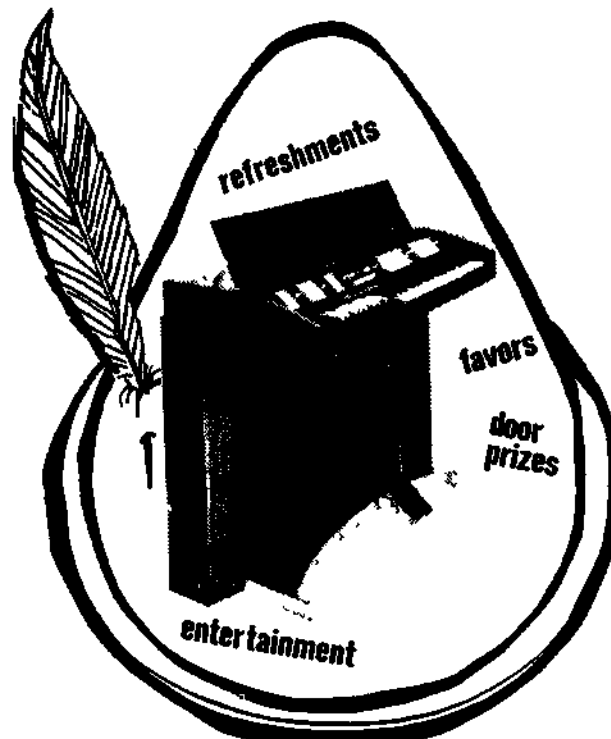

He is the former director of public works for Lake and DuPage counties where his principal duties centered around the development of countywide sewer systems. He was responsible for the development of DuPage County Airport, the fifth busiest in Illinois.

Morris has served as secretary to the Urban County Problems Council, a group comprised of members of the county boards of DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry, Will and Winnebago counties formed to define and seek legislation to meet the growth and development problems in downstate urban areas.

He is a guest lecturer for the University of Chicago Center for Urban Studies on Problems of Suburbia; he is married and the father of six children.

Sanitary District Big Area Landlord

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) is one of the biggest landholders in the Chicago area according to MSD President John E. Egan.

As a landlord MSD leases over 3,000 acres — over three square miles of land — in and around the Chicago area. At the present time it holds 215 agreements with private businesses and public agencies — 161 leases, 28 permits and 26 easements.

The gross annual income from the agreements amounts to more than $400,000, a sizeable savings to Chicago area taxpayers, according to MSD officials.

According to Nicholas J. Melas, chairman of the MSD real estate committee, the District enters into a land lease only when the property is not needed for MSD purposes.

Since 1962 only two leases have been made, as MSD leases are long term agreements for 50 years. The oldest lease on record is to Corn Products Company, issued January 1, 1908, and expiring December 31, 2006.

The leases include a provision for MSD to construct underground or overhead facilities on the leased property if necessary. Lease rentals are increased periodically to keep abreast of rising land values. Usage of the land varies from parking lots to co-op apartments.

PERMITS AND easement agreements are issued for a shorter period of time. Many permits are given for baseball diamonds and other recreational purposes to communities and non-profit organizations.

Many large firms, such as U.S. Steel, Union Carbide, Standard Oil and Union Oil lease MSD land. All firms must adhere to MSD's standards of maintaining a pollution and hazard-free lot.

Any violator is served a 90-day notice of lease termination. Several tenants have lost leases, but trustee Melas reports most companies remedy problems rather than losing the lease.

Most of the land the MSD leases is along the 57 miles of waterway under MSD jurisdiction.

Since 1963, leases have been granted to the highest responsible bidder after public notice of bidding. Minimum rentals are established and the bidders submit sealed bids which are opened publicly.

The MSD also leases about one-third of its 6,900 acres in Fulton County to farmers and to Fulton County for farming and recreation.

FBI Nabs 25 For Gambling In 9 States

The FBI has announced the arrests of 25 persons in nine states in what the attorney general and the director of the FBI called a "major crackdown" against organized interstate gambling.

The Chicago FBI office said that those persons under indictment on gambling charges would be brought before a magistrate as quickly as possible.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in Washington, said the alleged interstate gambling was a multimillion-dollar business.

Hoover said the arrests were made in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, California and Oklahoma. He said seven other persons were being sought.

Hoover said the arrests culminated an extensive investigation conducted in cooperation with the Justice Department's organized crime strike force in Chicago.

Those arrested had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago. They were charged with violating federal laws that prohibit the operation of an illegal gambling business and/or the use of interstate telephone facilities for bookmaking involving the acceptance of wagers on sporting events and horse races, the exchange of betting line information, and the laying of bets.

Penalties for the violations range up to five years in prison and a fine of $20,000.

DDT Use May Be Ended By March, Officials Say

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's drawn-out move to eliminate all but "essential" uses of DDT from the American scene finally is grinding into its final stages. It may be complete, officials now say, by March, 1972.

Spokesmen for the Environmental Protection Agency announced here last week that a public hearing on cancellation of registrations for all remaining uses of DDT will begin Tuesday in suburban Arlington, Va.

Officials said 123 witnesses already are scheduled to appear at the hearings, which may take about four months to complete. With testimony running nearly to the end of the year, EPA aides believe it will be March of next year before they can review the vast mass of material and prepare final rulings on all the DDT uses.

EVEN THEN, there is at least a possibility of further delay in imposing bans on remaining DDT uses. Any manufacturer who disagrees with EPA's ruling on his product will have the right to appeal to the federal courts.

DDT, the first of the modern generation of synthetic organic pest killers, had been introduced in the United States during World War II. For years, until environmentalists began campaigning against its use because of residue build-ups in wildlife and man, it ranked as one of the most effective, versatile and cheapest tools ever developed to fight insect pests.

Over the past decade, however, DDT use began dropping. Farmers and other users began turning to newer chemicals as some insect species developed resistance to DDT. Later the government began canceling permits for a number of specific uses on environmental grounds.

Income Figures A Mystery

by LEON SHURE

Des Plaines Ald. Robert Hinde (4th) and Public Works Commissioner Joseph Schwab yesterday said their sons were told by the Illinois State Employment Service (IES) only to obtain signatures of their parents on poverty job applications and not to answer questions about family income levels.

Both officials, whose sons and three other youths were dropped last week from the federal anti-poverty Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) program that provided partial salaries for their summer jobs with the city, said they were never told that the program is limited to low-income families.

E. F. Callaway, manager of the local IES office at 601 Lee St., Des Plaines, yesterday refused to confirm or deny that someone in his office inserted incorrect income figures on the poverty job applications of the officials' sons.

Callaway also refused to comment on declarations by the two city officials that an IES interviewer told their sons they did not have to fill out the sections of the applications pertaining to income.

Callaway's refusal to confirm or deny that the incorrect income figures came from his office, followed a statement Tuesday by an IES official in Chicago that the income figures were not inserted by anyone in the IES.

The question of who inserted those figures on the NYC job applications has not been answered since the Herald first disclosed last week that the five Des Plaines youths each were receiving weekly checks of $37 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity (CCOEO) as part of their pay for jobs with the city.

THE YOUTHS were Hinde's son, Thomas; Schwab's son, Steven; John Thomas, son of Ald. Howard Thomas (6th); John Leer III, son of former alderman John Leer; and Stephen Holmbeck, another youth whose father is not connected with the city.

In each case, parents of the youths have said they were not told the NYC is for poverty-stricken families or have not been available for contact. The parents deny inserting the incorrect income figures on the NYC applications.

The CCOEO first suspended payments, began an investigation, then demanded repayment of the funds after it determined that all the families involved have incomes above the federal poverty level — $4,400 for a family of four, $5,000 for a family of five, $5,600 for a family of six.

The CCOEO determined that the youths had become eligible — not through intent to defraud — but through error, lack of communications, ignorance and misunderstanding, CCOEO spokesmen said Tuesday.

Clyde Brooks, CCOEO head of the NYC program, said his responsibility in the investigation only extended to determining if the families earned more than the federal poverty level, and he would not comment about possible mistakes at the IES.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel has said the city should pay the $1,200 back to the CCOEO, because he thinks the youths would not have gotten involved "in the comedy of errors" if the city had not asked them to apply to the NYC program, Behrel said.

wife and by Schwab, indicate that both officials make about $4,000 a week — a figure which they say is absurd and obviously not inserted by them or members of their families.

Brooks had told the Herald that the figures of $4,000 shown on each of the five applications were yearly, not weekly incomes — which would have indicated that the families were below the federal poverty level.

Brooks said yesterday that this does not matter, because in his investigation, he had verified the parental signatures on the application for the federal anti-poverty funds.

"It's like a blank signed check. Everything that is written on the application, even if it wasn't written by the parent himself, is that parent's responsibility," Brooks said.

Young Have A Message: DAV Leader

DETROIT (UPI) — Cecil W. Stevenson, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans DAV said Tuesday that perhaps "the plastic and chromium world that you and I fought for" may not be as ideal as many would like to think.

He urged members of the DAV at the organization's 50th annual national convention to listen to the legitimate views and demands of the young veteran, and not to be prejudiced against him by his personal appearance or tastes.

Noting "the significant absence of young veterans in our ranks," and suggesting that looking for "the man behind the beard" would help the DAV recruit young veterans, Stevenson said:

"I challenge every one of you to join with me in a person-to-person crusade to see that these young men, these children of the DAV get the help they need to make their house a good one — of their own design."

STEVENSON, 45, a postal service employee and farmer from Jonesboro, Ark., asked his approximately 1,500 listeners to remember "that youth always rebels; that it has a responsibility to rebel. If it did not, there would be no change, no progress."

James F. Oates Jr., national chairman of the Jobs for Veterans program, told the convention that until about 10 months ago the nation in effect had told veterans they did not belong.

Recent federal, state, and individual programs, however, had decreased the number of unemployed veterans aged 20 to 29 from 10.8 per cent in the first quarter of the year to 8.5 per cent in the second quarter. That gave rise to "modest optimism," he said.

"NO, I'M not hot...I'm looking for Little Red Riding Hood."

On Dean's List

A Wittenberg University junior from Arlington Heights has been named to the dean's list for the winter term of the 1970-71 academic year.

She is Sally Yeazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Yeazel, 511 S. Beverly.

The dean's list honors fulltime students at Wittenberg who earn academic averages of 3.66 or better (4.0 is straight "A").

Resurfacing Of O'Hare Interchange May Be Done Early

FREE AT LAST? The massive jamups which have plagued motorists traveling near O'Hare field were expected to dissolve by the end of the week.

Temperatures may take a nosedive this weekend if the hopes of the state highway department come true. The heat plunge — in both drivers' minds and automobile radiators' temperatures — may come about if a two-mile spur from the Kennedy Expressway in and out of O'Hare Field is opened ahead of schedule this weekend.

Charles McClean, regional operations engineer for the state highway department, said yesterday resurfacing of the spur may be completed as early as tomorrow afternoon.

The resurfacing, only part of the massive project to improve the Kennedy and Day Ryan expressways this summer, has caused monumental traffic jams near the airport and along the intersecting Tri-State Tollway.

Although McClean said, "We're aiming for a weekend completion," he explained he couldn't pinpoint exactly when the road could be fully reopened. "They told us this weekend," McClean said, "And we're hoping that means before Friday afternoon."

The engineer also said his department hoped to open a portion of the westbound Kennedy from the Tri-State toll plaza to O'Hare late yesterday.

THE BOTTLENECK around O'Hare has been compounded by resurfacing work being done on the exit ramps from the Tri-State onto the Kennedy.

Wally Schulz, an engineer with the tollway authority said the northbound exit ramp has been narrowed from three lanes to one since the resurfacing project started, with the southbound ramp squeezing from four lanes eventually into one lane into O'Hare. "There's nowhere to go," Schulz said.

sengers missing their flights.

John McCorkle, a spokesman for Eastern Airlines, said, "Undoubtedly we've lost some passengers, but my impression of the inconvenience is that it has not resulted in a wholesale missing of flights."

He explained that flight crews have enough "cushion" built into their reporting times that the congestion has "not jeopardized flight departure."

The expected relief to motorists may be short-lived, however.

Schulz explained the tollway authority has contracts out for various tollway repairs. He said the work has been delayed because of the surrounding jam-ups. Schulz said the work is planned along the Tri-State roughly from the East-West Expressway to the Northwest Tollway.

"As soon as the state finishes its work around O'Hare and on the Kennedy, we will start our work," Schulz said.

Critically Injured In Fall

A Des Plaines man was critically injured Tuesday evening when he fell down a flight of stairs in his home and was crushed by a refrigerator he was moving.

Injured was Donald Kass, 29, of 325 N Fifth Ave.

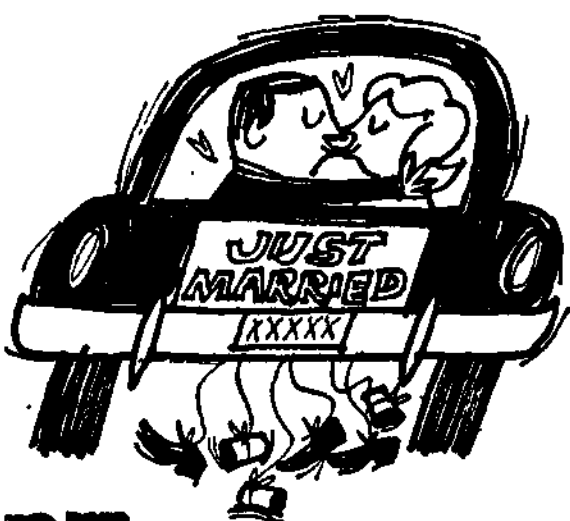

Kass was admitted to the intensive care unit at Holy Family Hospital in critical condition shortly after the accident, which occurred about 8 p.m.

A spokesman at the hospital said Kass suffered a possible fractured skull and broken neck. Police said Kass had several cuts on his arms and head and possibly a broken left arm and leg.

The accident was reported to police by a friend of Kass, Jerry Selep, of 3852 W. Wabansia Ave., Chicago, who said he and Kass were moving a refrigerator up a flight of stairs from the basement of Kass' home.

Selep said Kass apparently slipped and fell down the stairs with the refrigerator on top of him.

Astronauts Slowly Recover

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Apollo 15's astronauts have taken longer than all previous moonflight crewmen to regain their strength after their long exposure to weightlessness.

Dr. Charles A. Berry reported that the hearts and circulatory systems of David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin had almost returned to normal by Tuesday night — 72 hours after their 12-day expedition ended.

In the past, Apollo astronauts were back to normal within 50 hours after splashdown, but Scott, Worden and Irwin have taken at least half again as long to readapt.

WHEN THE body is exposed to the lack of gravity for several days, the heart does not have to work as hard and it quickly adapts to the new environment. The problem is that it must readapt to the rigors of gravity when man returns home. At first the heart beats faster than normal during rest periods and man cannot do the same amount of work for a specific heart rate and oxygen intake that he could do before launch.

The American spaceflight record is 14 days, carried out by Gemini 7 in 1965. Russian cosmonauts have reported more severe effects after 18 days in space.

New Acting Director Named

Cecil Lue-Hing has joined the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) as acting director of the Department of Research and Development.

The announcement was made by Ben Sosewitz, general superintendent. Lue-Hing will replace David Lordi, who will become chief of research and laboratories.

Lue-Hing attended the University of the West Indies, Marquette University, Case Institute of Technology and Washington University. He holds a doctor of science degree, an M.S. in sanitary engineering and a Sc.D. in environmental and sanitary engineering.

Before joining the MSD, Lue-Hing served as assistant vice president for Tyckman, Edgerly, Tomlinson and Associates. He has had experience in environmental engineering and research, industrial hygiene, ecological engineering and research, engineering management and scientific and medical research.

Busing Only A 'Last Resort,' Nixon Declares

by HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House yesterday said President Nixon has warned federal officials they face dismissal if they order busing except as a last resort to desegregate schools.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the President opposes busing because "he doesn't think school children should be placed in buses and driven 40 minutes away from their homes."

However, he added, the administration would "carry out the law of the courts" and did not foresee "moving to a complicated procedure of overturning" the Supreme Court's ruling which upheld busing as a legal means of achieving a racial balance in schools.

"There are cases where district courts will rule a certain amount of busing is required," said Ziegler. "In those instances the law will be followed."

But he said "the President does not favor extensive use of busing. Therefore, even if it is determined by a school district that it should be used, it should be used to a minimum."

At Nixon's direction, Secretary Elliot Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare asked Congress last week to prohibit state and local governments from spending any money from a special desegregation fund on busing for desegregation purposes.

Earns Degree

David Scott Richey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Richey, 318 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, was among 126 men having completed major academic requirements for the bachelor of arts degree at Westminster College.

While a student at Westminster College, Richey majored in sociology/psychology and was active in student events. A member of the Delta Tau Delta social fraternity, he was active in the college's ROTC department. During the Commencement ROTC Commissioning Ceremony, Richey was given the oath of office by his father and commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve. He was a graduate of Arlington High School prior to entering Westminster College.

The Lighter Side

Growing Cucumbers? Say Something Nice Or Say Nothing

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earlier this summer I wrote a column about a man who tells jokes to tomato plants to test whether they have a sense of humor.

Since then I have learned that the question of whether plants have emotions has inspired a number of other experiments.

For instance, when I was in Oklahoma on a speaking trip recently, a lady told me she had some cucumber vines that were drooping rather badly.

After reading of the tomato tickling project, she tried to revitalize the cucumbers by talking to them each time she watered them. But they died anyway.

"What did you say to them?" I asked. "I told them to 'shape up or ship out.'"

THAT, OBVIOUSLY, was the wrong thing to have said to a cucumber.

Despite their rough exteriors, cucumbers are extremely sensitive and get their feelings hurt rather easily. They would never respond to an ultimatum of that sort.

You might be able to bullyrag a butterbean bush, but a good rule of thumb when growing cucumbers is: If you can't say something nice, don't say anything.

This is the danger of dealing with plants on an emotional basis. You never quite know what to say to them.

Some day the seed catalogs may carry instructions for perking up plants psychologically. Pending additional research, however, proceed at your own risk.

As a substitute for verbal stimulation, you might want to try playing a record album titled "Music to Grow Plants."

Its producers claim the sound waves will cause tiny apertures in the plant leaves to remain open longer, thus increasing the intake of carbon dioxide and other goodies from the air.

AS I UNDERSTAND it, however, the music was composed primarily to appeal to African violets, which, as you may know, are great Lawrence Welk fans.

Plants of that temperament may very well be turned on by the album. But if you happen to be growing plants that are botanical swinger-orchids, for example, you might do better to expose them to Three Dog Night or some other rock group.

Also bear in mind that some plants tend to be rather moody. Exposure to a jazz number when they are in a sentimental mood could leave them emotionally disturbed.

And when you've got a neurotic carnation on your hands, you've got problems.

Watch That Discarded Refrigerator

Discarded and abandoned refrigerators are more than dangerous — they are illegal if they are not disposed of properly.

The Illinois State Bar Association (ISBA) notes that anyone discarding a refrigerator or an ice box in an area where children can get to it must alter it so that it cannot be opened or shut by a latch. The law applies to all refrigerators, ice boxes or ice chests of one and a half cubic feet or more.

And it isn't just the owner of the abandoned unit who faces legal action. The ISBA warns that anyone who allows the unit to remain in that dangerous condition on any property he owns, rents or manages similarly faces liability under the law. Penalty for violating the law — either by abandoning the unit improperly or by allowing it to remain on your property — is up to 30 days in jail and a $50 fine.

To discard a refrigerator properly, the door should be removed completely. If that is not possible, it should be fixed so the door cannot close.

The 1953 law was enacted after a rash of deaths of young children who had climbed into old refrigerators only to have the doors close on them locking them in and turning their summertime playground into a deathtrap.

Veterans' News

A veteran's mobile home and a lot to put it on can now be purchased with a "G.I." loan. John B. Naser, director, VA regional office reminded Illinois veterans.

The Veterans Administration official points out that loans up to $10,000 can be guaranteed on a mobile home purchase by a qualified veteran, and up to $17,500 can be approved if both a lot and a mobile home are purchased.

VA guarantees up to 30 per cent of the loan on purchases that meet VA specifications, it was noted.

The current interest rate on mobile homes is 10.75 per cent. On the lot and permanent improvement, the interest rate is 7 per cent, the same as the current rate for loans on conventional homes.

Mobile homes purchased with VA guaranteed loans must be at least 40 feet long and 10 feet wide. Lots must meet VA standards with regard to location and utilities, Naser explained.

Steps for would-be purchasers include: 1) applying to VA for a certificate of eligibility, 2) checking VA minimum specifications, 3) locating a mobile home that meets these specifications, 4) settling details for rental or purchase of a site, and 5) applying for a loan through a commercial lender. The lender will follow through to obtain VA approval of the individual loan. VA approval carries with it the 30 per cent guarantee, Naser said.

VA is permitted to guarantee home loans. (Including loans on mobile homes) for all Post Korean and Vietnam veterans and servicemen with at least 181 days of active service, provided any part of the active service was after Jan. 31, 1965. Also eligible are World War II and Korean Conflict veterans with over 90 days service, provided they have not previously used their loan eligibility.

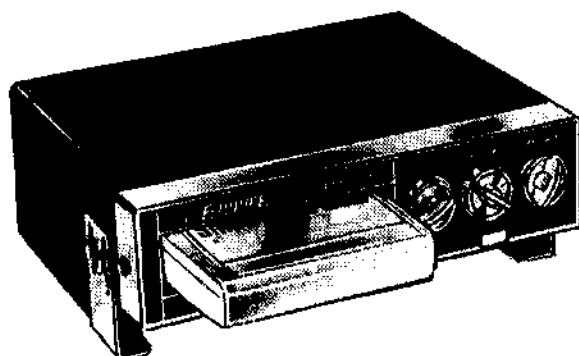

Widows of veterans are eligible also, and so are wives of Armed Forces personnel who are missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days.

Service disabled veterans are eligible without regard to length of service, Naser noted.

Mini-Bikes Kill Many Children, Government Warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "More and more young children are going to be killed unless they and their parents recognize the dangers involved in the use of mini-bikes," the government said today.

In a strongly-worded warning to parents, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said more than 1,500,000 mini-bikes — most of them operated by children between the ages of 10 and 14 years old — will be in use by the end of 1971.

"While off-street riding under parental supervision can be a safe and popular recreation, the mini-bike becomes a high-risk vehicle on sidewalks and roadways. The agency categorically opposes all use of mini-bikes on sidewalks or streets," the advisory said.

Usually powered by a one-cylinder engine with five or less horsepower, the two-wheeled mini-bikes have a top speed of 25 to 45 miles an hour. No license is required and the bikes are designed for off-the-street use.

THE AGENCY SAID the federal government has no power to restrict mini-bikes. "The problem is one of state regulation, but the clear responsibility is on parents in preventing the inevitable tragedies that may result when mini-bikes are turned over to drivers as young as 7, 8, or 10 years old," it said.

The states do not keep statistics on deaths or injuries resulting from min-bike accidents, but "the government, the National Safety Council, and the safety community, are convinced the problem is serious, a spokesman for the agency said.

The agency said mini-bikes are "noted for poor handling characteristics because of their short wheel base and small tires." The engines fail to provide needed acceleration for highway driving and they are difficult for other drivers to spot because of their small size, it said.

Q—I WILL be 72 next month and I am still working. I know that I can collect my full social security payments and still keep on working after my 72nd birthday. But will my employer also stop deducting social security tax out of my weekly pay checks starting next month?

A—No. Regardless of your age, as long as you continue to work in employment covered by social security you pay social security taxes.

Q—I WORK in a day care center operated by my church. Since my work is not covered under social security, I do not pay social security taxes to the program. Can I voluntarily pay into social security so I will be able to get monthly payments at 62?

A—No. You cannot voluntarily pay tax to social security to build up credit toward monthly payments under social security. There is a way for employees of non-profit religious organizations to get social security coverage. For full details, contact any social security office.

Q—I AM 66 and collect monthly social security retirement payments. But I also work part-time during the year. How often should I ask the social security office to refigure my payments based on additional earnings to see if I am due an increase in my checks?

A—You do not have to request the social security office to refigure your social security payments. This is done automatically each year.

Hit Guards For Outbreak At Prison

CHICAGO (UPI) — The John Howard Association said Tuesday that "old line" guards may have helped provoke a major disorder at Stateville Penitentiary in Joliet last June in hopes of ousting the new prison administration. The association is a prison advisory group.

On June 25 more than 200 inmates at a softball game and 12 guards were involved in a "hand to hand confrontation," the association said, and because of resulting tensions 1,500 of the 2,000 prison inmates spent the next three weeks in their cells.

The association, in a statement, said that after interviews with about 125 inmates and staff members, it was satisfied that the controversial "mass lockup of inmates was essential to prevent a possible major disturbance."

In trying to pinpoint a cause for the tension and disorder the association focused on "resistance to change" by some "old line" prison employees.

These employees were chaffing over changes they regarded as "soft treatment" by the administration of new Warden John Twomey, the report said.

"NUMEROUS INMATES said they felt certain staff are trying to provoke incidents which would lead to a major disturbance or riot in order to get rid of the present administration," the association reported.

"No staff member would say outright that other staff were trying to provoke an incident, but they did verify that incidents in the institution are being caused, to a large extent, by poor staff handling," the association said.

The report also said inmates recognize the staff dissension and are trying to take advantage of it.

"Harassment and 'riding' of inmates by certain staff, along with expressed racial feelings, characterize the practices of certain staff who keep the institution 'in a stew,'" the association said.

"Some officers will have to recognize that they get only as much respect as they earn," it added.

Other common prisoner complaints, the association said, were poor food and poor communication between prisoners and the prison administration. Major recommendations by the association were for increased staff salaries in order to attract more qualified personnel and improved screening and training of employees.

Rare Bone Cancer Has Taught Her Love

Young Mother Is Facing Death With A Smile

DENVER (UPI) — Lyn Helton's brown eyes started a smile that spread down her face and her words were soft and happy. "I've learned how to love people. I'm not afraid to say, 'Hey, I love you.'"

She is a teen-aged wife and mother of an 18-month-old daughter. She also is dying.

Lyn Helton, "19, almost 20," has a rare bone cancer that will kill her, perhaps within months, according to doctors. But she said she is happy.

"Being this close to death, I realize how important it is to love everything I can. I think death is sort of beautiful," she said.

Lyn, her husband Tom, a photographer and musician, and her daughter Jennifer, share a three-room, $97-a-month apartment.

"MY WHOLE outlook has changed," said Lyn. "I've just matured a lot faster than I would have normally. I realize things that probably would have taken years to realize — things like caring for and respecting people."

She is writing a book — "a kind of autobiography" — in which she will describe her thoughts of death. "I'm trying to get across how it feels to be dying and raising children at the same time," she said.

Last month, a boy, perhaps 9 or 10, broke into her apartment and stole the tape recorder and tapes she used for dictating her thoughts on death. She pleaded publicly for the thief to return them, but he never did. So a new recorder was donated and again she is working on her book.

"I've read lots of articles about people who have had cancer and lived. But readers get a false impression from this," she said. "I've never read an article by someone who is dying. I think if I'd seen something like that it would have helped me get through a lot of emotional pain."

Lyn said her husband has learned to face her death just as she has. "He's really mellow. His philosophy is take it as it comes. He's accepted it very well."

BUT HER daughter is another matter. "Jennifer knows there is something wrong with me. Sometimes — I don't know why, it's very strange — she'll cry when she sees my crutches," the young mother said.

Lyn first learned she had osteosarcoma shortly after her child was born. She already has lost the use of one leg and must walk on crutches. She said the treatments were more difficult to face than the disease. So she stopped receiving them.

"For me, mentally, the drugs were worse than having the disease," she said. "I would rather die in a shorter length of time with a happy state of mind than take the drugs and be unhappy and mentally deficient."

Insists New York Is Governable

Mayor John Lindsay Has Seen It All

In 1965, when he ran for mayor of New York, John Vliet Lindsay pictured himself as "fresh" while everyone else was "tired."

Four years later, campaigning for reelection, his slogan has become, "It's the second toughest job in America." Much had happened in between.

In the five and one half years he has occupied City Hall, Lindsay has faced a succession of crises. And it is the mayor who generally gets blamed for anything that goes wrong.

But for John Lindsay, there is irony in New York's troubles. While he is far from the most popular man among city residents, he has emerged nationally as a spokesman for the cities.

"The crisis of urban America today is such that there is clearly a need for reorientation of priorities in the country," Lindsay has said. "The most serious domestic issue, and therefore possibly the most serious international issue that faces the country, is the deterioration of the American cities."

LINDSAY HAS seen it all. On Jan. 1, 1966, the day he officially became mayor, the city's subway and bus workers struck.

Since then, the sanitation workers have walked off the job, with Lindsay branded a strikebreaker for asking Gov. Nelson

A. Rockefeller to call out the National Guard he was rebuffed; teachers struck for more than a month in what developed into a racial confrontation over the administration of ghetto schools with Lindsay accused by some whites of siding with the blacks; firemen staged a job action and policemen a full-fledged strike; fuel deliverers struck in the middle of winter; and last June drawbridges were left open and sewage and incinerator plants unmanned over a pension dispute.

Meanwhile, crime and narcotics addiction rose, welfare rolls got larger, housing became more expensive and in short supply, the subway system has been off and on called a nightmare, and people have been asked to "save a watt" because electricity is in short supply.

BUT LINDSAY has also been praised for his actions at times in the face of disaster. When inmates at the overcrowded Manhattan House of Detention held guards hostage, he took a calculated risk by demanding in a dramatic radio address that the prisoners free the hostages in a half-hour. They did.

When Harlem erupted with the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., Lindsay walked its streets at night. The image of the tall, 6-foot 4-inches, handsome mayor, tie askew and jacket over his shoulder, walking the streets of the slums to cool things is a familiar one.

Lindsay's administration has been relatively scandal-free, with the exception of the jailing of his water commissioner, James Marcus, in a kickback case.

Through it all, Lindsay has insisted the city is governable. He has tried to run it with a fusion government, new managerial techniques and a dispersion of power.

To much of the country, he represents the glamor of New York. A patron of the arts and frequent first-nighter at Broadway shows, the mayor once did off-stage narration for the play "John Brown's Body" and portrayed a congressman on television in a production with Lee Remick and Peter Lawford.

The blond, athletic-looking Lindsay, whose trimness belies his 49 years, also hosts his own weekly television show.

Lindsay and his wife, Mary, a Vassar graduate, have four children, Mrs. Katharine Schaffer, 20; Margaret, 18, Anne, 15, and John Jr., 10.

THE SON of a Manhattan investment broker, Lindsay pursued the path followed by many a member of the so-called eastern Republican establishment.

After graduating from Yale Law School, he entered private practice in New York and began to dabble in GOP politics. He became president of the New York Young Republican Club and in 1962 headed Youth for Eisenhower.

In 1968, overcoming a heavily Democratic enrollment, he was elected to Congress from Manhattan's "Silk Stocking" district on the upper East Side. He won three more terms with steadily increasing margins, taking the district in 1964 with 71 per cent of the vote while repudiating his party's presidential candidate, Barry Goldwater. He was an early critic of the Vietnam War.

Elected New York's 103rd mayor as a Republican-Liberal in November, 1965, he bested Abraham Beame, the competent but colorless Democratic controller, and Conservative party candidate William F. Buckley Jr.

Becoming too liberal for some members of his own party, Lindsay was challenged in the June, 1969, Republican mayoral primary by State Sen. John Marchi of Staten Island. Lindsay lost by some 6,000 votes and was forced to run in November as a Liberal and Independent. He won with only 41 per cent of the vote.

Head Start Needs Workers

Three teachers, one teacher's aide and one secretary are needed for the Northwest Suburban Head Start program, a nursery school-related program for preschool children from low-income families.

One teacher each is needed at the Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Palatine Head Start centers. Applicants should have had some experience in child care and child development.

The teacher aide needed would be a para professional who could assist a teacher at one of the Head Start centers.

Applicants for the secretarial position should possess typing and general office skills. The secretary would work in the Head Start administration office at the Pioneer Park pavilion in Arlington Heights.

Persons interested in any of the positions should contact Head Start director Rocco Paolini at 394-9390, for an application form. The positions will be available on Sept. 1. Salary will be based on experience.

Teachers Push Wage Demands

There's an economic recession on, but you'd never guess it if you examined the crisis in salary negotiations in the Northwest suburbs.

Once again, as in the past two or three years, several districts are facing the possibility of teacher strikes. In each of the troubled districts, there's considerable distance to go before an agreement is reached.

It is, of course, difficult to generalize about the problems in districts, as each has specific issues and problems which have hampered the conclusion of negotiations.

However, as a general rule districts are facing teacher requests for considerably more money than they can afford. Teachers are seeking substantial increases when the public and the state legislature is saying "no" to more money for education.

A wage increase of six or seven per cent for example, does not sound extravagant, especially in this age of inflation and substantial wage settlements in other fields.

In the past, teachers have deserved sizable increases, as for many years they were not paid living wages. Part of the reason for their financial security today has been their realization that tough negotiating was necessary.

Today, school boards and administrators are on the defensive. A beginning teacher today earns $7,000 or $8,000 for ten months of work. After three years, the teacher is tenured and virtually assured of permanent employment — regardless of whether the teaching ability improves or declines.

Thus, today the comfortable tenured teachers are haggling for a substantial salary increase, while paradoxically a large number of young college graduates can't find a starting teaching job.

The increased pressure for more money is a nationwide trend. In Illinois, the Illinois Education Association (IEA) has developed Uniserv, which funnels skilled negotiators to local associations to do battle with school boards.

So, the negotiating process slows as the board, armed with its negotiators, and the teachers realize they are involved in a complex and difficult process. Many other issues, such as working conditions and fringe benefits, make settlement difficult.

However, the board's role is not simply that of an antagonist on one side of the bargaining table. Its responsibilities rest ultimately with the public which has elected it.

That public, if we are to judge the number of referenda which have been voted down recently, is saying "no" to more money for teachers. A school board has some freedom to increase salaries for teachers even if a referendum is defeated, but teachers must recognize the substantial increases are out of the question this year.

Beyond that, teachers have their own public image to be concerned about, as well as their pocketbooks or wallets. If greed becomes the apparent sole concern of teachers, whatever financial gains teachers have made will be worthless. Just ask any taxpayer.

Don't Write 'Em Off

It was once believed, in a less enlightened time, that women were different from men — less aggressive, less prone to criminal behavior, the "gentle sex."

One fruit of the continuing liberation of women from male chauvinist enslavement is the exposure of this old myth. And as the Shadow used to say, it's bitter fruit.

Crime statistics from all over the nation indicate the female rate for most offenses is not only rising but is rising faster than the male rate.

FBI figures show that between 1960 and 1969, male arrests for major crimes rose 61.3 per cent. For female, the increase was 156.2 per cent. Among juveniles, the figures were 78.2 per cent for males and 211.8 per cent for females.

The girls are just catching up to the boys, apparently. The opportunity to commit crimes has always been more open to men than to women, explains Prof. Gene Kassembaum, a University of Hawaii sociologist.

"Just as there were more job opportunities open to men, even where women were equally qualified, it was also true for criminal opportunities. A perfectly well-qualified girl was discriminated against if she wanted to be a car thief. No one taught her how."

Says Prof. Marvin Wolfgang of the Criminology Research Center at the University of Pennsylvania:

"As women become more involved in what have traditionally been masculine roles, one might assume that the more protective qualities of the culture which kept them in a feminine, passive role will dissipate, if not disappear. Women could become more aggressive personalities."

Ah, liberation. Ah, equality.

Still A Nickel

Wapakoneta, Ohio, is one of the few places in the nation — maybe the only place — where you can still make a nickel pay phone call.

It's actually a matter of pride with the local telephone company. A spokesman recently stated that no increase is planned. In fact, they hope to be able to maintain the low rate at least until 1988. This would mark a full century of nickel phone service.

They must really be behind the time in Wapakoneta, you say?

Maybe so — except that the western Ohio community also happens to be the hometown of Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon.

Brad Brekke's Column

'Teeney-Bopper' Truckers

They are the biggest machines on the road.

Monsters on wheels, they stand 96-inches wide, weigh more than 73,000 pounds, and when they're rolling down the highway at 75 miles-an-hour, brother you better watch out.

Because if you don't, they might run you down. Or at least run you off.

And there are hundreds of these steel rigs, fed with diesel and rolled by rubber, scrambling, tailgating and bullying their way through traffic in the Northwest suburbs every day.

I'm talking about trucks. Gravel and dump trucks, in particular. The men who drive them.

And own them. The drivers aren't over-the-road professionals who place a premium on highway safety and courtesy.

Oh, no, they are for the most part young men, "teeney-boppers" posing as truck drivers. They make good money, for men their age, but too often are irresponsible and act as a menace on our roads.

The job first goes to their head, then their emotions and pretty soon they are out of control, accidents looking for a place to happen. And they do.

"Short trip drivers are always in a big hurry because they get paid for so many loads a day," said one over-the-road driver, whose behind the wheel record is spotless.

"Young fellas think they have to drive hard and fast and take pills to stay awake, to be a good truck driver. Well, this ain't so. If you drive safe, take your time, rest when you need it and keep to your schedule, you'll be more dependable and a lot better driver. Racing trucks just ain't necessary," he said.

But drivers aren't the only ones at fault. They are merely fall guys for unscrupulous trucking outfits that pile up violation upon violation. It's the trucking firm that buys the license, schedules the pickups and controls the weight load. And it's the company that should be investigated when repeated violations occur on their records.

Brad Brekke

This is a job for the Secretary of State's office and the Illinois Commerce Commission, who have the manpower and legal means to do this. And violators must either pay up or go to jail.

A large crackdown on trucks driving in suburban Cook County was made in 1966. The results indicated that 65 per cent of the trucks stopped were operating illegally.

It's not that we don't have laws governing trucks. We do. But strict enforcement of these laws? Well, that's something else.

Any time of day, on any major thoroughfare, you can find trucks speeding, spilling and driving as if the road — the whole road — belonged to them.

In traffic, especially during rush hours, they cause massive traffic jams and take a belligerent, arrogant attitude about it all.

Some are illegally loaded, but when was the last time you saw a gravel truck inspected or stopped at a state weigh station?

The general feeling of short trip drivers is "Watch out buddy, I'm coming through and I dare you to get in my way."

This isn't an indictment against every man that drives a truck. There are good ones and bad ones. The long distance boys are the best. But the problem is there are too many bad ones on our roads and it's these men who give truck-

School Coverage Not 'Impartial'

After reading your article on the John Hersey High School band in the August 2 edition of the Wheeling Herald, I would like to question the impartiality of your paper.

The Wheeling High School band has had the honor of performing at Chicago Bear football games for the past six years. This year we are scheduled to perform on Sept. 12 at Soldier Field. Also, I am sure you are aware of the fact that Wheeling's band entered one of the toughest competitions in the country and had the skill, courage and determination to walk away with a first in parade marching. With this accomplishment, I did not see a full page featuring the band. As to the caption "Pride of Illinois," you will please recall that it was Wheeling's band that earned and has retained that label.

I feel that all schools in District 214 should be given equal coverage in all events and as a newspaper covering this district, you should see that this is done. I would like to suggest that you appoint a student from each high school to submit their school's accomplishments. I hardly think that an adult can keep up

Vet Angers Visitor

I am writing this letter in anger over an incident that occurred the afternoon of July 26, while I was on a weekend trip to Hoffman Estates from San Diego, Calif.

I was staying at the home of friends in High Point. The husband in this case, who will go unnamed, was not home at the time.

Three boys who were fishing on the twin lakes accidentally hooked a baby duck in the neck and came running with the duck, in hopes of finding the man at home. My friend and I panicked, as two women will do, and did not know what to do since he was not at home.

In calling the nearest Hoffman vet, we asked if we could bring the duck in for free treatment. She turned us down under doctor's orders.

I believe this was very unjust. The duck could be dying, and nobody will help it.

This man has put in a considerable amount of hours to maintain a healthy environmental lake, including these ducks, because he was not at home and we could do nothing the duck may die. This man has even washed oil off these ducks because people don't think first and pour oil down the sewers.

When we talk about ecology so much, how can one doctor turn down treating the life of an animal he devoted his life to saving?

Mrs. Judy Wolff
Santee, Calif.

Careful Breeding

So happy to know some of those Indians were of the Sioux, a plains culture who have long practiced family planning, spacing their little ones the six years apart now recommended by the mental health experts.

Wish someone had told my pediatrician so many years ago, when I was beginning my family or else to limit it to one.

Since cho is the medical abbreviation for carbohydrate, Dan Chosa's name was so meaningful, also the one Beane and Alan Bean of the Apollo 15.

Vocabulary Builder

I would like to compliment the Herald on the publication of their Word-A-Day cartoons that have been appearing in the lower right-hand corner of the editorial page. I do not recall ever seeing this sort of thing before, but certainly could not conceivably think of a more effective method of acquiring or improving one's vocabulary.

Since words are recognized to be the tools of thought, a good knowledge of them could not be overemphasized. I would suggest that students, and others who feel the need, clip and save these little gems which offer a painless method of self-improvement. This is of course dependent upon the possibility that the Herald continues this very valuable feature I hope that they do.

Herald Rates A 'Boo' From A 4-H Fan

Agriculture is an industry that has not been beat or even come close to by any other country, including the Soviet Union who has beat us in the missile race. Nevertheless, the richest county in the state of Illinois does not feel it is necessary to give one of the greatest industries this country has, namely agriculture, representation in the form of a county fair.

Members of 4-H have been putting on the fair which gives agriculture that representation.

Even so, these are young people and sometimes not experienced farmers and they have put on an excellent presentation for the few farms we have left in this area.

I certainly feel that their tremendous effort and hard work that goes into the fair deserves a better writeup in the local newspaper than it received.

By the way, the selection of the queen and king is an annual election of 4-H. They are chosen through their achievements and leadership in 4-H. Their names are Marge Huff of Palatine and Keith Heyen of Mount Prospect.

Moo-moo goes the cow. Oink-oink goes the pig. Baa-baa goes the sheep, Boo-boo for the Herald.

Thanks, Mrs. Yowman

An open letter to a Mrs. "Yowman" of Palatine, the only address I know:

I would like to thank you very much for the return of my intact wallet. It is almost too good to believe. I lost the wallet this morning (July 26) on my Herald paper route. I count myself most lucky that you found it. The cash was part of my paper money collections I can never repay your kindness. Have a great day today and always.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

I certainly do not think you or anyone else would urge higher public priority be placed on bike paths than on schools. But you are justified in endorsing the need and value of the trails, and I hope you are successful.

Patricia Kenn

Bike Trail Foe Misread Editorial

I can understand the frustration of Dorothy Tompkins who wrote criticism of your editorial supporting a proposed plan for bike and nature trails through-out metropolitan Chicago.

However, I think she misread your editorial.

To be sure, I have re-read the editorial. Nowhere do you propose spending tax monies on bike trails nor do you suggest that education and other public essentials be sacrificed in order to establish bicycle paths. What you suggest is that private money be contributed to make possible a "matching grant" for adequately planning such a system. This is a far cry from denying children an adequate education or correcting poverty.

I suspect there's a temptation for a good many people to ridicule your support of bike trails and this is too bad. It's a legitimate and worthwhile need. Every day, countless adults as well as children are rediscovering the satisfaction and health of bicycle recreation. How sad that these seemingly "unimportant" facets of living get neglected, deprived and shunted aside in favor of the "essentials," for when we finally wake up to the realization that these actually comprise an "essential" of humane living, it is too late.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the more beautiful sights on generally drab Wall Street is a mere slip of an Irish lass who overcame a phobia about telephones to become one of the street's rare female traders.

"I was terrified the first time I took a call," said Miss Mary McGough, 20. "It was so frightening I just tossed back the phone to the nearest man."

Mary eventually conquered her "telephobia" and today handles trading orders and queries from the Los Angeles branch of Mayer & Schwelzer, Inc., an over-the-counter house handling 700 stocks.

Admitting to being "very, very Irish," Mary relaxes by dancing Irish jigs, reels and "stack of Barley" and coaching a young girl's softball team for her church in Queens, N. Y.

"I'm not Mickey Mantle, but I know the game," says Mary.

Joining M&S three years ago as a filing clerk, Mary soon decided she wanted to learn the trading game. She moved into the computer room, key to back shop operations, and eventually graduated to the "cage" where stock transfers and deliveries are made. She moved along to "position" clerk, recording and filling the buy and sell orders transacted by the traders. Such records keep the company up-to-date on its stock positions and profit and loss picture for the day.

One day the boss asked Mary if she'd like to move into the "pressure cooker," the big room with 120 direct lines into brokerage houses, banks, insurance companies, mutual funds and branch offices. Sure she would, but there was a problem, a big problem.

All her life Mary had feared the telephone which is the umbilical cord of life in the "big room."

"That first phone call was a nightmare," recalled Mary, "but I'm all over it now. I can't tell you how many calls I handle in a day. Sometimes I'm talking to three people at once. My left ear seems closer to my head than my right ear."

While not officially a trader yet, she will be a year from now when she is 21 and eligible to take the National Association of Security Dealers' examination for certification. She's honing up already.

Vacation Time, But Not For Taxes

State sales, cigarette and gasoline taxes take no vacation — that's the hard lesson many vacationers are learning as they travel about the country, Commerce Clearing House notes.

In the case of cigarette and gasoline taxes, the state rates are on top an 8-cent-a-pack federal cigarette tax and a 4-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline levy as well as similar levies, including sales taxes, imposed by hundreds of cities and towns dotting the nation.

Forty-five states and the District of Columbia levy general sales and use taxes with rates ranging from 2 per cent in Oklahoma and Indiana to 6 per cent in Pennsylvania.

Although sales tax increases haven't been plaguing the taxpayer as much this year, the astute vacationer will beware of the local or special levies imposed in many locales. On the state front, New York upped its rate from 3 to 4 per cent (New York City totals 7 per cent), Tennessee went from 3 to 3.5 per cent and Texas boosted its rate from 3.25 to 4 per cent.

Cigarette smokers undoubtedly find the most to fear with taxes on this front soaring in many areas of the nation. So far this year, Arkansas has hiked its tax a nickel to 17.75 cents a pack, Georgia and Montana have gone from 8 to 12 cents, Iowa from 10 to 13 cents, Maine from 12 to 14 cents, Massachusetts from 12 to 16 cents, Nebraska from 8 to 13 cents, Oregon from 4 to 9 cents and Washington from 11 to 16 cents.

Also, CCH noted, Tennessee has continued its 13-cent-a-pack rate indefinitely and Texas has okayed an additional tax bringing that rate to 18.5 cents a pack.

New York City has imposed an additional tax — based on the tax and nicotine count of the cigarettes — on top of the present 4-cent-a-pack city rate.

Smokers wishing to avoid high tax rate areas would do well to head for North Carolina with its 2-cent tax rate or Virginia with its 2.5-cent rate.

If the traveler spends much of his vacation on the nation's highways, he might do well to consider an inland vacation in Missouri or Texas where he'll find one of the lowest gasoline tax rates in the nation — 5 cents a gallon, CCH said.

On the other hand, a seaside vacation could turn the most economical cars into expensive luxury items. Some recent increases include the following:

Florida has enacted an 8-cent-a-gallon tax, only a penny behind the new taxes in Maine and Washington; motorists in Georgia will now pay 7.5 cents a gallon in state taxes — up a penny; Idaho and Montana have continued their 7-cent rates indefinitely; and Massachusetts has upped its rate a penny to 7.5 cents, CCH said.

Earnings Of Northwest Industries Rise

Net earnings of Northwest Industries, Inc., in the second quarter of 1971 rose to $13,671,000, or $1.13 per outstanding common share after provision for preferred dividends, compared to $10,633,000 or 74 cents per share in the 1970 second quarter. Assuming dilution, second quarter per share earnings equaled 69 cents compared with 56 cents in the year-earlier period.

Through the first six months of 1971, net earnings were $21,153,000, or $1.44 per outstanding common share after provision for preferred dividends, compared with 1970 first six months net earnings of $16,369,000, or 82 cents. Assuming dilution, earnings per share in the 1971 first six months were $1.07. There was no dilution in the like 1970 period.

Second quarter 1971 net sales increased to $145,000,000 from $122,900,000 in the like year-earlier period. Net sales in the first six months totalled $259,300,000, compared to $232,400,000 in the first six months net sales and net earnings before extraordinary items, established records.

Results for the second quarter and the first six months reflect a two-month contribution by The Buckingham Corporation of $13,500,000 to net consumer sales and 16 cents to earnings per outstanding common share. Buckingham, the exclusive U.S. importer and selling agent of Gatty Sark brand scotch whisky, was acquired effective April 30, 1971.

All product groups showed substantial profits for the second quarter and the first six months. Transportation operations were profitable in the second quarter and the first six months. The company includes the Chicago & North Western Railway.

A. O. Smith Reports Profit Increase

MILWAUKEE — A. O. Smith Corporation reported a 6.2 per cent increase in profits on a 5.2 per cent jump in sales in the first half of 1971, compared to the first half of 1970.

L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, announced first half earnings of $7,317,000, or $2.99 per share, compared to $6,890,000, or $2.78 per share, in the first six months of last year.

For the second quarter of 1971, earnings were $4,037,000, or $1.65 per share, compared to $3,737,000, or $1.51 per share, in the same period last year. Sales in the three months ended June 30, 1971, were $123,605,000, compared to $120,949,000, in the second quarter last year.

Smith said that A.O. Smith units serving the transportation and building industries turned in strong performances in the first half of 1971. The automotive division showed a significant first half gain in sales and profits compared to last year, as recovery from the General Motors strike continued to create high demand for automobile and truck frames.

Geographic expansion of Armor Elevator Company's U.S. operations in the first half helped this subsidiary to record volume. About 10 per cent of Armor's new bookings in the first six months came from recently opened offices.

Sales of water heating products are up in the first half compared to last year, Smith said, and added that the company's new line of food waste disposers is being well accepted in the marketplace.

Smith said the Reinforced Plastics division of A. O. Smith-Inland Inc., an affiliate, obtained important new orders for its plastic pipe from the chemical processing and industrial markets. The growth of the pipe business, coupled with the elimination of losses at the Ionia, Michigan, plant, which was sold early this year, helped the affiliate move from a loss in the first half of last year to a profit this year, he said.

Excessive inventory in the air conditioning industry caused a pause in the growth of the Electric Motor division, with both sales and profits down compared to last year. The division did make an important profit contribution in the first half, however. Smith stated that the long term outlook for this business remains very bright.

A decline in service station pump orders, caused by a lack of public interest in the no-lead and low-lead gasoline program, and a two-week strike early in the year, hurt first half results at the company's Meter Systems division, Smith said.

Due to the low level of capital spending by industry, the Clark Control division is experiencing lower volume this year, he said. This, coupled with Clark's continued heavy investment in new product development, caused the division to operate at a small loss in the first six months of 1971.

Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I gave my son $200 toward his purchase of a car. Do I include this sum as part of his total support furnished by me?

A) No. The purchase of an automobile is not considered when determining total support, whether your son purchased the car or whether you purchased it for him.

Q) What should you do if you get a bill for taxes you've already paid?

A) If you have paid the tax recently, keep the notice until you get your canceled check. The notice was probably issued before the payment had been credited to your account.

However, if the payment was made more than four weeks ago, return the notice, indicating when the payment was made and where it was sent.

If you have a canceled check for the payment, also indicate any numbers stamped on the check by the IRS. This will help trace payment.

Q) Our first baby is due next month. When can I start taking an extra exemption so that my withholding will be reduced?

A) When the child is born, you may make a change in your withholding. To do this, another withholding exemption certificate, Form W-4, must be filed with your employer.

Q) I purchased a summer home at the shore. In addition to interest, I paid "points." Is this amount deductible as interest?

A) If the payment is compensation solely for the use or forbearance of money, it is interest and is deductible. However, if you paid this charge to compensate the lender for specific services, such as settlement, appraisal or notary fees, he performed for you in connection with your account, it is not interest and not deductible. For more details, see IRS Publication 530, Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowners. You can obtain one free by sending a postcard to your IRS district office.

Gas Co. Asks Customers To Take A Whiff

Northern Illinois Gas Company's more than one million customers are receiving an enclosure with their current gas bills that invites them to "take a whiff."

A specially-prepared, blue strip on the enclosure contains a chemical called mercaptan — an additive which gives natural gas its distinctive odor. When the strip is scratched, traces of the mercaptan odor are released.

The leaflet points out that mercaptan is added to natural gas before distribution to customers as an extra measure of safety. Natural gas would be odorless without small amounts of the additive and, therefore, could not be detected in the event of a leak.

"Call NI-Gas if you ever smell it again," customers are advised.

The leaflet is a part of NI-Gas' efforts to keep its customers informed and to help maintain the safety record of natural gas service.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — This next school year I am to teach a segment on the effects of chewing tobacco and dipping snuff. There has been lots of information on the effects of smoking, but I have very little information on chewing and dipping. We have more youngsters in junior high schools using tobacco in these forms than in smoking. Will you please tell me where I might write for some information?

Dear Reader — There is a lot less information on this problem simply because it is a lot harder to find as many snuff dippers or tobacco chewers than it is to find cigarette smokers. Your comments suggest it will soon be easier. We have the same problem with evaluating the effects of cigar and particularly pipe smoking. I would suggest that you write, U.S. Department of HEW Public Health Service, Health Services and Mental Health Administration, National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, Arlington, Va. 22203.

You can be certain that absorbing tobacco through the lungs, by smoke or dipping snuff or by absorption from the mouth all result in taking nicotine, which is a drug. The standard references to nicotine poisoning applies. A chronic tolerance can be developed with a form of habituation. In addition, some doctors have stated that swallowing tobacco juice may increase the incidence of cancer of the digestive tract or the bladder. It is possible that tobacco in excessive amounts may decrease sexual capacity. I can't think of anything good that it does, except support the tobacco industry, if that's good.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have heard reference made that sunflower seeds fall in the drug category. Is this correct, and to what extent? What type of sunflower seeds? I eat a lot of salted sunflower seeds in the shell which I purchase at grocery stores. Also would breaking the shells be harmful to my teeth?

Dear Reader — There is nothing harmful in sunflower seeds except the calories and the amount of fat. Fat is the source of about 80 per cent of the calories in sunflower seeds. This is true of most nuts though, and the fat in sunflower seeds is mostly polyunsaturated fat whereas many nuts contain large amounts of saturated fat as well.

Breaking the hulls with your teeth will not hurt you. I wouldn't recommend this, however, for other nuts. Salted seeds and nuts should be avoided by those needing to restrict their salt intake for reasons of high blood pressure or heart trouble.

LEARNING TO REACH OUT and touch other people is part of the social therapist's training. He undergoes intensive group therapy to insure he is in good mental health before he deals with others.

The Social Therapist

Para-professional Career Vital To Mental Health

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Professionals with advanced degrees of training are in short supply in the United States. New vocations, that of para-professionals, are cropping up to meet the needs of an increasing population.

Both medicine and law are now training and using para-professionals. Skilled in a specialty, they work alongside the professional and ease his work load.

In Des Plaines, Forest Hospital, a private mental health facility near River and Rand roads, is training social therapists, a para-professional in the psychiatric field, at its post-graduate center.

To date, more than 90 social therapists have received training at Forest and another group is scheduled to begin their 20-week course in September. Training is supervised by Dr. Robert Willford, executive director of the center, and is conducted at the hospital.

"THE PSYCHIATRIC community can't possibly produce enough standard professionals to meet the needs of the country," Willford said, adding that what Forest is doing is a new and exciting thing.

The role of the social therapist (ST) is to react between and with people in a therapeutic way. Therapists trained at Forest have gone on to work in community health centers, in schools as counselors and special education teachers, and some have remained at the hospital assisting in the training of other STs.

The program, which to this point has only been open to those with bachelor degrees, costs $823 and gives the student nine hours of credit toward a master's degree at Northeastern Illinois College, Chicago.

Four areas are taught during the first 10 weeks: psychopathology, group systems, leadership and personal growth. Psychopathology is the study of the causes and symptoms of mental disorders and is taught by the psychiatric staff of the hospital. Eight major group systems are taught, including psychodrama, encounter, sensitivity training, family therapy, marital therapy, crisis intervention, Gestalt and psychomotor therapy.

DURING LEADERSHIP training students practice their abilities as group leaders with the aid of video-taped sessions and personal training by hospital staff. They conduct group sessions with other STs and assist with groups that come to the hospital.

The area of personal growth training is what makes this program unique. "We believe an ST is more than a technician who understands group dynamics," said Willford. "He must be a representative of good mental health. His own personality and the way he conducts his own life are as important as his knowledge of other people. We expect a commitment from each person to pay attention to his own problems and hang-ups."

Intensive group therapy is conducted with the STs to insure that they are in good mental health before they attempt to deal with the mental health of others.

SPECIALIZED TRAINING is given during the next two weeks. The ST can choose the specific area he wants to work in such as with families, adolescents, the elderly, etc. This curriculum will contain the uniqueness of each choice.

The remaining eight weeks are spent in the community as an intern with STs being placed in locations consistent with their areas of specialization. STs from the post-graduate center supervise the trainees during the internship.

Where does an ST go once he is trained? Forest is contacting agencies and institutions to help them see where STs can be put to work.

"Any place where people come together and have emotional involvements can benefit from having a trained social therapist," Willford explained. "Police departments, emergency rooms, nursing homes, nursery schools, drug and crisis centers, community mental health programs need people trained in mental health."

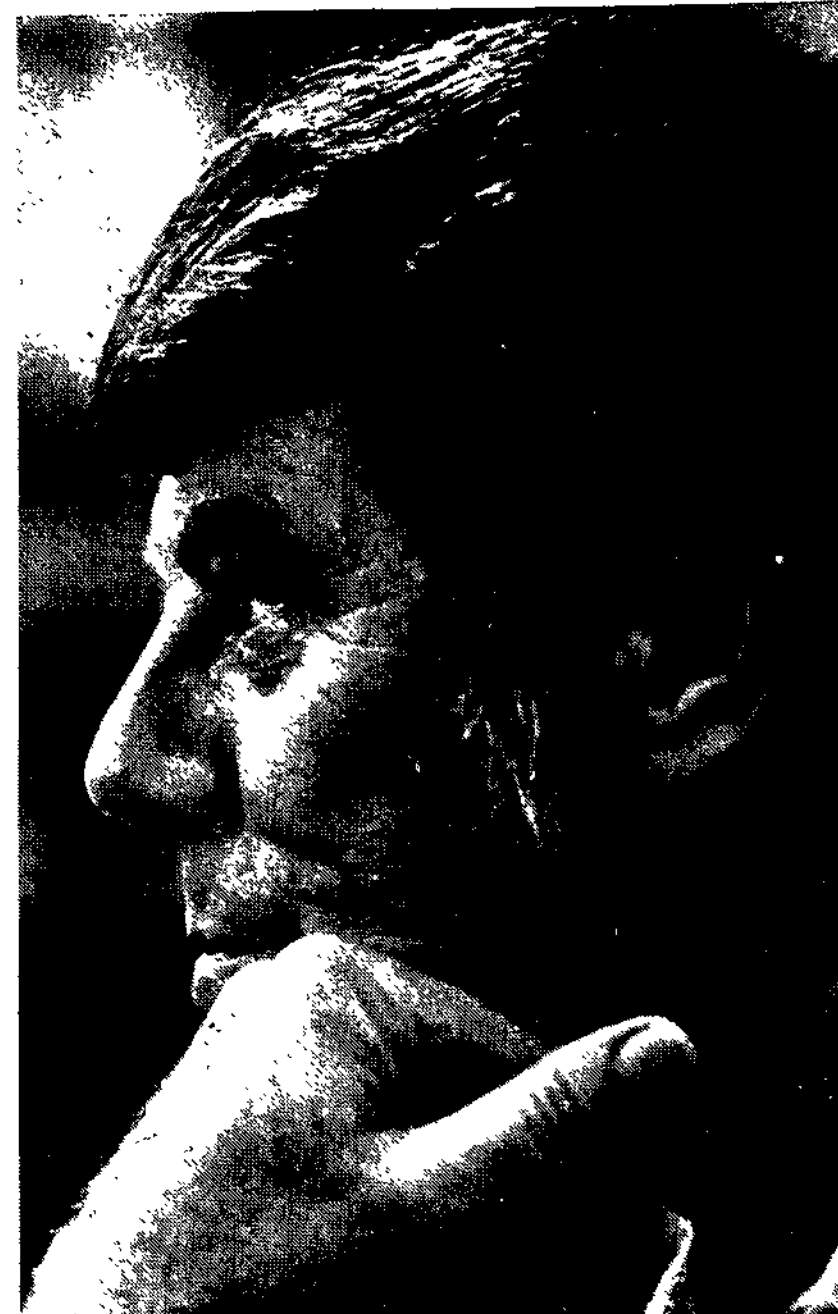

The post-graduate center is working on expanding its present program to include people without bachelor degrees. They are currently negotiating with Harper College in Palatine to include the ST training program as part of its associate degree curricula.

WOMEN OUTNUMBER men as applicants for the ST program. "Mental health is a profession wide open to women," said Willford. "Women are pre-disposed to this profession. Men seem to have a harder time getting out of their heads and into their feeling and being able to develop a rapport with other people."

There is a greater incidence of mental health disorders today than there has ever been, Willford said. The ST — para-professional — is a vital ingredient if the tide is ever to be turned, he emphasized.

"Utopia would be to have an ST in every neighborhood to jointly help another become mentally healthy. This type of person, with his specialized training, should ideally be in every school and hospital," he continued.

"We must take mental health to the community rather than waiting in an institution for it to come to us. There is a silent majority of people who need mental help. Much of the ST concept is to get out of the office and into the community to serve the needs of that silent majority."

DR. ROBERT WILLFORD, director of the Forest Hospital Post-graduate Center for Mental Health Education, oversees the training of the social therapist, a para-professional vocation in the psychiatric field.

Area B&PW President Attends Convention

Mrs. Marian W. Baker of Mount Prospect has just returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where she attended the national convention of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. (BPW).

Mrs. Baker, who is president of the Mount Prospect BPW Club, and Miss Martha W. Griffiths (D. Mich.) who discussed the proposed Equal Rights Amendment and other pending legislation affecting women.

One of approximately 2,000 delegates who attended the July 25-29 convention and were representative of every state in the nation plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, Mrs. Baker participated in business meetings, workshops, passage of the 1971-72 BPW Legislative Platform, and the election of new 1971-72 national officers.

She also attended a panel program, "The World Women Want," which was presented by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation. The discussion on how career women can work to solve problems in the western hemisphere was led by Margaret Hickey, public affairs editor of the Ladies Home Journal.

PANEL MEMBERS were Dr. Jennifer Macleod, executive director of the Center for the American Woman and Politics of the Eagleton Institute of Politics of Rutgers University; Monica Barnes, a government attorney in Trinidad and Tobago; Elena Mederos de Gonzalez, UNICEF liaison officer; and Katherine Peden, past national president of BPW and Kentucky's first woman nominee for the U.S. Senate. Other participants included International Young Career Women from Canada, Argentina and Panama, who were brought to the Convention on BPW Foundation educational grants.

Another convention highlight was an address by Mrs. Barbara Hackman Franklin, a special assistant to President Nixon. She discussed the President's increasing efforts to place women in top-level federal jobs and urged BPW members and their friends and associates who could qualify for such jobs to submit applications to the Talent Bank originated by BPW in 1970. Mrs. Franklin works closely with the National Federation in seeking potential female job candidates.

ALSO ADDRESSING the convention delegates was Patricia Reilly Hitt, Assistant Secretary for Community and Field Services, United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

More than 40 Young Career Women who were selected by state federations for their outstanding abilities were special guests at the convention. In addition to participating in the general convention sessions, they attended a seminar featuring author Caroline Bird.

National Federation 1970-71 President Mrs. Ruth Moss Easterling, Charlotte, N. C., presided at the convention.

Last year's convention was held in Honolulu, Hawaii, and next year's will be held in Atlantic City, N. J.

Ear Piercing Complications

Pierced ears may be part of today's "in" look, but if the simple procedure necessary to produce the effect is performed by untrained and unknowing amateurs, the price of fashion may prove expensive to your health.

This is the message of an article titled "Complications of Ear Piercing" authored by Drs. Thomas A. Cortese Jr. and Richard A. Dickey and carried in the August issue of American Family Physician magazine.

To study complications resulting from "the present indiscriminate practice of ear piercing by inexperienced or unknowledgeable persons," Drs. Cortese and Dickey conducted a survey of 100 female nursing students at the Indiana University Medical Center, Indianapolis. Of these hundred 73 girls had had their ears pierced, but the survey showed that "only one-third of the ear piercing procedures had been performed by physicians."

Complications incurred by the girls included inflammation of the skin due to metal allergies, bleeding, infection accompanied by purulent drainage, cyst formation and nonpurulent draining and crusting. IN ADDITION to these hazards, expensive earrings labeled "14-karat gold posts" pose a second threat. The doctors caution that "usually, the post holder and the backing of the earrings are not 14-karat gold-plated and many contain nickel or another skin-sensitizing metal."

According to the authors, ear piercing is a procedure which should be left to physicians. Many factors exist which would positively prevent the operation. The presence of these factors can be determined only by a doctor. They include a predisposition to hemorrhage or to form unusually hard, tumorous skin known as keloid tissue, anatomically deformed earlobes, the presence of earlobe cysts or metal sensitivity.

The doctors also caution that persons affected by diabetes mellitus, rheumatic fever, congenital heart disease or any acute or chronic skin disorder affecting the earlobe should seriously consider the possible consequences before allowing their ears to be pierced. In all cases, the advice of the family physician should be heeded.

Arlington Heights, Region IV director; Mrs. W. R. Mottweiler, Mount Prospect, executive vice president; Mrs. Laurence Frerk, Arlington, winner of outstanding alumnae award; and Mrs. Fred Burghard, Park Ridge, president of Northwest Suburban Alumnae.

AOPI Alums Win Convention Honors

Not only Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter but several individual members of the area group won honors at the recent 49th international biennial convention of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. The meetings were held in Dallas, Texas, and attended by over 400 members — both collegiate and alumnae — from the United States and Canada.

The Northwest Suburban Alumnae received a Distinguished Service Award because of involvement in community and sorority activities.

The chapter also earned the National Alumnae Philanthropic Award for contributions and service to the Arthritis Foundation, AOP's national philanthropy, and to the Illinois Children's Hospital

School, its local philanthropy.

SEVERAL WOMEN from this area were honored for their individual contributions. Mrs. Laurence Frerk of Arlington Heights received one of 12 Rose Awards for outstanding alumnae service. She is a past president of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae and currently is president of the Chicago Area Council.

Mrs. W. R. Mottweiler of Mount Prospect accepted the position of international executive vice president for the next two years. Mrs. Charles Kallevang of Park Ridge was honored as retiring international president.

This year's convention awarded a $13,000 grant to Dr. Jane Schaller, director of Pediatric Arthritis Clinic at University Hospital in Seattle, Wash., to continue research into the cause of arthritis in children. A $3,000 grant went to Henri Andre Menard, a fellow of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

The local alums are in Region IV, which includes Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky in the sorority's area set-up. At the convention the region took home a total of 24 awards for outstanding work in scholarship, philanthropy, service to the sorority, Panhellenic cooperation and song writing.

Oil And Wash

Hair splits and breaks off where it's driest, at the ends. To help avoid split ends, particularly for those with extra-long hair, try this. Before washing, brush the hair until the natural oils are well-distributed along the length of the hair. Then apply a cream or hair conditioner to the ends where the natural oils cannot reach. Then wash as usual. You'll find that the ends will no longer look dry and limp.

A Garden Party Fetes Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Strong

A garden reception at the home of the bride's parents feted Carolyn and Vaughn Strong following their church wedding and a dinner reception at Nordic Hills Country Club. The late spring wedding was held in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights.

The bride is the former Carolyn Kay Hester, daughter of the Richard Hesters of Rolling Meadows, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Strong of Arlington Heights.

Carolyn's sister Jane was maid of honor for the service, and her married sister, Patricia, Mrs. Terrence Hayden of Mount Prospect, was one of the bridesmaids. Best man to the groom was George Brown, a cousin from Logan, Utah. Mr. Hayden was one of the groomsmen.

The bride, a graduate of Western Illinois University, will teach at the elementary grade level this fall, and Vaughn will be working on his law degree at Northwestern University. Vaughn has previously studied at Northwestern as well as the University of Arizona and the University of Illinois.

After a honeymoon in Wisconsin the newlyweds are making their home at 202 N. Salem, Arlington Heights.

Family Passes Tapers At Ernest-Bizer Rites

A special candlelighting ceremony in which the mothers of the bridal couple passed tapers to the fathers of the couple who then passed them to the bride and groom highlighted the July 10 wedding of Candace Ernest and John Bizer. Candace, daughter of the Nicholas V. Ernests, 2111 Burke Drive, Arlington Heights, and John, son of Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Bizer of St. Louis, Mo., then lit one candle signifying the binding together of both families.

The groom's father officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring service which was held in the Congregational United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights. The altar was decorated with felt banners made by members of the congregation and presented to the bride and groom.

Candace and John met while students at Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill., of which both are graduates. Candace received her master's in library science at Rosary College, River Forest, Ill., and John completed a year of graduate work in biology at Washington University in St. Louis. He is now in the Army, stationed at Brook Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

THE NEWLYWEDS are making their home in San Antonio where Candace is employed in the music and art department of the public library.

Candace chose her sisters, Patricia and Karen, to attend her while John chose his brothers, Donald and David. Rick Wilson of Oklahoma was also one of John's attendants.

Patricia, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of white and navy blue with white picture hat. Karen was identically gowned, and both sisters carried colonial nosegays of varied flowers. Donald served as his brother's best man, and David and Rick were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown with short train. She also chose a short veil and carried a colonial nosegay of yellow, pink and white flowers.

Mrs. Ernest was in an apricot chiffon for her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed at the Farman Hotel in Lake Zurich. Mrs. Bizer was in a pastel chiffon print, and both mothers had corsages of stephanotis. One hundred guests attended the reception.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Forest Lake, Wis., for a week and are now making their home at 1507 Austin Hwy., in San Antonio.

Women's Lib?

Sure, we're for it. Once the breadwinner is off to work and the kids are off to school, what better way to emancipate yourself from those breakfast dishes than to play an hour or two of tennis?

If you have pent-up aggressions, what safer way to release them than to whack a little ball for an hour?

If you're an extrovert who seeks center stage, we'll give you the court with the most spectators. If you're an introvert, we'll put you on the farthest court where folks will need binoculars to see you.

If you're an outstanding player, we'll match you against men. What stronger blow against sexism? If you're a beginner, you'll be like 80 per cent of our pro's pupils.

We'll have six courts, sauna, whirlpool, sun room, exercise room, playroom for youngsters, pro shop and instruction on all levels. Starting October 1, we'll be open 14 to 15 hours a day, seven days a week, just northwest of the Algonquin Road/Route 83 intersection. For reservations or assistance in forming groups, call 593-0580 or write Box 69, Mount Prospect, Ill. 60056.

Wherever you live northwest, you're only a short way, baby.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: This country is known for its sudden fads — whether it be clothes or food. So I'm not a bit surprised at the sudden popularity of yogurt. Curious, though, as to whether it has particular nutritive value? — Ann Scharf.

You're right about fads in general, but yogurt is neither a fad, nor is its popularity sudden. It has a long history and many a venerable Balkan claiming to be 105 or 110 or 115 and a brand-new papa has attributed it all to yogurt. It's not my dish, but thousands go for it, including his ribs. Basically, it has the same nutritive and caloric values as the milk from which it is made. However, when made from partly skimmed milk, as is often the case, yogurt is lower in fat and in calories than when made from whole milk. It is still a good source of other milk nutrients, particularly calcium, riboflavin and protein. Oh, one other thing: Yogurt has a fine curd which permits it to be digested more quickly than plain milk. Watch out for those yogurt-spooning centenarians.

Tip to Brides: While butter or margarine can be used in place of a vegetable shortening without any change in amounts when used in cakes and cookies, it does not hold true for pastry. In these cases use vegetable shortening.

Dear Dorothy: Have you ever heard that putting naphtha soap in dogwood trees will keep borers away? If this does work, why? — Julia Y.

Yes, I've heard it and used it — and am sure it's not just an old wives' tale. It's well known that insects find certain odors offensive, and with so many pesticides on the forbidden list it's good to have a simple home remedy work.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

Win At Bridge

by OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

It was a truce period during the siege of Troy. Some of the rival leaders were playing bridge.

Achilles sat North, the wily Ulysses South. King Priam sat East and Prince Hector, the best bridge player as well as the greatest hero in Troy, sat West.

Hector thought about sacrificing at five hearts, but he did not have too much faith in his father's overcalls. Anyway, he had what looked like considerable defense, so he put the queen of hearts on the table.

The wily Ulysses studied for a moment and then played dummy's trey. Priam looked surprised, but produced the 10 and Ulysses followed.

Hector looked at that 10-spot. He thought, "Can my father be giving me a suit-preference signal? I doubt it. He never heard of them. I certainly have a natural shift to diamonds. On the other hand, if father had won the first trick, he would have had a natural shift to clubs. I have been taught to fear the Greeks bearing gifts. I guess I had better lead a club."

Hector led his lowest club. Priam put up the ace and led back the queen. Hector was careful to overtake and lead back his deuce of hearts. Then he waited

TV Culture Has Lost Money

by ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Six Wives of Henry VIII" represents some of the finest acting ever seen on American television so it is one of the sadder facts of small screen life that the network credited with bringing this magnificent sequence of dramas to viewers is losing money on the deal.

This is one of the instances when viewers are ahead of possible sponsors frightened away by the dread words "culture" and "historical" for the ratings are healthy enough to have warranted better support from advertisers. It is worth noting that CBS-TV went ahead with the project though it knew it probably would not recoup even the modest — in TV terms — $800,000 it paid for the six 90-minute dramas.

The real benefactor of this action of enterprise by Robert B. Wood, president of the CBS Network, will be the Public Broadcasting Service which transmits the series starting Jan. 2. By then word of mouth, as it is already doing, will have reached anyone with an interest in superior television, anyone with an interest in acting at heights rarely attained in works specifically recorded for TV, as this was done by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

If you missed the first two wives of King Henry and especially the poignant portrayal of hapless Anne Boleyn by Dorothy Tutin last week, the third of the plays, "Jane Seymour," next Sunday is an excellent place to start. This segment of the series won the 1970 Italia Prize for Drama at the Florence Television Festival — one of the real prestige awards of the medium.

The title role of the young queen, who bore Henry his only son, the short-lived King Edward VI, is played by Anne Stallybrass, a new name to this country.

If you can tear your eyes away from Keith Michell, as the aging Henry frantic for a male heir, and Miss Stallybrass, take special note of Patrick Troughton as the duke of Norfolk, Sheila Burrell as Lady Rochford, Wolfe Morris as Thomas Cromwell, Bernard Hepton as Archbishop Cranmer and Basil Dignam as Bishop Gardiner. In hands such as these a craft becomes an art.

Randhurst Circus To End Sunday

The Randhurst Anniversary Celebration Circus is fast coming to a close. The final performance will be at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The annual fireworks show will begin immediately after the circus performance Friday. For the safety of the public, an area in the northwest section of the parking lot will be roped off around the professional fireworks display men.

"The circus is completely new this year," Margaret Irwin, promotion coordinator for the Randhurst Merchants Association, said. "Among the featured performers are unicyclists on high wires, teeterboard gymnasts, perchpole balancers and clowns."

Circus clowns will continue to distribute souvenir balloons to youngsters prior to each performance.

The other remaining performance times are: on weekdays at 9:30 a.m., 3 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.; and on Saturday at 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Over the top.

Japanese Make The Rotary Engine Work

by DICK KLEINER
COMPTON, Calif. — Californians love new gadgets, particularly new gadgets that have four wheels. At the moment, they are gobbling up a new car, imported from Japan, that has an engine with only three moving parts and goes around and around instead of up and down.

The car is the Mazda — a convenient Americanization of Matsuda, the name of the company's president — and the engine is a rotary engine. There have been other attempts at making an engine that goes around, as opposed to the up-and-down motion of the pistons in a conventional reciprocating engine.

Notably, there was the NSU, made by a German motorcycle and car manufacturer, which used the Wankel rotary, pioneered by Felix Wankel. The Mazda is manufactured under an NSU license, but it has been considerably improved and modified — in fact, Mazda has more than 200 sub-patents on its version.

The Mazda was introduced to California this spring, and when 86,000 people came into the showrooms the first three days, the company sold itself out of cars. It is now available in 13 states, and they hope to expand into four more by the end of 1971. There is a five-year plan for reaching the rest of the nation.

WHAT MAKES the car appeal particularly to Californians is its simplicity and cleanliness. NSU's Wankel engine had a problem with white smoke emissions, but Mazda's engineers licked that, they claim, with a new sealing compound.

The result is an engine which, according to the company, is as clean as any. It operates on nonlead gasoline and, because of its simplicity and its power, it can be fitted with the best anti-pollution devices without diminishing its strength.

Conventional reciprocating engines, using pistons, must convert that up-and-down motion into a rotary motion to power the wheels. The rotary engine doesn't have that problem; it produces round-and-round power to begin with.

Hence, it has a basic simplicity. Mazda people like to point out that an ordinary six-cylinder piston engine has 230 basic parts, and 166 of those move. By contrast, the Mazda rotary has only 70 basic parts, and only three of them move.

This leads to a lack of vibration which is startling. When a Mazda is moving along at 60 miles an hour, you can place your hand on the dashboard and feel no vibration at all.

The engine is also smaller, because of its design, occupying about half the size of an ordinary engine. This leaves room under the hood for the antismog devices, which will become mandatory under federal law in 1975.

Nothing new is cheap, and the rotary engine is currently a $450 accessory. Mazda is bringing in 70 per cent of its cars with the revolutionary engine, however, an indication of the faith they have in it — and in the willingness of Americans to pay extra for something new and different.

MOTOR TREND magazine, which road-tested the Mazda both in Canada two years ago and in California recently, concluded that the car is a good one and "fun to drive," but added a word of caution:

"Of course, to be dead honest," wrote Wally Wyss in the May '71 issue, "there's one fat problem with the Mazda. . . (which is) finding a place to have it serviced. . . So, if you live far from Seattle, Los Angeles or Florida (the locations of Mazda dealers so far) you may have to make a choice on how much it's worth to be the first on your block to own one."

Several auto mechanics in the Los Angeles area, quizzed about the Mazda, echoed that sentiment. They said that there are bound to be problems with a new car and none of them felt he knew enough about the new engine to do much with it.

This, of course, is a temporary thing. Once the car and the dealer-mechanics network become nationwide, that should work itself out. As Motor Trend puts it, "In a few years, you may have to look hard for a mechanic who remembers how reciprocating engines are put together."

Beth Congregation To Hold Picnic

The "Mr. and Mrs. Club" of Beth Tikvah Congregation in Hoffman Estates, will hold its annual family picnic Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Deer Grove Forest Preserve, Quentin Road and Rte. 68.

Families should bring their own food, but ice cream, watermelon, candy for kids and prizes for adults will be provided.

For further information contact Peggy Needel at 385-1368.

NIPC Gives Communities Census Data

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) has sent out 4,005 pages of census data to villages and cities in Cook County.

Each community will receive 15 pages of computer printout sheets containing data on local population and housing trends, according to NIPC.

NIPC, as one of seven Summary Tape Processing Centers in the Chicago area, acquired First Count Summary Tapes from the Bureau of the Census.

Except for a few items of data that have not been released for municipalities of 10,000 population or more, the information is only available on computer tapes.

NIPC is now preparing the preliminary edition of the 1970 Suburban Factbook, a summary of the census information contained in the 4,000 page printout. The publication will be available in a few weeks, according to NIPC.

She Expected The Good Life—Got It

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Some 2.3 million couples were married in the United States 25 years ago, the largest number in any single year to date. This is the story of one of them.)

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. — Girls looking for a husband can take a tip from Myrte Farris. She knew what she was getting when she married Evans Farris 25 years ago. Myrte interviewed him for a job with Continental Airlines following his discharge as a major in the Army Air Corps.

With $5,000 in the bank, the couple was married twice in Mexico City — one a state ceremony, the other in church — and they blew about $1,000 honeymooning in that city.

For them the whole system is set up for married couples and as a 747 pilot he draws the analogy "It's like seniority in the airlines. It's not a perfect system, but the only one we have."

They get edgy at times because he'd "make her more prompt," and she'd "like him to be more patient. He is a perfectionist."

WITH AN income of more than $20,000, the Farris also have invested and estimate a net worth of about $300,000. They have extensive insurance.

Although major family money decisions are made after discussion, she says a sore point is that they don't have credit cards. But they do have charge accounts at department stores and gas stations, the latter for a '68 Camaro and a '71 Dodge Charger.

The Farris also enjoy a full range of today's electrical and electronic wonders. Among their home helpers and entertainment items are an automatic dishwasher, separate food freezer, color TV, barbecue equipment, movie projector, blender, stereo console, stereo components, black/white TV, movie camera and several still cameras.

As a jet pilot, Farris wound up in an occupation that is a far cry from his college major which was mining engineering. Myrte attended college two years and both occasionally take a variety of adult educational courses, "more for the fun than anything else."

When asked how they made ends meet, Mrs. Farris replies, "Prayer. We don't have a definite budget. Our system seems to be to anticipate bills and try to be ready for them."

THIS, HOWEVER, did not hold up three years ago when bills came in for repairing a landslide in their backyard. Their major expense in the last five years.

They eat out at least three times a month with their son who is 23 and a real estate salesman and together at least twice a month.

Great fun for them is a social club where the group gives parties at each other's homes once a month. Both are golfers and play at the Riviera Country Club here. Art shows, tennis and gardening are other interests plus vacation trips to such places as Hawaii and Paris.

Myrte's dream vacation she admits is to see Europe while he would prefer to stay home because, "I travel enough."

Farris is looking for a place to retire since he reaches mandatory age — 60 — in six years. This search is coupled with the general worry about the stability of the United States and "our country's future."

Compton Promoted At Joslyn Hardware

Robert A. Compton, who has been with Joslyn Mfg. and Supply Co. twelve years, has been named to the newly-created position of manager of OEM and industrial sales of the Joslyn Hardware Division where he will primarily serve non-utility customers.

The announcement was made by Winfield C. Rice, general manager of the division, who said Compton previously had been a Joslyn Midwest Region sales representative for four years, a product specialist for four years prior to that in the street lighting department, and a salesman for the company's central division and marketing division for the four years before that.

A graduate of Albion College from where he holds a B.A. degree in business administration, Compton is a member of the Rock River Valley Electric Association, past president and treasurer of the Arlington Heights Junior Chamber of Commerce, and junior warden of St. Simon's Episcopal Church. He and his family reside at 733 South Mitchell, Arlington Heights.

Financial Planning Complex Mortgage Rates High

widely used as a tax shelter in estate planning," he said.

The father's failing was in naming himself as custodian of the fund shares he gave his children, Naueheim said, although they were the actual owners.

"Very unexpectedly the father was killed in an auto accident," Naueheim said. "His oldest child was only 19. As a result, the total value of all of the fund shares he had given the three children over the years was added to his estate and was subject to federal estate taxes."

The father's goal of removing the value of the fund shares from his taxable estate could have been accomplished had he not named himself custodian of the shares, according to Naueheim.

If the father had designated another person, such as a bank official, as custodian, the fund shares would have been registered in the third person's name with the children as beneficiaries, he said. At the father's death, the value of the shares would not have been included in his estate.

"People should plan ahead to make sure there are not so many strings attached that the final goal will be snarled," Naueheim said. "They should get capable advice in considering all of the possibilities."

A mortgaged home rates among the "best buys" in 1971's inflationary economy, according to Lewis S. Eaton, president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

"So long as the unfortunate inflation of recent years continues, the modern long-term home mortgage allows you to take a relatively low-risk hedge against inflation while paying off your debt with cheaper dollars," Eaton said.

Eaton, who is president of the Fresno Guarantee Savings and Loan Association, Fresno, Calif., observed that because of an accelerating rate of inflation since 1968, home-buying costs are now among the economy's fastest-rising.

The typical new home today, with three bedrooms, two baths and 1,400 square feet of living space, costs $32,000, compared with $25,000 as recently as 1966. Some estimates say that in another 10 years, a new home with those specifications will be priced in the $50,000 - $60,000 range.

"The cost of buying a home is being pushed upward by spiraling land prices, increases in building material prices, high interest rate levels, and skyrocketing construction labor costs, which run about double the rise in the cost-of-living," Eaton said.

Conventional home loans of the type favored by savings associations are now being made at rates averaging about 7.5 per cent, according to Eaton.

By comparison, top-rated corporations are paying up to 8 per cent and more to sell their bonds in the financial markets, consumers must pay 10 per cent and more on most automobile loans, the rate on bank credit cards and revolving charge accounts is usually 18 per cent, and rates for installment and personal loans often run much higher than that.

"Because mortgage interest is deductible for income tax purposes, your actual mortgage financing costs may be less than stated in the mortgage contract," he said.

The long-term nature of your mortgage makes it easier to make mortgage payments as the value of the dollar declines. At the same time, it keeps your payments low enough to see you through most financial emergencies.

In most cases inflation will result in a substantial increase in the value of the home you buy.

Architectural Firms Merge

The new firm, "Architects Collaborative Team" (A.C.T.), was created by the consolidation of the firms of Earl W. Wright & Associates, Des Plaines; James W. Viger, Mount Prospect Architect & Engineer; Anthony M. Rossi, Des Plaines; and Robert H. Jensen, Park Ridge.

According to Earl W. Wright, A.I.A., A.C.T. will provide individual clients with complete, personalized and comprehensive professional help in architectural, engineering and management services.

Offices for the firm are located at 980 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, and principal officers of A.C.T. are Earl W. Wright, A.I.A., A.R.A., N.C.A.R.B., Architect; James W. Viger, A.R.A., Architect & Engineer; Anthony M. Rossi, A.I.A., N.C.A.R.B., Architect; and Robert H. Jensen, A.R.A., Architect.

Wright and Rossi have had their professional qualifications certified by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards. They are currently licensed to practice architecture in at least twelve states and are eligible or qualified to practice in all states of the U.S.A., Canada, England and Mexico. Viger is licensed in two states and is also registered in Illinois as a professional Engineer.

Wright, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has been in private practice in Des Plaines since 1958. He is a corporate member of the American Institute of Architects, the Society of American Registered Architects and past Vice-President of the Illinois Council of the A.R.A. A member of the Des Plaines Elks Lodge No. 1526, he has served as President of the Riverview Civic Association, Des Plaines.

Viger, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has been in private practice in Mount Prospect since 1953. He is a member of several organizations including the Society of American Registered Architects, Alpha Rho Chi professional fraternity and the Institute of Professional Designers. He is a former trustee of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Jessen, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has been in private practice since 1958 with offices in Park Ridge. A Palatine resident, he is a member of the Society of American Registered Architects, Northwest Architect's Club, Medinah Temple, Northwest Shrine Club and Park Ridge Kiwanis Club.

Rossi, a graduate of Chicago Tech, has been in private practice in Des Plaines since 1968. He served as Corporate Architect for McDonald Systems, Inc., from 1960-67.

Zillier Named Product Head At Weber Inc.

Carl W. Zillier has been appointed product manager — pressure sensitive by Weber Marking Systems, Inc., Arlington Heights, according to an announcement by James B. Crassweller, vice president of sales.

In his new position, Zillier will be responsible for marketing and sales of all pressure-sensitive stock produced on the company's newly-installed hot-melt coating system.

Zillier previously served as assistant merchandising manager at W. H. Brady Co., Milwaukee, Wis., and purchasing agent at Pressure Sensitive, Inc., Chicago.

A 1960 graduate of Marquette University with a B.S. in Business Administration, Zillier resides with his wife, Shirley, and two children in River Forest.

2nd Home Not Hallmark Of Wealth Today

The second home is no longer a hallmark of wealth according to Sabino Marinella, senior vice president of Continental Investment Corporation, Boston.

"American families in all income brackets are buying second homes at an accelerated pace."

"The more than 3 million families that already own second homes are expected to be joined by another 1.5 million to 2 million more families before the end of the 1970s," he said. "The demand for second homes and recreational lands has grown steadily over the past 10 years and is now soaring at an unprecedented pace."

A recent CIC study shows that individual recreational lots are selling at a current rate of $25,000 a year, Marinella said. An estimated $3 billion was spent on second homes, recreational land and lots in 1970 and the total is expected to be well over the $4 billion mark in 1971.

"The study reveals that between 1960 and 1970, an average of $5,000 second home starts per year were recorded," he said. "Current estimates are that in 1971, one of every 10 housing starts will be a second home."

An increasing number of people in the 40-to-45 age bracket are buying vacation homes for the express purpose of making them their primary homes upon retirement, according to Marinella.

"A major percentage of the second homes bought today will be primary homes by the year 2000. This is a definitive trend — a growing number of developers are keying their future building plans to this trend," he said.

McDonald Named VP Of Blue Shield

Michael P. McDonald of 717 Willowwood Drive, Palatine has been appointed vice president by the Board of Directors of the National Association of Blue Shield Plans (NABSP) during its recent meeting in Chicago.

McDonald was named vice president for actuarial and auditing services of the association which coordinates the activities of the 72 Blue Shield Plans throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. Since January of 1970, he had been assistant vice president, actuarial and auditing.

In his new position, McDonald is responsible for consultative services to member Blue Shield Plans related to all areas of finance as well as the auditing of administrative costs pertaining to both national accounts and the Federal Employee Program, which is the group made up of some five million government employees and their families. His staff conducts on-site visits to evaluate the plans' accounting system and makes recommendations for improvement.

McDonald joined the association in October 1963 as a statistician following four years with Oregon Physician's Service, a local Blue Shield Plan, where he was manager of the actuarial and statistical department.

He was promoted to director of NABSP's actuarial division in October 1968, and was named assistant vice president, actuarial and auditing, in January of 1970. He is a graduate of the University of Oregon with a degree in economics.

Durava Addresses Joliet Rotary Club

Richard J. Durava of Arlington Heights, assistant secretary in the trust department at The Northern Trust Co., Chicago, was guest speaker at the Aug. 3 meeting of the Joliet Rotary Club, Joliet. The topic of his speech was "Estate Planning."

Durava, who joined the Bank in 1968, holds both a B.S. and a J.D. degree from DePaul University. He received the designation of C.P.A. in 1961.

Active in professional organizations, Durava is a member of the Illinois Society of C.P.A.'s, the District of Columbia Institute of C.P.A.'s, and the Chicago and American Bar Associations. He is a member of the Committee of Members in Industry, Education, and Government of the Illinois Society of C.P.A.'s.

Durava is a commissioner on the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Contractors Slate Conference Oct. 28

A day long conference for Chicago area general contractors is being planned for Oct. 28 at the new Regency Hyatt House in Chicago.

The conference, sponsored by the Builders' Association of Chicago, will be for both members and non-affiliated construction contractors who operate in Cook, DuPage and Lake counties.

Program details for the conference have not been finalized.

Oldfield Adds Dimension

The social and recreational facilities of Oldfield Club, the new Clubhouse and sports center built by Centex-Winston Corporation, will be available for the exclusive use of homeowners at Winston Woods and the townhouses of Winston Village in the village of Bolingbrook.

Located at 98 Clubhouse Drive, (at Oldfield Road, east of Route 53, one mile north of the Stevenson Expressway in the village of Bolingbrook) Oldfield Club adjoins the two communities.

An olympic styled swimming pool, a children's pool, sundecks, tennis courts, and a clubhouse with game, teen, card, ping-pong and billiard rooms and a multi-purpose party room with wood-burning fireplace.

A full time community activities director, John Slavik, and his staff will organize additional activities to meet the interests of the club's members. A playground area, basketball and volleyball courts are planned for the near future. Included in the program under consideration are softball league, arts and crafts instruction, swimming lessons for adults and children, family bike outings, a special recreation program for the handicapped, Sportsman Club, horse-shoe tournament, golf outings, nature studies program and jogging.

Homeowners of the townhouses of Winston Village are automatically members of Oldfield Club and families at Winston Woods are eligible for membership at a nominal annual fee.

The two, three and four bedroom homes at the townhouses of Winston Village, regardless of their size, feature a full basement, private fenced yard with patio and attached garage. Each home has a cabinet kitchen equipped with stainless steel sinks, disposal, dishwasher, range and two-way power exhaust system. Ceramic wall and floor tile are available in a choice of colors in the upstairs bath and the house is carpeted throughout except in the kitchen, foyer, first floor den and powder room where vinyl asbestos tile is used. Central air conditioning is available as a custom option feature.

Winston Woods features model homes ranging in price from $31,200 to $38,500. All homes in Winston Woods feature kitchens fully equipped with a free-standing double oven and range, built-in dishwasher, disposal unit, and two-way power exhaust system.

Standard features include ceramic floor and wall tile in all main floor baths, carpeting throughout with the exception of the baths, kitchens, family rooms and foyers.

Hodowal Celebrates 40th Anniversary

Raymond J. Hodowal, 416 N. Ayrshire Lane, Inverness, observed his 40th service anniversary with Commonwealth Edison Co., July 31. # Home Ownership Is Easier Than Ever

Home ownership is easier and safer now than it was a few decades ago, according to Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

"Low down payments, long-term loans and many other home credit features standard today were viewed as visionary and impractical until the not-too-distant past," he said.

Before the Depression, a regular first mortgage covered no more than 60 to 67 per cent of a home's value, Strunk said. Savings Associations were about the only lenders making "amortized" loan mortgages, those in which borrowers made regular payments each month.

"The system worked for decades but ran into trouble when the Depression forced institutions to reduce earnings rates causing homeowners to make more payments than they had planned," he said. "To protect home buyers, the federal agencies charged with reviving housing adopted the amortized form of mortgage. By 1940 this had become the dominant form with all lenders."

The next major home credit advances came after World War II and were foreshadowed by a U.S. League postwar planning committee, according to Strunk. In 1944 the committee recommended lending practices such as substantial prepayment rights without penalty, budgeting taxes and insurance on a monthly basis, the open-end clause and permission for borrowers who had been paying ahead to lapse payments.

"The postwar years also saw the gradual extension of the length of mortgages and the lowering of down payment requirements," Strunk said. "These developments, as well as the recommendations of the League, have become standard in American mortgage financing."

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS

FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING
REAL ESTATE SERVICE

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HOME MORE ATTRACTIVE FOR THE SALE

If you are getting ready to sell your home, it is important that you make the home "visually" attractive for any potential buyer. The first impression is of the utmost importance and here are a few aspects that should be checked and adjusted if necessary.

Be sure your landscaping is always kept trim and neat with special care given to weed removal. Be sure all mechanical and electrical components of the home are in working condition, that your doorbells are all working and all door hinges are oiled. Fix any leaky faucets, keep all windows clean, be sure any obvious wall cracks are repaired and that there are new bulbs in all inside and outside light fixtures. Needless to say any rooms that are in critical need of decorating should be repainted and brightened. It is amazing how much a small amount of decorating and maintenance will add to the attraction and to the selling price of your home.

Sales Best In History Of Baird & Warner

First half gross dollar volume and sales production were the best in the 116-year history of Baird & Warner, Inc., according to John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager.

Gross dollar production was $95,296,534 for the 1971 period, an increase of 41 per cent over $60,409,731 a year ago, Hall said.

The firm's 27 Chicago and suburban sales offices participated in 2,019 sales, a 51 per cent improvement over last year's 1,333 sales participations for the comparable period.

"According to trends now evident we expect buyers and sellers both to find a healthy active market for homes for at least the rest of the year," he said.

Hall, who recently was elected to his second successive term as president of the Chicago Real Estate Board, noted that a good mortgage situation is supporting the market. Baird & Warner offices report financing is generally available at 7 to 7 1/2 per cent, with most in the 7 1/4 per cent range. Lenders will generally grant 80 per cent financing, with some going as high as 90 per cent to reduce the down payment needed by the buyer to a minimum.

Legislature Helped Construction

Progress on legislation vital to the construction industry in Chicago and throughout the state reached a new level in the recent session of the Illinois legislature according to Morton J. Crane, chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee of the AGC Council of Illinois, legislative arm for six industry associations.

"In terms of getting significant legislation discussed, introduced and acted upon by the General Assembly, we've accomplished more than ever this year," said Crane, president of Chicago-based Crane Construction Company, Inc., and a member of the Builders' Association of Chicago.

Crane credited the pooling of effort sparked by formation last fall of the Governmental Affairs Committee. It represents six chartered chapters of the Associated General Contractors of America operating in Illinois. The AGC is the national trade association of general building contractors.

Following the legislature's recess, Crane gave a progress report on the status of major matters affecting the construction industry:

1. A model construction safety code. The creation of a tough federal safety code has superseded efforts to develop such a code at the state level. This was regarded as a high priority.

2. Licensing laws. AGC Bills SB-1186 and 1187 were tabled in the senate committee in April. However, "home rule" contractor licensing bills HB 2499 and HB 2500 are expected to be considered in the fall session which convenes in October. The construction industry will continue its efforts to enact an effective state-wide licensing law.

3. "Hold Harmless" legislation. The industry has sought legislation against "hold harmless" clauses rendering skilled craftsmen not liable for their construction site actions. Such clauses have been increasing in labor contracts. SB 514, invalidating such provisions and returning to the common law position that each individual and organization is responsible for his actions was passed 115 to 3 on June 28 and is awaiting signature by the governor.

4. RETAINED PERCENTAGE. With the cooperation of the Department of Public Works, SB 728 providing interest payments to contractors on the unpaid percentage of contracts known as retainage was passed by the legislature and awaits action by the governor. The bill provides for the department of Public Works to establish a trust fund in an Illinois bank for each job. As work progresses, the retained percentage will be paid into the trust and earn interest. When the job is completed, the retainage plus interest will be paid to the contractor.

5. State-building code. The fate of industry efforts to achieve a performance type code that would supercede all local building codes in the state and take new methods of construction into consideration is a major question mark. HB 1430 was amended to enable municipalities to continue their existing code or adopt the 1430 code and passed by the house in late June. Even in its present form, it is expected to run into stormy weather in the senate.

Creation of the Construction Industry Affairs Commission (HB 2018) to study industry problems and recommend legislation for the next session is regarded as an important accomplishment by industry officials. It is now being considered by the governor.

FINAL ACTION is still pending on the complex and controversial Workmen's Compensation and Occupational Diseases Act Bills. In one form these bills were approved as HB 844 and 845. However, Senate Bills 251 and 252 are being examined by a bi-partisan committee to establish and review amendments which Crane said should make the legislation more workable.

Crane said many more matters affecting the industry are under consideration for future action.

In addition to the Builders' Association of Chicago, the Governmental Affairs Committee represents AGC of Illinois, Springfield; Central Illinois Builders, Springfield; Fox Valley General Contractors, Geneva; Northern Illinois Builders, Rockford; and Southern Illinois Builders, Belleville.

Major Improvement In Oil Heating

The Oil Heat Marketers Association has announced the development of an improved combustion technique for both distillate and residual oils.

The process, which creates an emulsion of oil and water prior to combustion, already has been proven in test situations to reduce the already minimal amount of unburned products normally emitted in fuel gases by as much as 90-95 per cent.

In addition, the new technique also offers the following advantages, according to the association: no loss of heating efficiency, greater cleanliness of boiler units, less frequent boiler cleanings, reduced fuel consumption, and reduced acid corrosion.

"For obvious reasons," T. E. Gorman, managing director, Oil Heat Marketers Association, commented, "both as heating users and as protectors of our nation's air, we are most anxious to see this new method pass its final tests and come to general market. For the time being, the innovation is applicable primarily to commercial burners, but the future implications for home usage are promising."

Describe Design At Walden Complex

Interior designer Bonnie Wudtke used three color schemes in three period styles for the model suites of the Walden development in Schaumburg.

"The carpeting and drapes which are standard in Walden apartments were carefully selected for their versatility. All apartments — studios one and two-bedroom suites — have wall-to-wall shag carpeting in an earthy green-gold tone.

Muted shades of blues and greens are the predominant colors used in the one bedroom apartment. The contemporary tufted sofa covered in blue and green striped woolen fabric with light oak sides, is flanked by classic Barcelona tables in rosewood.

Along the opposite wall is an antique French Lady's Secretary, circa 1870, and a "Design Research" teacart with butcher block top and bicycle wheels.

The dining room table is of a dark-stained, stripped oak pedestal with a thick, clear glass round top. A stripped oak breakfast nook serves as a showplace for antique copper and California handmade pottery serving pieces.

In the two-bedroom corner model suite, Mrs. Wudtke uses ultra-modern furniture and a color scheme of shades of purple with white.

Chrome and glass endtables, a white wicker chair with bright purple and blue accent pillows and a sofa covered in a dark purple print, all combine with the white walls and floor-to-ceiling windows to give an opaque look to the apartment.

In the corner stands a permanent Parsons cardtable covered in black imitation snakeskin with four black Bentwood chairs.

The dining room set is a contemporary rosewood with black trim. A purple Marimekko fabric hangs behind the buffet and pewter tableware accents the setting.

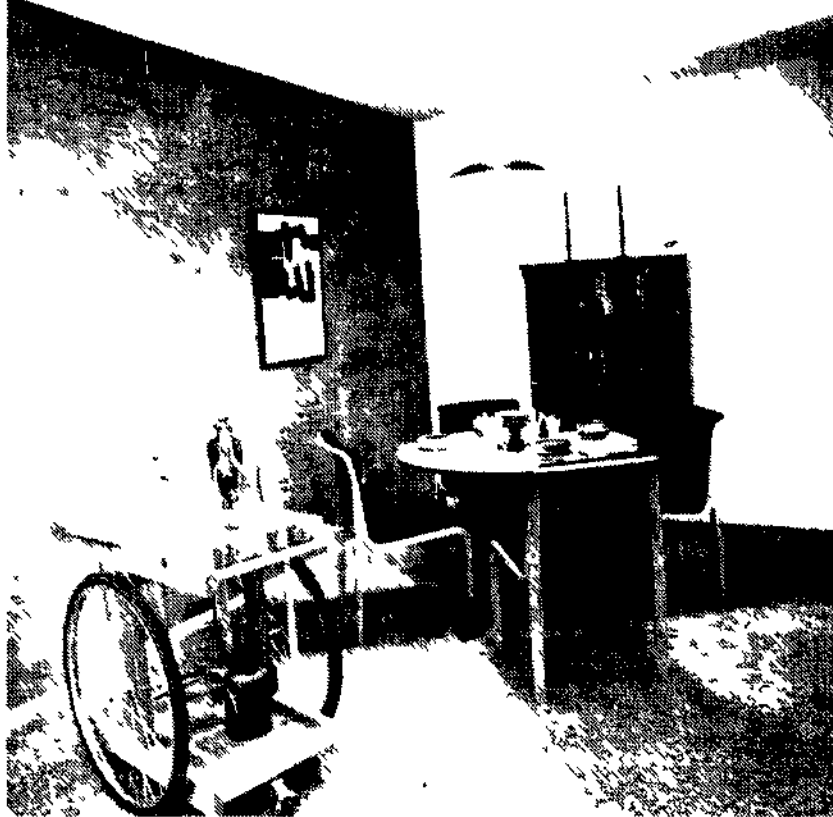

Among the accessories placed on tables and used as wall hangings are a flax carder, wooden cigar molds, an oak carpenter's plane and an early American ballot box.

While the master bedroom furnishings follow the modern trend, the second bedroom is furnished as a child's room with print wallpaper of yellow, shocking pink, green and orange and Scandinavian hardwood furniture.

In the third, two-bedroom model the decorator used greens, rusts and browns as the primary colors. Furniture style of this model is contemporary.

Balma Receives Bachelor's Degree

John M. Balma, 805 Mansfield Court, Schaumburg, received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in psychology from Wheaton College this spring. He has served as class social chairman and class resident, a resident hall advisor and homecoming committee chairman.

"CONTEMPORIZED" antiques" are featured in one of the model suites of the Walden development in Schaumburg. In the dining room shown above the decorator used a turn of the century breakfast nook containing antique copper and contemporary California pottery serving pieces to create the effect. In the foreground is a "Design Research" teacart made of butcher block and bicycle wheels.

On Dean's List

Gary Harold Anderson son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Anderson 904 N. Forrest, Arlington Heights was named to the 1970-71 second semester dean's list of Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Nebraska.

Gary a Junior was one of 167 full-time students so honored for their academic achievement in earning a grade point average of 3.5 or better, based on the 4.0 system.

3 In The Navy

Three local men have completed various phases of training with the U.S. Navy.

Seaman Gary Douglas Arnold son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley D. Arnold of 236 S. Carver Ln., Schaumburg, has finished recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, and is home on 14 days leave. A 1970 graduate of James B. Conant High School, he worked for Motorola Inc. in Schaumburg, until enlisting in the Navy last April joining the advanced electronics field program. When his leave is over he will report to the Navy Guided Missile School at Dam Neck, Va., for further training in the Polaris Poseidon electronics field. He has qualified for submarine duty and may be assigned to a Polaris submarine.

Ensign Frank W. Reifsnider son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Huff of 406 Lake side Plaza Hoffman Estates, completed post graduate school for a master of science degree in operations research, studying in a Naval school in Monterey, Calif.

Navy Airman Apprentice Jerald A. Crawford son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Crawford 214 Streamwood Blvd., Streamwood ended the recruit phase of the Navy's "Four to Ten Month" active duty program at the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Memphis. He has been assigned to a Class A School for training, and when he completes it will train one weekend a month for six years.

Miss Lukee Attends Summer Art School

Nancy Lukee, 419 Basswood Street, Hoffman Estates attended a week-long Allerton Federated Art School held at Allerton House University of Illinois conference center near Monticello this summer.

A total of 226 high school artists from the state were chosen to attend the school on the basis of superior ability in art.

Tempo Village Provides Recreation

PLANNING ACTIVITIES at Club Tempo is one of the functions of the Greenbrook Area I Homeowners' Association. Buyers of homes at Tempo Village in DuPage County automatically become members of both the homeowners' association and the private club. Shown above is the lounging and entertainment area of the clubhouse which overlooks an Olympic size pool.

Buyers at Tempo Village, Larwin's first village within the 850-acre Greenbrook County development in DuPage County, automatically become members of the Greenbrook Area I Homeowners' Association, a nonprofit corporation in Illinois.

The association's affairs and activities are in the hands of an elected five-member board of directors which in turn appoints the members of the executive committee. The declaration and by-laws demand appointment of an architectural control committee and nominating committee. Other committees are appointed at the discretion of the board of directors. Already set up at Greenbrook are pool, social, clubhouse, publicity, audit and grievance committees, headed by members of the 86 families already living in their Tempo homes.

Under the direction of the executive committee, the day-to-day activities of the association are handled by Jean Bates, Larwin's Tempo Village recreation director.

One of her functions is to acquaint all homeowners with the character and responsibilities of their association and how to run it independently.

IN COOPERATION with the chairman and members of the social committee, Mrs. Bates plans and supervises organized activities such as orientation meetings, Luau parties, children's entertainment and barbecues for homeowners and their guests.

Other activities include the women's weekly "coffee break" get-togethers "slim and trim" exercise classes, swimming lessons, father and son breakfasts, and a "summer boutique" fund-raising event for the association.

On the suggestion of several mothers with preschoolers, Mrs. Bates is now working on plans for a nursery school for four and five-year-olds. Classes are expected to start in September.

The activities are planned to give each age group, including adults, a fair share of the available facilities. There are art classes for boys and girls, volleyball teams for men and women, father and son bumper pool tournaments, couples bowling, and a story-telling hour for preschoolers.

TEMPO RESIDENTS can reserve the facilities of Club Tempo, which include a fully equipped kitchen, for private parties and receptions by contacting the club house committee.

Greenbrook is located on Lake Street (U.S. Rte. 20) one-half mile east of Barrington Road.

Citizens Bank Now 293rd Largest In US

Citizens Bank & Trust Company, Park Ridge, rose 36 places in the first six months of 1971 to rank as the 293rd largest bank in the United States, according to figures released recently by the American Banker, daily newspaper of the banking industry.

During the first six months of 1971 Citizens' deposits increased by more than $27 million, from $183,768,730.61 to $211,460,919.12. At the close of business June 30, 1971, total assets had exceeded $230 million, an increase of more than $30 million for the six month period. Based on deposits, Citizens is now the largest bank in Illinois outside of the city of Chicago.

Balance Privacy And Recreation

Developers of the Hilldale Villages in Hoffman Estates are aiming for a balance of recreational facilities and privacy for each family. The 258-acre complex is a project of Multicon Properties, Inc.

Two of the several planned villages, or residential areas, are now near completion — with apartments and townhouses of one to three bedrooms renting from $180 to $420 per month.

Each dwelling unit has its own main entrance and most of the ground floor units have a second entrance from the enclosed patio. Upper floor units all have private balconies. Each two or three bedroom apartment or townhouse has its own utility space, with most of these units having washer-dryer connections ready for use. Conveniently located laundry centers, with latest equipment, are also available. Private parking is provided for all units.

Each of the several residential areas — of which Augusta Village and Spyglass Hill are the first — is scheduled to have its own pool and clubhouse. Additional community facilities such as special play areas, outdoor basketball courts, tennis courts and courtyards.

An 18-hole championship golf course, designed by golf architect Robert T. Jones, is also under construction and is scheduled to open in the spring of 1972.

The entrance to the project is on Higgins Road, east of Barrington Road.

CONTEMPORARY-colonial styling is featured in the Hilldale Village's project in Hoffman Estates. Connecting walkways, as shown above, offer access to different areas of the development. The project is by Multicon Properties, Inc.

Kingman Makes Climb — Bat Makes Noise

A GIANT Giant!

When Willie Mays was playing for the first time with the New York Giants back in 1951, Dave Kingman was just a toddler playing in his Pendleton, Ore. backyard.

Since then the Giants and Mays have moved to San Francisco and the Kingman family also made several moves before settling in Mount Prospect.

Dave finally bridged the seemingly impossible gap that had been between these two men for two decades last month when he was called up to the Giants' parent club. And, after nearly two weeks in baseball's major leagues, it's still hard for Dave to believe he's playing among the super stars.

Paul Logan

"All the way through little league you have your big league idols, you know," said Kingman in the Giant dressing room before Sunday's doubleheader against the Cubs in Wrigley Field. "Willie Mays has been one of mine and Willie McCovey has also been an idol. All of a sudden you're playing on the same team and it's got to have some effect on you. It's a great thrill just to be on the same team with them, much less playing with them."

Dave starred as a pitcher for the University of Southern California as a sophomore (11-4, 1.38 ERA). He was moved to the outfield his junior year and this proved to be the biggest break of his career.

"I always enjoyed hitting and I enjoyed pitching in the same breath," said the 6-6, 215 pound giant of a Giant. "At first I had trouble making myself switch from thinking pitching to thinking hitting, but I'm pretty grateful for that now. I think I better stick with my hitting and forget about my pitching."

As a senior he helped lead his team to the national championship with a .355 batting average and slugged nine homers despite being sidelined part of the season with a broken wrist. His effort helped him earn a berth on the Sporting News All-America team in 1970.

He was the Giants' first pick in the 1970 free agent draft. Dave hit .295 and clubbed 15 homers in just 60 games with Amarillo in the Class AA, his first professional season.

Dave continued his hot pace this year with Phoenix. Nicknamed "The Hammer" by his teammates, big No. 45 smashed 21 homers, 24 doubles and five triples while knocking in 84 runs in his first 93 games in Class AAA ball.

"He turns that wind around," said Phoenix General Manager Rosy Ryan of Dave's power even against the wind which usually blows against righthanded hitters in Phoenix. "He's one of the strongest men I've ever seen. He has the chance of becoming one of the game's great sluggers."

This is quite an endorsement coming from Ryan, a former star with the New York Giants and an ex-roommate of Babe Ruth.

The Giants decided they needed "The Hammer's" power in the lineup late in July and he joined the club on July 30, the same date that another big guy — McCovey — came up back in 1959.

Kingman arrived just in time to play one of the most crucial series of the summer, a four-game set with the red-hot Pittsburgh Pirates. His first at bat wasn't very auspicious.

"I pinch hit and popped up to the second baseman," recalled Dave. However, the three games that followed were a complete reversal. "The next day I relieved for McCovey in about the fourth inning and I got two hits, a double and a grand slam."

This big blast helped beat the Pirates and was a thrill of a lifetime for this youngster. "I was riding on 'Cloud Nine' all the way around," said Dave of his home run trot. Then next day he was almost doubly elated as he belted a pair of two-run homers as the Giants swept the doubleheader and the series.

Since then he has recorded several more extra base hits and it wasn't until the 11th inning of Sunday's first game that he recorded still another first in his career — a single. He led off the 11th with a line drive which helped the Giants rally for two runs and a 4-2 win.

Tom Grieger

When Dave was called up, he was playing both first base and the outfield. "I'm more than happy to help out wherever I can," he says. "I think they were mainly looking for me to fill in for Willie Mac when he wants to rest."

"Willie McCovey and Willie Mays are more than happy to answer any questions that I might have pertaining to playing the outfield or first base, and they've really been helpful even in my hitting. They had quite a few suggestions for me."

Manager Charlie Fox is always happy to have another potential super slugger on his side of the diamond.

"There's no question in my mind that he's going to be a big league ball player," says Fox. "We're asking an awful lot of Dave to come on in a pennant race and help us, but he's already done that."

"I think he has the capabilities of being one of the real bright stars of the game. Of course, the lack of experience in little things is going to hurt him at different times, but there might never come an occasion where he could be hurt by a lack of experience."

"I will say this, he does all the basics — he runs well, he has good footwork, good hands, good fielder, he throws well, he's got power and he can hit. And playing with the raw material that he has, which is great, he just might carry us."

The word "King" is printed on Dave's big first basemen's mit. It might have some significance in the future. Maybe a couple of years from now the predictions of a Charlie Fox and a Rosy Ryan will come to pass.

Maybe after the two Willies have retired, the kids at Wrigley Field and the other parks in the league will be screaming for Dave's autograph, the name of the Giants' leading power hitter.

Then the comment won't be heard coming from the front row boxes, as it was last Sunday, "What's his name?"

Prospect Boosters

The Prospect Boosters Club have outlined their activity schedule for the 1971-72 sports season at Prospect High School. Three sports awards dinners are planned for the season including a Fall, Winter and Spring Banquet. Included in the season plans is a special Prospect Knights Booster Decal which will be made available to all past and present Prospect student parents. The colorful decal is suitable for car or home window application and is intended to help stimulate interest in Knights Booster Club membership. Complete fact sheets and membership application will be sent to all Prospect Student parents in August.

Babe Ruth Tourney

The eight-team, fourth annual International Babe Ruth Baseball age 16-18 Tournament of Champions will get underway at Cubeta Stadium in Stamford, Conn., Thursday Aug. 12.

Thursday's schedule will find Brookfield, Illinois facing South New-Castle County, Delaware at 6 P.M. (E.D.T.) in the lid lifter, while at 8:30 P.M., Syracuse, New York meets host Stamford.

The double-loss elimination worldwide Tournament of Champions finishes its first round Friday night with San Antonio, Texas meeting Sacramento, California at 5:30 P.M. and Mobile, Alabama facing Italy in the 8:00 o'clock nightcap.

City Welding Holds Lead; McGowan Tops Gross, Net

Don McGowan led the way in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League last week with both low gross of 36 and low net of 31 on the par-35 front nine. His hot round included one birdie, on the 390-yard, par-four first hole.

City Welding stayed in first place by a goodly margin, 16 1/2 points ahead of Control Equipment, which has a solid second-place hold over Horcher Decorators.

There were seven other birdies besides McGowan's — by Bill Turner, Steve Lombardo, Cedric Crain, Charlie Kleinfen, Bill Boyd, John Andrup and Bob Hudec.

Leading the No. 1 flight is Andrup with 95 points. Bob Service heads up the No. 2 flight with 96 1/2 points. Jack Leslie is tops in No. 3 with 86, John Coffey paces the No. 4 group with 87, Fred Grant is leading in No. 5 with 97 and Turner is best of the alternates with 98 1/2.

Team standings.

City Welding	461
Control Equipment	444 1/2

Junior Girls Tourney Today

Mary Lois Hall of Arlington Heights and Linda DiVall and Debbie Rubner of Mount Prospect will compete in the Junior Girls Golf Tournament of the Northern Illinois Women's Golf Association (NIWGA) Thursday and Friday, Aug. 12 and 13, at Midwest Country Club in Oak Brook.

The Junior Girls event will be in conjunction with the 10th annual Women's Amateur Tournament at the same site. The Junior Girls champion will be awarded the Governor Richard B. Ogilvie Traveling Trophy at the awards banquet Friday evening.

The NIWGA has initiated the girls tourney because of the lack of opportunity for Illinois girls through age 19 to participate in golf tournaments. It hopes to stimulate golf interest in girls regardless of their proficiency.

HAVING TROUBLE

We know the story, you received a nice looking "Cox Shuko," "Cox Dune Buggy" or maybe a Testoy's Cosmic Wind Trainer" for Christmas or your birthday. Or maybe you sold newspaper or magazine subscriptions to get it and there it sits in your closet or basement because you couldn't get the engine started. Dig it out and bring it in to our shop and we'll show you how to start it "Free," regardless of where or when it was purchased.

Bring in this ad for a free start. Offer Good through August 30, 1971.

Coq au Vin

The Flavor Of France

Coq au Vin

Vacationers in Europe often wonder why French food tastes so different. The answer lies in the ingredients, and one of the most important is wine. It is wine that gives many a sturdy regional dish its built-in flavor. As the alcohol evaporates in cooking, all that is left is the flavor, and the better the wine, the better the dish.

Traditional French specialties such as coq au vin vary according to the region. In Alsace, where the local white wines are featured in the cooking, coq au vin becomes coq au Riesling. In Burgundy it might be coq au Chambertin, or more simply coq a la bourguignonne (chicken in the style of Burgundy). Burgundians claim coq au vin as their own invention and as the classic version calls for diced lean salt pork, glazed onions and mushrooms, a garnish known to the local chef as "a la bourguignonne," no one would deny him this culinary feather in his tall white cap.

COQ AU VIN

- 6 ounces lean salt pork, cut in large dice
- 2 ounces butter
- 3 1/2 pound whole roasting chicken
- 1/4 cup Armagnac brandy
- 18 small white onions, peeled
- 2 cups red Burgundy or Beaujolais
- 1/2 cup chicken broth
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- Bouquet garni (bay leaf, thyme, parsley sprig tied in cheesecloth bag)

- Salt, freshly ground black pepper
- 12 small firm mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Put the salt pork in a saucepan, cover with water, bring to a boil and drain (this removes excess salt). Brown salt pork in a heavy enameled cast-iron casserole over medium heat. Remove and drain. Add 1 ounce butter to the pan, add chicken and brown on all sides. Remove excess fat from pan, pour in Armagnac, ignite and flame chicken. When flames die out, remove chicken, add onions and brown them lightly on all sides. Replace chicken and add Burgundy, broth, garlic, bouquet garni, about 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Wipe whole mushrooms with a damp cloth, trim off stalks and add caps to the pot (if mushrooms are large, cut in half).

Simmer gently on top of the stove for 50-60 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken, salt pork, onions and mushrooms to a serving dish. Remove and discard bouquet garni. Knead remaining 1 ounce butter into flour and form into small balls (the French call this beurre manie). Drop these balls into the simmering liquid and mix in well with a wooden spoon or wire whisk. Cook until liquid is slightly thickened. Taste for seasoning. Pour sauce over the chicken, salt pork and vegetables, sprinkle with parsley and serve with plain boiled potatoes, French bread and a red Burgundy or Beaujolais (the same used in the cooking). Or replace chicken, salt pork and vegetables in thickened liquid, sprinkle top with parsley and serve from the casserole.

Rock Lobster Casserole: An Easy Company Dinner

Do those guests keep coming? It's always wise to keep a casserole recipe up your sleeve, so to speak, that takes little watching time and impresses everyone. A Rock Lobster Macaroni and Cheese is a prepare-ahead dish to please the heartiest of appetites. Serve with a large mixed green salad, crusty bread, broccoli, an dry white wine or iced tea.

ROCK LOBSTER MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 3 Packages (8 ounces each)
- South African rock lobster tails
- 4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
- 2 cans (4 ounces each)
- sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1/3 cup butter
- 1/3 cup flour
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) sour cream
- 2 cups grated Muenster cheese
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 cup chopped scallions
- 1 can (4 ounces)
- pimientos drained and chopped
- Salt and pepper
- 2 tablespoons melted butter

Parboil frozen rock lobster tails by dropping into boiling salted water. When water reboils, drain immediately and drench with cold water. With scissors cut away underside membrane of each tail and remove meat in one piece. Dice meat from all but 4 of the tails. Cut remaining 4 tails in half lengthwise. Put macaroni and mushrooms into a greased 2-quart casserole. Melt butter and stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk and sour cream. Cook while stirring until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in 1 1/2 cups cheese, one handful at a time until smooth and melted. Stir in mustard, scallions and pimientos. Add salt and pepper to taste. Pour sauce over casserole. Sprinkle with cheese and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 3/4 hour. Remove from oven and stir in diced rock lobster meat. Place halved tails on top of casserole and brush with melted butter. Return to oven for 15 minutes. Makes one 2-quart casserole or 6 to 8 servings. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

BLUEBERRIES ARE a summer fruit staple. Look for berries with dark color and a silvery bloom. This bloom is a natural, protective waxy coating. Select berries that are plump, firm, uniform in size, dry and free from stems and leaves. Store berries unwashed and uncovered in the refrigerator until ready for use. Use within a couple of days.

REFRIGERATE INSTANT non-fat dry milk after it is combined with water. The same care should be given reconstituted dry milk as given other fluid products. Do not freeze.

Mrs. Robert E. Gutmann

Cookies For Any Season

by LOIS SEILER

Even on the hottest August days you can enjoy making home-baked goodies when the recipes are easy to prepare.

Mrs. Robert E. Gutmann of 202 S. We-Go Trail, Mount Prospect, has some specialties that are excellent for the summer months. One is for Kolacky, and the other for a cinnamon-butterscotch flavored cookie.

"Both recipes make huge quantities," Martha Gutmann explained. However, she doesn't over-heat her kitchen by baking them all at once. Martha bakes just what is needed at the time, divides up the dough and freezes it. When she needs more cookies or kolacky, she simply defrosts some of the dough and bakes a trayful or two.

Martha acquired her kolacky recipe from a Bohemian neighbor and terms it the best she's ever tasted. Made from a rich, cheese-flavored dough, the kolacky are filled with prepared prune and apricot fillings and raspberry jam.

Delicate and flakey in texture, they make an ideal finger-type dessert. Martha serves them for dinner parties, coffee parties, ladies luncheons and club meetings. They make a big hit, too, with her husband, Bob, and daughters Debbie, 10, Karen 8½, and Ruthann, 6½.

During the 1968 Republican Convention, the favorite cookie recipe of Mrs. Nelson D. Rockefeller was printed in a Chicago newspaper. Out of curiosity Martha tried it and the cookies quickly became a favorite of her family, too.

"IT'S A WONDERFUL convenience recipe because it makes such a huge quantity," she commented.

Best made with butter, the batter also calls for six egg yolks with another egg yolk used for glazing. What does Martha do with all the egg whites? She makes the Lady Baltimore Cake featured on page 452 in the 10th edition of Fanny Farmer's Cook Book! Meringues may also be made with the whites.

At Christmas Martha makes this same recipe, but instead of glazing the cookies she sprinkles them with colored sugar. During the summer months they make a nice snack with lemonade and taste appealing with a fruit dessert.

Martha enjoys all types of cooking, but avoids heavy, starchy foods. Although of Danish descent, she seldom cooks ethnic dishes but concentrates, instead, on Scandinavian stichery, making Rya rugs and woven pictures. She also belongs to a book club, is active at the "Y" and is a member of the AAUW.

KOLACKY

1½ pounds butter or margarine, at room temperature
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
8 cups flour
Prepared prune and apricot fillings
Raspberry jam

Cream butter and cream cheese thoroughly. Add powdered sugar. Sift 6 cups flour into batter slowly and blend well. Reserve remaining flour for rolling dough.

Using a floured rolling pin and floured board, roll out dough to ¼-inch thickness, using as much flour as needed to keep dough from sticking.

Using a biscuit cutter, cut whole rounds. Cut equal amount of rounds with centers removed. Place rounds with centers removed on top of whole rounds, making two layers. Put about ½ teaspoonful of desired filling in center.

Bake at 400 degrees until golden, about 10 to 15 minutes. Yield: about 10 dozen kolacky.

The dough will keep well in both refrigerator and freezer and can be baked as needed.

ROCKEFELLER EXECUTIVE MANSION BUTTER COOKIES

1 pound butter
1 cup light brown sugar, well-packed
1 cup granulated sugar
6 egg yolks
3 teaspoons vanilla
5 cups all-purpose flour, not sifted
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 egg yolk, well-beaten, for glaze

Cream butter and sugars until light and fluffy. Add 6 egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, flour, cinnamon and nuts.

Form into rolls 1½ inches round. Refrigerate a couple of hours or freeze, if desired. Cut in ¼-inch slices and place on greased cookie sheet. Brush tops with beaten egg yolk. Bake at 350 degrees about 15 minutes. Makes at least 12 dozen cookies or more.

The dough can be frozen and baked as needed.

MRS. ROBERT E. GUTMANN of Mount Prospect terms her kolacky recipe the best she's ever tasted. Made from a cheese-flavored dough, the kolacky are filled with prepared prune and apricot fillings and raspberry jam. Martha Gutmann likes to serve kolacky for snacking or informal desserts.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Roaming around Washington, D. C. recently, I encountered the recipe for an unusual chocolate cake. The reason it's so special is that it was developed by White House Pastry Chef Heinz Bender as President Nixon's own birthday cake.

You may find the proportions a little confusing as we jotted them down, but understand that Mr. Bender is a professional chef and doesn't measure in cups or spoons, but follows the more accurate method of weighing everything.

At any rate, this will be fun to try for a special birthday treat fit for a President. Measure 2 cups plus 3 scant tablespoons of cake flour. Sift. Combine with 1½ cups sugar, ¼ cup solid vegetable shortening, ¼ cup butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon plus 1 8 teaspoon double acting baking powder, and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Blend on slow speed of electric mixer until crumbly. Chef Bender says it's important that beaters of the mixer reach the bottom of the bowl thoroughly.

Add 5 ounces of milk slowly, beating until blended. Beat at medium speed for 1 minute. Blend in 2 ounces of melted bitter chocolate, continuing beating until well blended. With a wire whisk beat 3 ounces of milk with 3 medium sized eggs until completely mixed.

Add eggs and milk slowly to cake mixture beating at low speed. When all is added beat rapidly for several seconds. Use a rubber spatula to scrape bottom and sides of bowl to be sure mixture is thoroughly blended.

Grease two 9-inch cake pans heavily with shortening, then flour. Spread batter evenly in both pans and bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes, or until finger pressed lightly on top does not leave impression. Remove from oven and put on rack in pans for 5 minutes. Turn out on racks and cool completely before frosting.

For the frosting, melt 5 bars of sweet cooking chocolate (4-ounce) over hot water in top of double boiler. Combine 1½ cups plus 1 tablespoon sugar with 1½ cups water and bring to rolling boil. Continue boiling 30 seconds. Place ½ cup of this simple syrup in a bowl. Add the melted chocolate and beat with wire whisk to blend. Add another cup of the simple syrup and beat hard until thick. Add 1½ tablespoons rum extract while continuing beating. Add ½ cup melted butter. Continue beating until smooth and well blended. Frosting will thicken as it stands.

Make 2 layers out of each cake layer by cutting through the middle and when frosting is of spreading consistency frost each layer and cover top and sides.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Vegetables Spark Summer Menus

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

It's time again for corn on the cob. Buy only the freshest corn, preferably at road side stands, which has been picked that same day. At temperatures above freezing the sugar in corn turns to starch, so immediately place the corn in the coldest spot in the refrigerator. It is best to use the corn that same day or as soon as possible. Select cobs that are well filled and have firm, plump, milky kernels.

Do not overcook. Drop cleaned ears in briskly boiling water for four to six minutes, depending on the size of the ear. Remove from water and serve immediately with butter, salt and pepper or seasoned butters.

GARLIC BUTTER

¼ pound butter, melted
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon paprika

Mix well and brush generously on corn. Other seasonings that can be added to 1 stick of butter are ½ teaspoon onion salt and/or ½ teaspoon ground dill weed, 1 teaspoon chili powder, 1 teaspoon curry, ½ teaspoon oregano, or ¼ teaspoon basil.

GRILLING CORN

To grill corn, soak the ears in cold water for about 30 minutes. Peel back the husks and remove silks. Brush generously with melted butter, close the husks again as tightly as possible and grill for about 20 minutes, turning the ears frequently as they cook. Grilling tends to give the corn a caramel-like flavor.

Long a favorite in the Mediterranean area, zucchini squash can be served many different ways. The following are a few continental recipes that will add variety to meals.

ZUCCHINI CAKES

3 cups coarsely shredded unpared zucchini
2/3 cup pancake mix
½ cup butter
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon onion juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
¼ cup finely snipped parsley
Sour cream (optional)

Mix all the ingredients together and drop by large spoonfuls onto a lightly greased hot griddle. Brown both sides, turning once. Zucchini cakes should measure about 3 inches in diameter. Top with sour cream if desired. Makes 6 servings.

ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

1½ pounds ground beef
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
½ cup chopped frozen onions

½ cup chopped frozen green peppers
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
1 bay leaf, crushed
¼ teaspoon basil freshly ground pepper
2 cans (16-ounces each) stewed tomatoes
1 cup elbow or shell macaroni
3 cups sliced zucchini (approx. 4-5 medium size)
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ cup Italian seasoned bread crumbs
¼ cup parmesan cheese
Butter

Saute beef in vegetable oil until lightly browned. Add onions and green pepper, garlic salt, bay leaf, basil and pepper. Continue cooking until onions are soft and clear. Add tomatoes and continue cooking.

Meanwhile, cover macaroni with boiling salted water and cook for 5 minutes. Drain thoroughly. Wash zucchini and cut into ¼-inch slices. Sprinkle on salt. Layer in bottom of casserole alternately with macaroni and tomato-meat mixture. Combine bread crumbs with parmesan cheese and sprinkle over top of casserole. Dot with butter and bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes or until zucchini are done. Serves 6.

Convenience And Foreign Flavors

Most consumer surveys show two dominant trends in foods: interest in convenience and interest in foreign foods. Both trends merge in many products, but the testers in the Thomas' Specialty Baked Products Kitchens encourage families to create their own version of foreign foods.

Italian Antipasto sandwich, an Easy Small Pizza made on toasted English muffins and a Beef Muffin Italia using that American favorite ground beef will add appeal to ordinary menu. These are all especially suited for snacks, suppers, and informal meals at most any hour of the day or evening.

All three are served on split and toasted English muffins. The proper way to split an English muffin is to pierce it all around with the tines of a fork, then gently pull it apart. Toast the muffins in a toaster oven, a regular toaster or broiler. Usually muffins should be lightly buttered while hot. They are at the peak of perfection when served direct from the toaster but may be kept warm when necessary.

For the Antipasto sandwich, use your own version of flavorful items or select from these: slices of salami, solid-pack tuna drained and turned out whole, marinated artichoke hearts, pimientos, anchovy filets, olives, hard cooked egg slices and green onions. Other choices may be pickled mushrooms, sardines, fresh tomato slices, prosciutto or other ham or sausage, celery hearts, fried green peppers or egg plant slices and cheese slices. When you shop for your Italian meal, look for English muffins either in the regular bread display or in the frozen food cases. For other items shop in the regular area for most foods but look in the gourmet or specialty food section for items to lift your easy Italian meal out of the ordinary.

EASY SMALL PIZZAS

6 English muffins
Margarine or butter
1 (2-pound) can Italian style peeled tomatoes, drained or 12 slices fresh tomato Garlic salt
Dried oregano leaves
12 slices mozzarella cheese
Grated Parmesan cheese
Toppings (optional): anchovy filets, sliced mushrooms, Italian sausage, pepperoni, sliced green onions or pimiento-stuffed olive slices Split English muffins by scoring with tines of fork and then gently pulling apart. Toast; spread with margarine or butter. Break tomatoes lightly with fork and place on muffin halves. Sprinkle with garlic salt and oregano. Place mozzarella slice on top and sprinkle with Parmesan. Broil pizzas 3 to 5 minutes or until cheese bubbles and muffin is thoroughly heated. If desired, garnish with anchovy filets, sliced mushrooms, Italian sausage, pepperoni, sliced green onions or pimiento-stuffed olives. Makes 6 servings.

BEEF MUFFINS ITALIA

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup tomato sauce
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash garlic powder
4 English muffins
Mix together meat, tomato sauce, oregano, salt and garlic. Split English muffins by scoring with tines of fork and then gently pulling apart. Toast. Spoon ¼ cup meat mixture on each muffin half, covering entire surface. Broil 2 to 3 inches from source of heat about 4 minutes or until meat is cooked to desired doneness. Makes 4 servings.

USDA Reports Genoa Salmi Being Recalled

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that George A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn., was cooperating in a voluntary retail market recall of the Hormel vacuum-packed, sliced Genoa salami.

Officials of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service (C & MS) said incidents of illness attributed to the product have been confirmed in Chicago; East Liberty, Pa.; Pensacola and Miami, Fla.; and Minneapolis. A total of eleven persons have become ill, C&MS said, showing the symptoms of illness from a toxin produced by Staphylococcus bacteria. Illness from this toxin is characterized by nausea, vomiting and other digestive upsets. The victims of the incidents have fully recovered, officials said.

C&MS explained that in the normal processing of this dry salami, favorable bacteria keep the staph from reaching harmful levels. In this instance, this interaction did not take place, C&MS said. An investigation is now underway into the cause of the problem.

The entire production of vacuum packed, sliced Genoa salami from all Hormel plants is being recalled as a precautionary measure, officials said. C&MS is monitoring the recall and the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga. has been notified. Such action is considered necessary whenever a possible health hazard is posed by a meat or poultry product processed under Federal inspection.

Similar action was taken last week when USDA announced that Armour & Co. voluntarily recalled its Genoa salami. Officials said the Armour recall has not been completed.

Chili Chips and Bean Dip

Party Chips And Dip

It's all over but the memories! But vacation, that brief period of summer splendor we all look forward to, is recalled often by reviewing souvenirs, photographs, maps — even the expense record!

Why not exchange vacation memories with friends at a special end-of-summer party? For refreshments, select something typical of the area you visited. For example, if you toured the great Southwest, these Chili Chips and Bean Dip will bring to mind many enjoyable moments.

The thin, crisp chips are made from a simple batter of enriched corn meal, water and butter, and flavored with chili powder. The dip, too, is easy: a combination of canned black bean soup, sherry and grated cheese. Serve the dip warm with the flavorful homemade corn meal chips.

An appropriate partner for these chips and dip would be a cooling beverage — tangy lemonade or refreshing fruit punch. Or you might offer a pitcherful of the popular Spanish specialty, sangria. Then get set to enjoy your vacation memories.

CHILI CHIPS AND BEAN DIP

Chips:
1 cup enriched corn meal
½ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
2½ tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Heat oven to hot (425 degrees). Blend corn meal, chili powder and salt. Add water and butter; mix thoroughly. Drop on greased cookie sheet by heaping ¼ teaspoons, 2-inches apart. Spread each to about 1/16-inch thickness with small spatula. Sprinkle with salt, if desired. Bake in preheated oven 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen chips.

Dip:
1 can (13-oz.) condensed black bean soup
2 tablespoons sherry
½ teaspoon onion salt
2 cups grated sharp cheese
Blend soup, sherry and onion salt. Heat just until bubbly. Remove from heat; stir in cheese. Keep warm over hot water until ready to serve. At serving time, place in chafing dish over low flame and serve with chips.

Savory Sauces Add Flair To Mixed Barbecue Grill

A nibble of this, a nibble of that... the smorgasbord and the Chinese dinner both use this pleasant food approach. In America, we have a meat version of this kind of variation on a theme. Most fine chop houses offer a mixed grill composed of several companionable meats. Your own backyard cookery can adapt the same principle with Mixed Barbecue Grill.

Burgers and franks, the staples of outdoor cookery, take beautifully to mixing and matching and you can add, if you choose, ribs, chicken or steaks. Cling peaches join the meats... and the secret of the fine taste of all is in the sauce.

The sauces are easy to make, too. Western Barbecue Sauce combines molasses with mustard, vinegar, tomato sauce and nippy ingredients. By all means use some celery seed for added flavor and interesting texture. There's nothing to cook... just combine and brush over the meat and, during the last five minutes of grilling, brush over the peaches as well.

There's a Far Eastern version of the Western Barbecue Sauce, too, this with an inscrutable Oriental combination of spices and peach syrup. Ground ginger goes into the sauce, and soy sauce and cornstarch combine to thicken in the traditional manner. This one requires about five minutes heating time.

MIXED BARBECUED GRILL

Place hamburgers and frankfurters on outdoor grill. Brush with choice of barbecue sauce. Grill to desired degree of doneness. Place drained cling peach halves on grill last 5 minutes of cooking time; brush lightly with barbecue sauce.

WESTERN BARBECUE SAUCE

½ cup molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard
¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons

Worcestershire sauce
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 teaspoons celery seed, optional

Blend together molasses and mustard until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients; mix well.

Yield: 2 cups — enough for 2 dozen hamburgers, 2½ dozen frankfurters, and 14 to 16 cling peach halves.

FAR EASTERN BARBECUE SAUCE

2 cans (29 ounces each) cling peach halves
½ cup molasses
½ cup vinegar

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water or peach syrup

Drain peach halves; reserve ½ cup of the syrup. (Reserve remaining syrup for use in fruit drinks, punches, etc.) Combine syrup with molasses and vinegar in saucepan. Stir in salt, ginger and soy sauce. Blend cornstarch and cold water until smooth; stir into molasses mixture. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Yield: ½ cups — enough for 1½ dozen hamburgers, 2 dozen frankfurters, and 14 to 16 c. cling peach halves.

Convenient Skillet Dinners

Recently Introduced By Hunt Foods

HUNT-WESSON FOODS, Inc. has recently introduced a new line of convenience products — Hunt's Skillet Dinners. The dinners include a mildly spiced Skillet Mexicana, a creamy Skillet Stroganoff and a zesty Skillet Lasagne.

To prepare the dinner, a homemaker browns a pound ground beef; then following the directions on the package, adds the contents of the skillet dinner carton. After a total cooking time of only 10 minutes, she has an appealing main dish to serve four.

With the single skillet dinners, there is only one pan to wash — even the noodles cook right along with the ground beef, sauce and seasonings. The dinners cost about 35 to 40 cents per serving, including the beef.

The following recipe is an easy variation using Skillet Mexicana.

Mexicana Pizza

1 (12.3-ounce) package Hunt's Skillet Mexicana ½ cup water
1 egg, beaten slightly
1 pound ground beef chuck
1 (8-ounce) can refried beans
1 (2¼-ounce) can sliced ripe olives
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 avocado, peeled and sliced
3 cherry tomatoes
½ cup dairy sour cream

Disregard directions on Skillet Mexicana package and proceed as follows: Mix Skillet Mexicana sauce and contents of Skillet Mexicana seasoning packet with water; combine ½ cup sauce mixture with Skillet Mexicana noodles, egg and beef. Pat on 12-inch pizza pan. Bake at 350 degrees 20 minutes; drain fat. Spread with refried beans. Sprinkle with olives. Spoon remaining sauce mixture over all; top with cheese. Continue baking 20 minutes. Garnish with avocado slices and tomatoes. Sprinkle Skillet Mexicana chips in center. Cut into wedges. Serve with sour cream. Makes 6 servings.

FROZEN ENGLISH muffins have been introduced by Newly Weds Foods, Inc. in convenient, striking new packages. Shoppers who miss buying muffins where they normally are located in the dairy case now can find them in the frozen foods department.

The muffins are packed in durable poly bags with a twist-tie which hold six or four Newly Weds king-sized muffins and feature an eye-catching British flag motif. The four pack is ideal for the smaller family or singles while the six pack fits in with larger family needs.

According to Charles T. Angell, vice president, the new frozen muffins are not designed to replace the Newly Weds English muffin tray pack that usually is found in the dairy case, but to give shoppers the added convenience of also having frozen muffins available in the freezer case.

Kitchen Shorts

CHANGE THE breakfast pace with chilled applesauce for the fruit. It's a pleasing contrast to hot breakfast foods. Nutmeg and cinnamon can be used for added flavor.

LET METAL CAKE pans cool before plunging them into hot soda. This way prevents warping.

IN HOME CANNING, there's many a slip between the garden and the jar. Make sure that all utensils, containers and cloths that come in contact with food be as clean as possible. Hot soda and water will do the trick. After washing and rinsing jars, keep them covered with hot water until ready to use.

Salads To Complement Hot-Off-The-Grill Meats

Cold salads and hot-off-the-grill meats — it's an irresistible cookout combination. And to complement the burgers, steaks or chops, French Company's Test Kitchens have created two new summer salads that take little time or trouble to prepare.

The Patio Bean Salad is a crisp combination of vegetables with a simple oil and vinegar dressing given tang with Worcestershire sauce.

There's no paring and slicing involved in making Garden Potato Salad. Its base is instant mashed potato granules — celery, radishes and bacon are added for crunch.

And for attractive help-yourself service, arrange individual mounds of the potato salad on a large platter — they're easily made with an ice cream scoop.

PATIO BEAN SALAD

1 can (1-lb.) whole green beans, drained
1 large green pepper, chopped
2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
½ cup oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire

sauce

½ teaspoon salt

Combine beans, pepper, and tomatoes. In a small jar add oil, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, and salt; shake until well blended. Pour over vegetables and toss lightly. 4 servings.

GARDEN POTATO SALAD

1 envelope (5 servings) French's Instant Mashed Potato granules
4 slices cooked, crisp bacon, crumbled
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup sliced radishes
½ cup chopped celery
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon vinegar
Lettuce

Prepare instant potatoes according to package directions, except reduce water to 1¼ cups. Combine potatoes, bacon, eggs, radishes, and celery. In a small bowl mix together mayonnaise, vinegar, and salt. Stir mayonnaise mixture into potatoes. Chill. Serve on lettuce. 4 to 5 servings.

Hearty Lima Bean Casseroles

When you consider the fact that beans are grown and enjoyed the world over and were cultivated long before the beginning of recorded history, it isn't surprising that America has a heritage of bean dishes. They are not only a budget dish, but are well liked.

BAKED LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

1 pound large dried lima beans, rinsed

2 quarts water (about)
1/4 cup dark corn syrup
1/4 cup margarine
1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Place limas in large saucepan and cover with water. Soak overnight. Bring limas to boil, simmer, covered, 30 minutes or until tender. Drain, reserving 2 cups liquid. Place limas in 2 1/2 to 3-quart casserole or bean pot. Combine corn syrup, margarine, mustard, salt, ginger, thyme, parsley, pepper and reserved liquid. Pour over limas. Bake, covered, in 350 degree (moderate) oven 1 1/2 hours. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If crispy brown top is desired remove cover during last 15 minutes of baking.

LIMA CASSEROLE WITH HAM

1 pound dry baby lima beans, rinsed
3 quarts water
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons margarine
2 medium onions, sliced (1 1/2 cups)
1 green pepper, diced (1 cup)
1/2 cup catchup
1/2 cup dark corn syrup

2 tablespoons vinegar
2 teaspoons dry mustard
Dash Tabasco sauce
1 cup diced cooked ham (1/4 pound)

Place the rinsed beans in a large kettle with 3 quarts of water and salt. Bring slowly to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 10 minutes. Turn off heat and allow beans to stand 1 hour. Bring beans again to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1 hour. Melt margarine in skillet. Add onions and green pepper; saute, stirring frequently, until tender. Mix catchup with corn syrup, vinegar, mustard and Tabasco. Drain beans, reserving 1 cup liquid. Mix this liquid with catchup mixture. In a 3-quart casserole, arrange limas, onion and pepper mixture and ham in alternate layers, beginning and ending with limas; pour catchup mixture over top. Bake at 325 degrees (slow) oven, uncovered, about 2 hours or until beans are browned and tender. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Tasty Summer Salad Mold

FLORIDIAN SUMMER SALAD MOLD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 teaspoons sugar
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup (1 1/2 pound) crumbled blue cheese
1 cup plain yogurt
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
2 cups Florida orange and grapefruit sections
1 cup sliced fresh fruit in season (strawberries, bananas, etc.)
6 lettuce cups

Sprinkle gelatin over water; stir over hot water until gelatin is dissolved; add concentrate and sugar. Combine cheeses; blend in gelatin mixture. Stir yogurt and Tabasco into cheese mixture until all ingredients are thoroughly blended. Pour into lightly oiled 2-cup mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Carefully unmold cheese salad onto plate. Surround mold with individual fruit salads in lettuce cups.

Yield: 6 servings.
To section oranges and grapefruit, cut slice from top, the cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough

Kitchen Hints

FROZEN DESSERTS should be stored in the tightly-closed carton at zero degrees Fahrenheit or colder. If you store ice cream in a refrigerator frozen-food compartment, use it within a week. When the ice cream is partially used up, cover the surface with a protective wrap so as to avoid the loss of moisture.

CHEESE WILL MELT quicker if it is sliced, cubed, shredded or grated to use in a recipe. Shred soft cheese on a coarse grater; hard cheese on a fine one. When cooking cheese, use low temperatures and do not overcook because it will become tough and stringy.

BUTTER CAN BE USED as the shortening in plain pastry. Use 1 cup plus two tablespoons of butter in place of 1 cup of shortening. Why? Because butter is only 8 per cent fat and crust would not be as tender as one made with another shortening.

Bean Knowledge

It's baked bean time again, and the United States Department of Agriculture has meat standards which apply to the federally inspected varieties of this cook-out favorite. These might be worthwhile to keep in mind when you shop.

"Beans with frankfurters in sauce," for example, must contain at least 20 per cent frank on a fresh-weight basis. "Beans with ham in sauce," on the other hand, must contain at least 12 per cent cooked ham. "Beans with bacon in sauce," must contain at least 12 per cent bacon.

For more on the inspection, buying and care of meat and poultry products, the free "Meat and Poultry Leaflets G-170 through 174," Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Protein Packed Bean Dish

Fighting the rising cost of food is a full time occupation. It demands lots of thought and concentration and a goodly amount of imagination to serve economical foods in a new and interesting guise. The biggest hunk of the food dollar goes for protein foods, and one of the best budget stretchers for this category is dried beans. But other than Boston Baked Beans, what can you do with them? You can make a Cassoulet! . . . beans baked with meats, vegetables and herbs. The secret to this wonderful dish is the long slow baking and the blend of seasonings. In the recipe given below, pimiento-stuffed olives lend their distinctively tangy flavor and a nice touch of color.

The meats used in this version of Cassoulet are ham, pork, sausage and chicken, but you can substitute at will. Use raw or cooked lamb in place of the pork . . . chicken wings instead of the meatier (and more expensive) legs and thighs . . . a ham bone and some lean salt pork for the ham hock. And Cassoulet's great for using up tag-ends of roasts.

Another bean and olive combination is made with red kidney beans, seasoned with a little vinegar, some brown sugar and, of all things, instant coffee powder. It sounds strange, but it's a marvelous blend of flavors.

CASSOULET PROVINCAL

- 2 pounds dry Great Northern beans
- Water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 1 ham hock
- 1 onion, stuck with 6 to 8 whole cloves
- 2 carrots, sliced
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1 cup small pimiento-stuffed olives
- 6 chicken legs and thighs or 1½ pounds chicken wings
- ½ pound (2 cups) diced pork
- ¼ cup salad oil
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- ½ pound garlic or link sausage, cut in 1-inch slices
- 1 cup dry bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Cassoulet Provincale

Soak beans overnight in water to cover. Drain. Cover beans with fresh water; add salt, pepper, ham hock, onion stuck with cloves, carrots and seasonings. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer slowly 1½ hours. Add more water, if needed, to keep beans covered. Stir in olives.

In a large skillet, saute chicken and pork in oil until browned. Add chopped onion and garlic and continue cooking until onion is tender.

Remove ham hock and whole onion from beans; discard onion and cut meat in 1-inch cubes and reserve.

Layer bean mixture, chicken and meats (ham, pork and sausage) in 6-quart casserole. Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 3 hours. (Add water, if needed.) Mix bread crumbs with butter; sprinkle on cassoulet. Bake uncovered in 350 degree oven 30 minutes or until browned. Serve in individual casseroles, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Note: Meats and beans may be layered in two small casseroles or in individual casseroles if one large one is not available.

RED BEANS WITH OLIVES

- 2 cans (20 ounces each) red kidney beans
- 4 slices bacon, cut up and fried crisp
- ½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- 1 tablespoon coarsely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon light brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon crushed oregano
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 whole clove
- Dash cayenne
- 1 teaspoon instant coffee powder
- ½ cup onion slices

Mix together all ingredients except onion slices; turn into 1½ quart casserole. 375 degrees oven 45 minutes. Serve with Top with onion rings. Bake covered in Crusty bread. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: Two cups dried red kidney beans cooked until tender according to package directions, may be substituted for the canned beans.

SALAD SAFARI, AMERICAN STYLE

If you wish to take your family on a tour of the American salad bowl, Kraft has collected this year's top salad recipes plus a special "today" array of recipes and ideas from the Kraft Kitchens in a colorful booklet, Salad Safari — American Style. To receive a copy, readers may write Salad Safari, The Kraft Kitchens, Room 2557, 875 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60611.

CRANCADO SALAD

- 2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen cranberry-orange relish, thawed
- 2 ripe avocados, cut in quarters
- Curly endive
- Delicate Pink Dressing

DELICATE PINK DRESSING

- ¼ cup Creamy Russian dressing
- ¼ cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice

Combine ingredients; mix well.

Makes 8 servings.

NOTE: To prepare your own cranberry-orange relish, grind 2 cups (½ lb.) cranberries and ½ orange, seeded. Stir in ½ cup sugar.

SALAD OF THE SOUTH, FONDUE STYLE

- |   |                                 |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 3 quarts assorted greens                | ¼ cup sliced radishes           |
| 1½ cups diced tomatoes                  | ¼ cup chopped parsley           |
| 1¼ cups peeled, sliced cucumber         | 1 teaspoon salt                 |
| ½ cup diced dill pickles                | ½ teaspoon pepper               |
| ½ cup sliced green onion                | 1 8-oz. bottle Italian Dressing |
| 6 slices crisply cooked bacon, crumbled |                                 |

Tear greens in bite-size pieces on a large serving platter. Top with tomatoes, cucumbers, pickles, onions, bacon, radishes, parsley, salt and pepper.

Heat dressing; pour evenly over salad. Sprinkle with croutons and garnish with hard-cooked egg slices, if desired. Serve immediately.

NOTE: For buffet service, heat dressing in fondue pot and let guests watch as dressing is poured over salad. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

HOT GERMAN MACARONI SALAD

- 3 slices diced bacon
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 8-oz. pkg. macaroni, cooked, drained
- 5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup Miracle Whip Salad Dressing

Fry bacon and onion until bacon is crisp. Add hot macaroni, eggs, salt, pepper and salad dressing; mix lightly. Serve hot. Garnish with additional bacon and tomato wedges, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Atcher Pushed For Approval

Hospital Construction Idea Dealt Fatal Blow By Village Trustees

by PAT GERLACH

The idea of constructing a hospital on a 20-acre donated land site on Schaumburg Road suffered a fatal blow Tuesday night when village trustees voted to deny issuance of planned unit development (PUD) zoning to J. Emil Anderson & Sons for a hospital-medical-residential complex.

Since its formal presentation to the zoning board of appeals last February, the plan has been opposed by area residents primarily from Timbercrest subdivision which is near the site.

The idea has also been thought to stimulate hospital planning in several other nearby communities.

In extensive remarks to trustees preceding the vote, Mayor Robert O. At-cher spoke for approval of the PUD and made it clear that the idea of a hospital in central Schaumburg was his own and had been picked up by the developer more than four years ago.

TRACING THE history of the Anderson firm in Schaumburg and its history of close cooperation with village officials through the years, Atcher referred to J. Emil Anderson & Sons responsibility for the creation of Woodfield Mall.

He noted that principals in the firm bought land when they were involved in industrial development and could have carried through with such a local project "but they saw our dream and recognized the need for a regional retail facility and were certainly helpful in bringing this about."

He said that since the inception of the Woodfield plan, the Anderson firm has acquired other properties in the immediate vicinity and has decided to develop these in line with an auxiliary center to the mall which will result in a total $200 million tax base for Schaumburg, its school districts and other taxing bodies.

The mayor has on several occasions asked trustees to mentally divorce themselves from the hospital concept in the PUD and consider the 37 per cent land donation being offered to the village.

Atcher stressed the fact that in all matters including the PUD in question the developer has concurred with the requests of the village.

"I FEEL that the integrity of this board is on the line and ask you to remember that once a developer gets zoning he can sell land to the highest bidder and that is not always the best quality firm."

"We want and we need his (Anderson's) cooperation and if your way of saying thanks for Woodfield is to treat him as though he is trying to do something wrong, you can point your finger at me," he said.

Also speaking against the PUD was Mrs. Jane Murphy, a Weathersfield resident interested in preserving the heavily wooded Sarah's Grove portion of the land involved.

Mrs. Murphy presented Atcher and the trustees with petitions against the project signed by 81 local residents and suggested that Anderson "develop an ecological conscience" regarding elimination

Union Suspends 4 Firemen

Four men were suspended from membership in Hoffman Estates Local 2061, International Association of Firefighters, at a meeting Monday night. A fifth man was charged with a violation of union by-laws, and was invited to attend the next meeting and discuss the charge.

The four suspended men are all probationary firemen in Hoffman Estates Fire Protection Dist. 1. They all had submitted letters of resignation from the local. Since union by-laws prohibit resignation by members who will continue to work as fire fighters, the local complied with their wishes by suspending them, said a spokesman. The men will be invited to rejoin the union as soon as their probationary status is ended, which will be within the next few months for all of them.

The fifth fire fighter is not probationary, but has full status with the department. The union did not receive a letter of resignation, but the man, Robert Topolski, has not attended local meetings, said the spokesman. Topolski will be invited to defend himself on the charge, which the union declined to disclose, Sept. 13.

The probationary firemen are John Criel, Jim Osceola, Richard Knapik and Joseph Nikrant.

In other action at the union meeting Monday night, David L. Carlson Jr., secretary of the local, and other officers informed the members of the status of Carlson's case in contesting his dismissal from the fire district. Carlson was a probationary fireman, and was fired July 16. The union alleges he was discharged because of his affiliation with the local. The trustees of the fire district have granted a hearing on his dismissal, which the district alleges is a result of some kind of misconduct at a fire. The specifics of the charge have not been made public.

Roselle Firm Architects For Civic Center

Eichsteadt and Narcissi, a Roselle firm, has been selected as architects for Schaumburg's proposed Civic Center.

The architectural selection made by Mayor Robert O. Atcher was ratified by village trustees Tuesday night.

The facility will be constructed on a 40-acre site donated to the village by William Lambert, owner of extensive amounts of local property.

The Civic Center will share the site with Schaumburg's proposed Cultural Center which is undergoing extensive planning.

In related business, Trustee Herbert J. Aigner, chairman of the village development committee, was named to head the civic center building committee.

While board members voted to retain the architects selected, the contract was given to Schaumburg Atty. Jack M. Siegel for review and signature is expected next week.

To date, a construction timetable of the center has not been announced but it is believed to be a phase development.

Wildlife Roam Near Shops

by PAT GERLACH

A young male Japanese Sica deer and a miniature goat contentedly roam their serene pasture in the heart of central Schaumburg, only feet from a busy shopping center.

Combined with varieties of Chinese and African geese, uncommon specimens of hybrid gold and green pheasants and other exotic waterfowl, the animals appear happily confined to Town Square Wildlife Sanctuary.

Town Square is on Roselle Road just south of the Schaumburg Road intersection.

A brainchild of George Shapiro of Morwell Builders, the sanctuary, which was begun last spring, surrounds a nearly two-acre retention basin.

"It was just really a wild idea that evolved after we fenced the pond to keep children from the water," Shapiro explained.

Viewing the fenced pond and its adjoining grassy area as a natural for waterfowl, Shapiro and Ray Hardy, owner of a heating and plumbing firm located in the shopping center, hit on the scheme of placing a few ducks and ornamental birds in the park-like setting.

With assistance of Charles Hume of the Small Animal Research Center in Arlington Heights, the deer, goat and most of the ducks and other birds were obtained.

"THEY SEEM TO BE thriving for the most part but the deer appears a bit lonely so we have decided to obtain a female companion for him next fall," Shapiro commented.

Both he and Hardy are also interested in further acquisition of a number of varieties of the miniature goat.

Spectator interest has run high ever since the sanctuary began to develop last spring and a walkway has been constructed around the exterior fencing of the pond area.

A barn to house the deer, goat and birds is also nearing completion.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 848.33. Advances led declines, 935 to 368 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

The Weather

A frontal system packing thunders, tornadoes and damaging winds swept the Midwest.

Will Serve Woodfield Area

Surveying Begins For Fire Station

Schaumburg's second fire station, which will serve the Woodfield area and northern portions of the village, came closer to reality this week with the announcement that title will soon be turned over to the municipality by J. Emil Anderson & Sons.

Reporting for the police and fire committee, Trustee Ray Kessell said Tuesday that he received a letter dated Aug. 8 noting that the approximate one-acre Meacham Road site is now being surveyed.

Delivery of title is expected within several weeks Kessell said.

Originally the facility was intended to open prior to completion of Woodfield Mall so that the regional retail facility would have immediate protection.

Although the site was pledged to the village some time ago by the developer, unexplained delays resulted in transfer of title which inhibited planning.

With the title virtually on its way, Kessell was able to announce the selection of Arthur M. Heda and Associates as the architects for the station.

The architectural firm is an affiliate of J. Emil Anderson & Sons and was selected from nine companies interviewed by the committee.

KESSELL AND other members of the police and fire committee toured a number of suburban fire stations and Chief Lloyd Abrahamson has done a preliminary design.

"For these reasons the aesthetics of an architect was not of great importance to us which made the selection job even more difficult," Kessell explained.

He said a September groundbreaking is hoped for and indicated that completion of the station could take place in about six months.

since it is our intention to continue obtaining birds of rare species which face extinction unless carefully preserved," Hardy said.

He described his role in creating the sanctuary as one of "mainly broadening the idea" conceived by Shapiro.

Cost of the entire project to date has been minimal and both Shapiro and Hardy consider it a strictly private venture.

THEY HAVE A group of color photographs of the birds and animals which will be placed at the shopping centers main entrance to attract attention to the sanctuary.

The birds and animals are provided with regular type pellet feed, and Hardy and Shapiro soon hope to interest several area youth groups in installing vending machines near the fence.

"This would encourage children and adults to come and see and feed the birds and animals and the responsible organization would take any profit," Shapiro noted.

Formal creation of the physical part of the sanctuary will be completed this fall when a circulating system is installed to keep water from freezing during the winter.

Its population, however, is intended to increase with time, although Shapiro issued a caution to residents asking that they refrain from placing animals or birds in the area.

"Apparently someone decided that the sanctuary would be a good home for their pet rabbit and you had better believe that caused some real problems," he said.

The sanctuary is located just west of the Town Square Shopping Center parking lot and is open all day.

Board Rejected His Hospital Plan

'Tell Me The Rules,' Mayor Implores

"Since I am the chief administrator of this community, will you determine what our rules and regulations are so that I can do my job," Mayor Robert O. Atcher told trustees at Tuesday night's village board meeting.

Although the comment came following a decision to increase the police department staff by three additional patrolmen, the mayor's remarks were directed to action taken in a previous matter this week.

Four of the six trustees had voted against approval of a planned unit development (PUD) which would have provided a 20-acre hospital site donation offered by J. Emil Anderson & Sons, a developer who has played a prominent part in realizing the village master plan.

The idea of a hospital in the center of the expanding village was suggested by Atcher and picked up by the developer nearly four years ago.

ALTHOUGH FORMAL presentation of a petition to the zoning board of appeals did not materialize until last February, a hospital committee was formed several years ago and preliminary planning undertaken.

In the ensuing weeks, administrators of four local hospitals objected to the development of a health care facility without consultation with them or detailed planning on a higher level.

A joint meeting with state hospital agencies personnel was held in June and attended by Mayor Atcher and Fred Downey, village president of Hoffman Estates.

It was suggested at that time that a feasibility study to determine needs and a suitable location be carried out and of what experts say are "priceless specimens of trees."

Several trustees noticed that the PUD which would have included 567 townhouses and apartments in addition to the doctors' offices and hospital on the 57-acre total tract is not in keeping with guidelines for the requested zoning.

Several times during the discussion, it appeared that further postponement of the decision, suggested by the mayor, might result since contributions to Schaumburg's proposed cultural center had not been specified in the zoning board's recommendation to approve the plan.

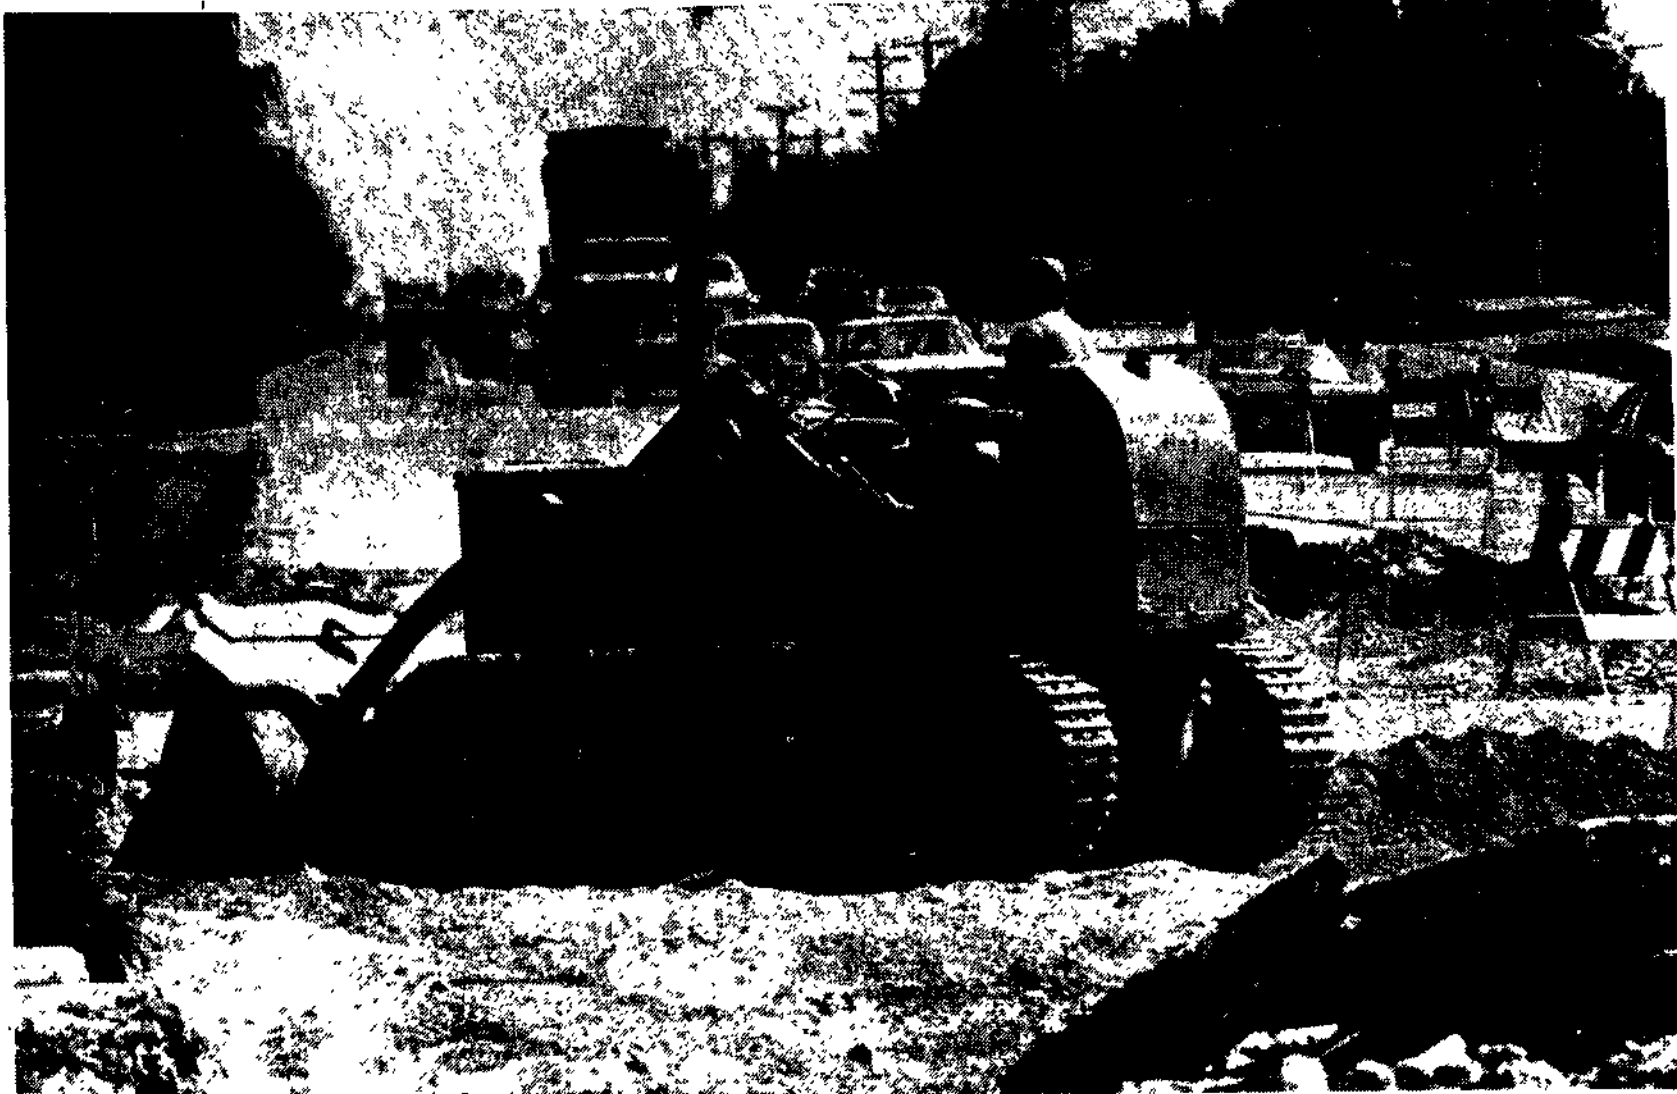

HIS SUGGESTION to the developers counsel, Marvin Glink, that the hospital be eliminated from the plan and that the wooded area be instead donated to the village also failed.

Voting against the proposal were Trustees Herbert J. Aigner, James Guthrie, Gordon Mullins and Jack Larsen with only Ray Kessell and Mathew Helsper casting their vote for the PUD.

neighboring communities would be asked to participate in the survey and its funding.

On questioning from Trustee Jack Larsen this week, Atcher said that no further meetings have been scheduled although the mayor felt that the study would proceed.

It was his unmistakable feeling that way Department spokesman said yesterday. When fully completed in fall 1972, Higgins Road will be a four-lane divided highway between Meacham and Barrington roads. Allocation of funds and the completion of right-of-way acquisitions are needed before improvements are scheduled on Golf Road between Meacham and Barrington Road.

Police Check Three Thefts Totaling $1,600

Three thefts, involving property valued at more than $1,600, are under investigation by Schaumburg police. The department also is investigating an auto theft, in which the car has been recovered in Chicago.

The loss of $1,000 worth of tools and equipment was reported late Monday morning by Robert Maly of Continental Electric Construction Co., working at Higgins Road and Mall Drive on the south side of Woodfield shopping center. Maly told police the latch of a lock on a "gang" toolbox had been cut, and tools and equipment were removed. Taken were a threading machine and threading die, a power saw and a power hammer.

Also at Woodfield, the theft of a $200 water pump was reported Monday morning. The pump, owned by The Taubman Co., had been bolted to the base of the water tower at the shopping center.

The theft of $450 in kitchen and bathroom cabinets from a home under construction was reported Tuesday morning by Robert Lange, supply coordinator for Levitt & Sons Construction Co. The cabinets were taken from the garage of a home on Portsmouth Court.

Taken from the garage were eight kitchen cabinets, a bathroom mirror, vanity cabinets and two medicine cabinets, as well as four sheets of wood paneling.

The auto theft was reported Monday by Mrs. William Butman, 101 Braintree. The car was recovered after a neighbor spotted it abandoned along the Kennedy Expressway, Chicago.

Police Escort Trucker Through Hunter Pickets

Schaumburg Village police were called to Hunter Automated Machinery Corp., 2222 Hammond Dr., Schaumburg, Tuesday to escort a truck driver across picket lines after an alleged incident of harassment.

According to a police report on the incident, Sgt. James Dillon and a patrolman were dispatched to the scene after a reported violation of a court injunction ordering picketers at the plant to refrain from violence. The strikers, members of Local 8, Industrial Workers Union, are picketing the plant seeking recognition of their union as bargaining agent for plant employees.

Police advised the picketers of the complaint, and also reminded them that a court injunction limits the number of pickets to eight persons, or two per entrance and exit. Police said they saw 20 pickets in the vicinity of the building, some in cars.

Police advised company management to consult their attorney, Don Lyon, regarding the incident to see if a contempt order was "within reason."

Lyon said yesterday no such order would be sought.

JOSEPH CICERO, attorney for Local 8, yesterday termed the incident an "unsubstantiated allegation," saying "If they have proof, let them take it to court."

The union was the subject of an injunction issued last week on the request of Hunter, enjoining the union from violence or threats of violence, and from blocking entrances to or exits from the building. Judge Samuel B. Epstein, who issued the order, set the 2-man-per-door limit on pickets.

Cicero said there was not an excessive number of pickets at the building Tuesday, and that "there weren't even 20 people available" to picket.

Meanwhile, Cicero said the union requested Tuesday that the National Labor Relations Board schedule a secret ballot election among employees to determine whether they actually wish representation by the union. The local also has filed charges with the NLRB that Hunter has used unfair labor practices to intimidate men from joining the union.

Lyon said the company would welcome an election, and had urged the union to request one.

Guido's Grocery, Dry Goods Open Despite Storm Damage

Guido's, the grocery and dry goods store at Roselle and Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates, was open yesterday after being damaged Tuesday when a storm tore away a section of the roof.

A crew came in Tuesday night to ready the store for yesterday's opening. Roof repairs, to be completed in the next few days, are already under way, said Gene Pfeiffer, store manager.

There's no estimate on the amount of damage, he added.

The grocery section is operating normally and the dry goods section, affected by the damage is operating close to normal, Pfeiffer added.

"I was surprised; for all the water that got in, the damage to merchandise was pretty nominal," said Dan Murphy, Hoffman Estates building commissioner. He estimated a 7,000-square-foot area was affected by water seepage.

"There's no hazard," Murphy said, adding.

Accident Victims

Bruce Wingate, 16, of 351 Ashley Rd., Hoffman Estates, is termed serious at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, with both legs broken, multiple lacerations and head injuries. He was one of three persons injured in an auto accident at about 6 p.m. Tuesday at Schaumburg Road and Illinois Boulevard. Also injured were Madeline Smith, 38, of 102 Oak Lwn., Hoffman Estates, and Mark Cornett, 18, of 1610 Weathersfield Wy., Schaumburg. Both were treated at the hospital for neck sprains, and released.

Mrs. Patricia Baas, 27, of 810 Cornell Ln., Schaumburg, was treated at Alexian Brothers Medical Center for scalp lacerations after she was struck by a patio umbrella caught in strong winds and flying through the air Tuesday afternoon.

Carnival Set To Benefit Cancer Fund

"Cancer is killing people, and we wanted to help the guys who are looking for a cure," said one of 17 youngsters who are running a "Kiddie Carnival" Friday and Saturday in Schaumburg.

Georgian Meshun, 12, of 519 S. Falmouth Ln., is one of the organizers of the carnival that will be held in her back yard. Georgian said all money collected during the two-day fair will go to the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society.

"When my friends and I decided to help, we called Miss Norma Barnes at the Cancer office and she offered to bring a mobile cancer unit to the carnival," said Georgian.

Miss Barnes said an educational unit warning children of the effects of smoking will be parked at the Meschun home Friday and Saturday. Film strips, comic books and literature geared to children will be distributed.

"This carnival is for a serious thing, but anyone who comes should have a lot of fun," said Georgian as she told of the carnival's attractions.

"We plan a spook house with monstrous monsters, and funny games for the little kids," said Georgian. "All kinds of good stuff has been donated by businessmen and neighbors to be given away as prizes," she added.

"The kids are really going to have to use their 'noodle' to win one of the prizes, a very special award for guessing how many noodles are in a jar," said Georgian.

"The carnival is for every one, any age," she added. Refreshments will be served during the carnival, Friday from noon to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

'Never More Financially Sound'

Board Approves $2,314,948 Budget For Fiscal 1971-72

The Wheeling Village Board approved a $2,314,948 village operating budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

The budget, which received final board approval Monday night, varied only slightly from the tentative budget proposed by acting Village Mgr. George Passolt and from the appropriation ordinance enacted by the board last month.

Passolt explained that the village board members had not felt it was necessary to go into the minute details of each proposed expenditure this year because department heads had been more realistic in their original proposals than in earlier years.

Passolt said that this year was the first time the village had figured out what the budget total should be before beginning to draw up the budget. Because of this, department heads had been given estimates of how much their department could spend, Passolt said.

AT MONDAY'S meeting Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon complimented Passolt and the board's finance committee for the job on the budget. Scanlon said it was a "realistic" document.

"I've never seen this village more financially sound than it is today," Scanlon said.

Commenting on the salary increases given to village employees, Scanlon said the board will study the performance of employees closely during the year and if employees don't "deserve" as high increases next year, "we won't be as generous next year."

Trustee Michael Valenza said Passolt did "an excellent and magnificent job on the detail" of the budget document.

One major change which was made by the board in the budget proposed by Passolt was the addition of $9,999 in salary for an administrative assistant in the manager's department. A token figure of $1 had been included in the original budget. The new assistant will administer the village fire, police, and civil defense departments.

ANOTHER CHANGE was a correction of a clerical error which had erroneously indicated that $19,013 worth of equipment for the fire department had not received the manager's recommendation.

The equipment, which included $8,190 for monitor alert radios, had been included in the appropriation ordinance, however.

Major department budget figures which are included in the total are $321,207 for the village police department, $249,279 for the fire department, $606,859 for the public works department, $41,880 for the village manager's office, $39,845 for the village clerk's office, $35,191 for the finance department, $25,950 for the law department, $17,500 for engineering and planning, $67,315 for the building department, $19,600 for the municipal building department, $103,538 for general administrative use, and $13,535 for the civil defense department.

A detailed explanation of the budget items for the various village departments appeared in the Aug. 6 and Aug. 9 editions of the Herald.

Sections of the budget which were not discussed in earlier Herald articles include several of the volunteer commissions and other village services.

A FIRE AND POLICE commission budget of $5,800 compared to $5,206 last year reflects the cost of more conventions to keep commissioners abreast of changed laws and additional funds to cope with the number of applicants for the fire and police department vacancies which has tripled this year.

The youth commission budget includes $10,000 attributed to the community mental health clinic.

Board members say, however, that $5,000 of that figure is the recent contribution to the new HELP, Inc., Hotline and they have made no decision on any contribution to the mental health clinic.

THE OVERALL commission budget of $11,075 compared to last year's $3,450 reflects additional part-time secretarial help as well as the hotline funds.

A request from Commission Chmn. June Orlovski for $7,000 for the new youth services center if a state grant is approved was not included in the budget.

Other budget sections remaining include the motor fuel tax fund in which the village includes plans for state tax rebates it receives. That budget of $210,000 reflects $16,500 for engineering and extension of roads in the village, a $20,000 street maintenance program, and $150,000 for the Wheeling Road extension. A total of $23,500 for sidewalk repair is also included.

Other budget sections which are set by law or changed little include $12,000 for school crossing guards, $15,000 for street lighting, $35,000 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, $61,800 for police pension fund, $151,451 in the bond and interest fund (to pay on the 1965 street improvements, the municipal building, and the flood control referendum), $17,000 for social security, and $24,000 for the fire pension fund.

MUCH HARD WORK is necessary to start an art gallery, according to Phil DeHate, owner of the Canvas and Camera Art Gallery in Wheeling. The gallery is housed in a 10-year-old building on Milwaukee Avenue.

Owner Has Painted Since Grade School

Art Gallery Doors Open

by SUE JACOBSON

Combination painter, photographer and businessman — that's Phil DeHate, owner of Canvas and Camera, an art gallery just opened on Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling.

DeHate's gallery is in a 100-year-old house that was converted into office space a few years ago.

"Opening a gallery is something I've always wanted to do," said the young painter-photographer, who is also studying for a degree in art at the University of Wisconsin.

"It's a lot harder than you'd think to start a gallery," he said. "It took me a month and a half just to collect all the pictures. And I thought it would only be a week or so."

DeHate has assembled about 250 pictures in his shop. Most are original paintings by Chicago-area artists. In the coming weeks he plans to add metal sculpture, wood prints and ceramic pieces to the collection, as well as examples of his own work and photography.

DeHate also does custom framing in his gallery.

"FRAMING A PICTURE isn't too difficult," he said. "The hardest part is finding the proper frame for the picture, one that will compliment the colors, size and subject."

DeHate, who grew up in Iron River, in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, said he comes from an artistic family.

"My father painted and I have five aunts who are painters. And my sister is an art major at the University of Wisconsin," he said.

DeHate has been painting since he was

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 846.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 338 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

Officials Not Hot About New County

Wheeling officials reacted with surprise and dismay to a proposal for disannexing six northwest suburban townships from Cook County to form the proposed new Lincoln County.

Several of the village trustees and Village President Ted C. Scanlon said that they did not know enough of the details of the proposed formation of the new county to comment on whether they favor the move.

Trustee Edward Berger said that setting up the new county would be "a big operation." "I wouldn't venture an opinion at this point," he said.

Two village trustees who commented on the proposed new county seemed concerned with the results of disannexing from Cook County and of forming a new county government.

Trustee Michael Valenza said he sees the question as one of "control." Valenza pointed to the overlapping governmental agencies in the area already such as school districts, park districts, fire districts and municipalities, and said that creating a new county would lead to only another level of government for northwest suburban residents to cope with.

Valenza said he would favor an attempt to bring boundaries of various municipalities and school districts and park districts in line so that each municipality has its own school district, park district, and library district.

Trustee Roger Stricker pointed out that creating a new county would only lead to duplicating the jobs already provided by Cook County.

He noted that while the new county would not need nearly as many employees and county officials as Cook County, there would still be a greater percentage of employees to be supported from taxes of residents of this area under a new county proposal.

Stricker said that problems with highway plans which are now established on a Cook County wide basis, and problems with the new county setting up its own utilities would be massive.

He pointed to the fact that the area would probably have to provide its own sanitary sewage treatment and mains if it withdrew from Cook County and the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Stricker noted that the new county would have to have a county police department for unincorporated areas and that experts would be needed to head various departments in the new county even though it does not serve as large an area as Cook County.

Believe Teen's Death Due To Drug Overdose

A 17-year old Arlington Heights youth was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital early yesterday morning, the apparent victim of a drug overdose.

Dennis Grinnell, 1912 Spruce Terr., was found late Tuesday night motionless on his bedroom floor by his father, Richard.

Arlington Heights police do not know what type of drug killed Grinnell, a Wheeling High School student. A Cook County Coroner's office spokesman said an inquest into the death will be held in about two or three weeks.

Dennis is survived by his father, Richard; his mother, Evelyn; a brother, Jeffery, 19; and a sister, Susan, 14. Visitation at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vail, Arlington Heights will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m.

Swim Pool Law Action Deferred

If you want to put a swimming pool in your backyard in Buffalo Grove, you may have to tell the village where you are going to put it.

That is one of the simpler provisions included in the proposed swimming pool ordinance presented to the village board at last Monday's meeting.

Action on the ordinance, which fills 10 legal-sized pages, was deferred until the trustees could study it.

Also, copies of the ordinance will be on file at the municipal building for inspection by interested residents, whose comments, village officials said, will be considered at next Monday's meeting before a vote is taken.

The ordinance applies to all swimming pools having a depth of more than two feet or a surface area exceeding 150 square feet.

IT STATES THAT the pool must be located at least six feet from any property line, behind the house and inside the building lines so it will not be seen from the street.

All pools must be fenced. The fences must be at least four feet high with a latch to make the pool "inaccessible to small children."

Plans for the construction of all pools must be filed with the director of inspection services. A $5 permit fee is required under the proposed ordinance.

Some of the technical provisions call for at least one skimmer per 800 square feet of surface area to operate at a rate of 30 gallons per minute. The circulation system must be large enough to recirculate all of the water in the pool every 12 hours.

Also, regulations are set down for disinfecting pool water and the amount of chlorine compound residue allowable.

Under the proposed ordinance, "no current-carrying electrical conductors shall cross pools either overhead or underground."

Inspections of pools will be carried out by the health department "as it deems necessary" and the inspectors "shall have right of entry at any reasonable hour."

The fine for violating the proposed ordinance is "not less than $5 nor more than $500 for each offense," for each day the violation goes uncorrected.

in grade school. Most of his work is done with high-gloss enamel.

Recently he took up photography. "Photography can be a form of art too. Although five years ago it wasn't considered art. Since then, many colleges have added photography courses to their art departments," he said.

The artist-photographer said his own work with photography "is pretty much self-taught."

"I PREFER TAKING pictures of still lifes, because I find I can get better variation of tones this way. I want to try lithography — a method of developing pictures that removes the gray tones. And I'd also like to experiment with developing photographs on glass."

Despite his new interest in photography, DeHate said his first interest is painting. "I prefer painting because I think you can be more creative with paintings than you can with photography."

DeHate said he enjoys art of all types, including modern art.

"Some modern art I like. Some I don't. Some is too commercial, and I'd rather not look at it. I'd rather look at a well-done still life or landscape."

DeHate has collected prints by Robert Sargent and original paintings by Herb Ruud, a "ghost" cartoonist for the Dick Tracy cartoon series. The men are two of his favorite artists, he admitted.

"But I've also found some really talented people right in the local area. Art is becoming a lot more popular with people. They're buying more of it and more are becoming artists themselves. There are a lot of good weekend artists around. It's great."

Lichter Seeks Development Talks

Developer Roy Lichter told the Wheeling village trustees in June — when they denied apartment zoning for his 10 acre site across from Carl Sandburg School — he would give up any plans of developing it and go back to growing soybeans on the land.

But this week village officials received a letter from Lichter requesting another meeting with the board's sewer, water and public health committee to discuss development of the land.

In his letter, Lichter disputed a statement made by Trustee Stricker in June that the developer had never been willing to cooperate in meeting village engineering requirements for the property. Lichter and the village have been discussing the property since 1965.

"Let's set the record straight," Lichter wrote. "We have done everything feasible to cooperate with the Village of Wheeling."

"However when your engineering department requests that we construct a three-foot storm sewer to run the entire length of Robert Avenue in the Poplar Grove Subdivision with all the trimmings, we are out of the ball park."

"CAN YOU IMAGINE us building this sewer at the cost to us of approximately $24,000 with the provision that we provide tie-ins (sewer connection pipes) for every plot of ground adjacent to ours with no possible way to recover any of our expenses from the adjacent landowners?" Lichter wrote.

He noted that the village had also required him "to run other utilities to these parcels with a token reimbursement from Wheeling. This offer doesn't even come close to the additional cost to us."

Lichter told the board that he "will be delighted to proceed if the Village of Wheeling will run the sewer and water to our property lines."

He asked to meet with the committee again about changing the restrictions and threatened again that "with the requirements as they are this land will lay dormant for a long time to come."

TRUSTEE STRICKER Monday said he would schedule another meeting with Lichter.

Trustee Michael Valenza who had favored rezoning the Lichter property asked that all board members be notified of the meeting.

Valenza said he felt the letter had "some pretty strong statements" which should be discussed with the entire board present.

Burglary Reported At Lums Restaurant

Burglars stole a 300-pound safe containing more than $1,300 in an early morning burglary at Lums Restaurant in Wheeling.

Wheeling police are investigating the burglary at the restaurant which was discovered at 6:55 a.m. Tuesday by a clean up man.

Mrs. Rose Romandine, a cashier at the restaurant and the wife of the restaurant manager, told police she left the restaurant at 2 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Police said the burglars entered the restaurant by throwing a 10-pound rock through a window on the north side of the building.

The safe which was on wheels contained $1,332 including $150 in coins, police said.

Levitt's Offer Pleases Attorney

Solution To School Site Controversy May Be Near

A solution to the school site controversy between School Dist. 96 and the building firm of Levitt and Sons, Inc. may be announced next week.

Adeline Geo-Karis, attorney for the Dist. 96 School Board, said Monday evening the district has received an offer for a school site from Levitt "that has great possibilities."

"We may have some definite announcement for the public in a week," Miss Geo-Karis stated.

Her remarks were made after a two-hour executive session with the school board.

The school board will hold a special meeting at 9 p.m. Monday at Kildeer School in Long Grove. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the current school site litigation between Levitt and Dist. 96, according to School Board Pres. Arthur Edmunds.

"WE MAY OR MAY NOT arrive at a satisfactory solution," Edmunds stated.

However, Dist. 96 Supt. William Hitzeman said it is his "sincere hope that the district will have an announcement regarding the school site problem" at the Monday meeting.

The problem over the school sites in the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove's Strathmore subdivision dates to 1969 when the village approved construction on Levitt's units 11, 12 and 13 in Strathmore without provision for a school site.

In February, 1970, Dist. 96 condemned 15 acres of land in that area for a third Dist. 96 school. In July 1970, the case went to trial and the court set the price of the land at $350,000. A new trial was granted because the judge ruled that some of Levitt's evidence was inadmissible. This second trial is scheduled to start on Sept. 13. A referendum to ask for voter approval to build the third school will be held Sept. 25.

In April, former Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Don Thompson announced he had negotiated an out-of-court settlement between Levitt and Dist. 96, although no announcement of a settlement has yet been made by the school district.

Under terms of the agreement, Levitt was to sell the district 10 acres of land in Strathmore for $150,000, provided that the village approved a Levitt townhouse and condominium development north of Rte. 83. Dist. 96 was to ask for no land or cash donation from Levitt for the proposed development.

Boy Scout Troop Needs Scoutmaster

Boy Scout Troop 140 of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Buffalo Grove is looking for a scoutmaster for the 1971-72 scouting year.

Troop leaders said that applicants need not have experience as a scoutmaster.

Persons interested in the position were asked to call Len Grubke at 537-9141 or Chuck Giebelhausen at 537-6128.

Buffalo Grove Still May Block Apartment Project

Buffalo Grove still has a chance to in its battle to block construction of a large apartment development on land just west of the village.

Village officials had objected to Kasuba Development Corp.'s plans to build a 700-unit development on land in unincorporated Cook County behind the Wiedner Egg Farm on Dundee Road because they feared it will aggravate the village's flooding problems.

However, the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals granted a variation in the apartment zoning to allow an increased number of apartments, despite objections from the villages of Buffalo Grove and Palatine and surrounding homeowners.

Buffalo Grove's new opportunity to block the development involves the drainage plans currently being reviewed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD). The MSD must approve the plans before any work can begin.

ARNOLD SEEBERG, the village engineering consultant told trustees at Monday night's village board meeting the MSD will notify the village when they make a decision "one way or the other."

Seeberg's firm, the Hattis Associates, has filed written objections to the means proposed to drain the development.

The current plans call for widening the branch of Buffalo Creek through the property to act as a retention basin. Hattis objected on the grounds that unless the creek is widened throughout its entire length, storm water from the development will add to the village's flooding problems.

MUCH HARD WORK is necessary to start an art gallery, according to Phil DeHate, owner of the Canvas and Camera Art Gallery in Wheeling. The gallery is housed in a 10-year-old building on Milwaukee Avenue.

Owner Has Painted Since Grade School

Art Gallery Doors Open

by SUE JACOBSON

Combination painter, photographer and businessman — that's Phil DeHate, owner of Canvas and Camera, an art gallery just opened on Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling.

DeHate's gallery is in a 100-year-old house that was converted into office space a few years ago.

"Opening a gallery is something I've always wanted to do," said the young painter-photographer, who is also studying for a degree in art at the University of Wisconsin.

"It's a lot harder than you'd think to start a gallery," he said. "It took me a month and a half just to collect all the pictures. And I thought it would only be a week or so."

DeHate has assembled about 250 pictures in his shop. Most are original paintings by Chicago and area artists. In the coming weeks he plans to add metal sculpture, wood prints and ceramic pieces to the collection, as well as examples of his own work and photography.

DeHate also does custom framing in his gallery.

"FRAMING A PICTURE isn't too difficult," he said. "The hardest part is finding the proper frame for the picture, one that will compliment the colors, size and subject."

DeHate, who grew up in Iron River, in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, said he comes from an artistic family.

"My father painted and I have five aunts who are painters. And my sister is an art major at the University of Wisconsin," he said.

DeHate has been painting since he was 10.

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

$1.3 Million Road Repairs

Property Owners To Learn Special Assessment Costs

Property owners along West Colfax Street will receive notification within six to eight weeks on their share of special assessment costs for the $1.3 million road improvements and widening project.

Kenneth Stonesifer, Palatine attorney on the Colfax Street project, said yesterday he plans to file a petition for the special assessment project with the clerk of the Cook County Circuit Court sometime next week, which will start off the court process for approval of the project.

Village board recommendations will then be made to the court on two appointments to a three-man panel which will determine the amount of special assessment and public benefit for the project. The commissioners will all be Palatine residents, one of which will be village Mayor John Moodie.

As president of the board of local improvements as well as mayor, Moodie is automatically designated by statute as a commissioner for determination of the special assessment.

Stonesifer said no names have been submitted to him but expected it to be done shortly after he files the village petition. Once the court receives the names and backgrounds of the recommended commissioners, he estimated it would take another week or two before the court officially appoints the commissioners.

THE COMMISSION'S review of the project should take three to four weeks, Stonesifer said, but emphasized the schedule was tentative. Once the commissioners reach a decision on the percentage of special assessment to public benefit, notices will be sent to each of the 71 property owners on Colfax.

However, representatives of the property owners previously announced the assessments would be challenged through court action once announced. Several owners have said any assessment on the land would be illegal because they claim it would not improve their property to any great extent.

Don Padgett, the property owners' attorney, has said each owner will file his own objection to the assessment following the commission's decision. A jury trial and regular appeal procedures would be open to each property owner who files an objection.

Padgett said he has received indications from most of the Colfax Street owners they plan to file objections to any assessment made on their property.

In June, the Palatine Village Board formally recommended a breakdown of 70 per cent public benefit to 30 per cent special assessment be made to finance the road improvement project. However, the board's recommendation is not final and will be reviewed by the three commissioners.

If the 70-30 breakdown is approved, the 71 property owners would pay approximately $50 per front foot in special assessment.

MOST OF THE assesses live or own property along the 4,750 foot stretch of Colfax between Smith and Quentin, which contains light industrial development, with the exception of the Carter Street Apartments and the Jones Garden subdivision area.

The project will involve the widening of Colfax from two to four lanes, the erection of 36 new street lights, and the installation of new storm sewers. Village officials have said the project is necessary to accommodate heavier traffic anticipated along Colfax because of the new transportation center, post office, Countryside YMCA and Countryside apartments.

A new answer to the old plea, "take me for a ride Mommy."

Amendments Establish Pool Rules

Amendments rather than a consistent ordinance seem to be the order of the day for swimming pool regulations in Palatine.

The Palatine Village Board again amended the above ground swimming pool ordinance after several weeks of discussion over requirements for walkways around the pools. The amendment requires that the fence around the pool be placed a minimum of three feet from the pool structure.

Questions were raised in the past few weeks by residents concerning the need to have a walkway area around an above-ground pool. The new amendment eliminates all reference to walkways but, with the three-foot fence separation regulation, in effect provides a walkway area.

The amendment also requires that no portion of an above ground private pool shall be located at a distance less than eight feet from any side or rear property line.

Meadow Trace Improvements Vowed

Major improvements to Meadow Trace apartment complex in Rolling Meadows to comply with city requests have been promised by Kassuba Development Corp., owners of the project.

Edward Kelley, a senior vice president of the firm, said it's possible Kassuba will spend $1 million on renovation costs the next two years.

He also indicated past due taxbills dating back to 1968 could be paid in the next few months.

Since the January fire at Meadow Trace, Rolling Meadows officials have attempted to get several improvements made to the apartment complex as well as start legal action for payment of the back taxes.

Last week the city posted "dangerous building" signs on five of the buildings citing a code violation. The notices point out that the buildings violate safety and fire codes.

According to city codes each building must have an exterior exit from the basement. Presently there are only interior exits leading to the first floor.

MAYOR ROLAND MEYER, who met with Kelley early this week said the signs will remain on the buildings until a final commitment of the improvements is made by Kassuba.

He said he expects to receive a timetable for the improvements by the end of next week.

Work at Meadow Trace could range from installing doorknobs on some doors to repair of foundations.

"Some of the jobs can be accomplished in a couple of minutes, but others must be studied and evaluated," Kelley said.

"We're just as interested in making the buildings safe as the city is," he added.

Stop Signs Added To Downtown Area

Six new stop signs at intersections in the downtown area were approved this week by the Palatine Village Board because of traffic flow expected for the new village Municipal Parking Lot No. 9 south of the railroad tracks at the transportation center.

Both Wilson and Slade Streets will stop for traffic on Rose, Maple and Cedar so that entrance and exit to the new municipal lot will be made easier.

The transportation center and depot and two new municipal lots are scheduled to open before the end of September. An actual opening date will be jointly announced by the Village of Palatine and the Chicago and North Western Ry.

Kelley said it was only a couple of weeks ago that he first learned of violations of city ordinance. "Apparently, we had a problem in communications," he explained.

MEYER SAID he's confident that many of the improvements will be made by Kassuba and "We'll get Meadow Trace back on the list of good places to live."

Even before the fire in January which destroyed one of the buildings, more than 200 tenants at Meadow Trace asked the city for help in getting their complaints answered. Most of them went unanswered until this week.

For the past couple of years, city officials have attempted to receive the back taxes which have not been paid since 1967.

Kelley explained that Kassuba believes the apartment complex has been assessed too high and has been paying taxes in escrow. City officials estimate more than $40,000 is outstanding to the city from Kassuba.

Feeling the effect most severely from Kassuba's protest of the Meadow Trace assessment is School Dist. 54 which serves Schaumburg Township children.

The school district estimates about $366,500 is owed by Meadow Trace. The apartment complex is the only section of Rolling Meadows which lies in Schaumburg Township.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 846.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 388 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

The Weather

A frontal system packing thunderstorms, tornadoes and damaging winds swept the Midwest.

Committeewoman
'No Politician'

by PAUL GREENFIELD

When Ann Scollay was named Palatine Township Democratic Committeewoman two weeks ago by Committeeman Richard Mugalian, it was the culmination of her Democratic party work for the past three and one-half years. But Mrs. Scollay says she still doesn't consider herself a politician.

"I just want to work with people," he said. "I try to help inform the voters about various issues so they can make the right decision on them."

"It's not important whether they agree with me, as long as they have enough information to decide for themselves."

Mrs. Scollay, her husband, Jack, and two daughters, Mary and Joan, moved to their home at 669 Carpenter, Palatine, in 1968. But as other Palatine residents were to find out, their subdivision was not a part of the Palatine Park District even though they lived in the village. And to get in the park district, they had to get involved in local politics.

"We belonged to the rural park district, and that park board had to allow our area to leave before we could join the Palatine District," Mrs. Scollay said. "So to be sure the board would let us leave, we got my husband and another neighbor elected to it. Then they voted us out of the district."

THE SCOLLAYS then became active with the local Democratic party. "We were Democrats and we let everyone know it," Mrs. Scollay said.

Adlai Stevenson's senatorial campaign was a busy time for the Scollays. "We gave a coffee for him, and I just had no idea what was involved in giving one of those. We must have had at least 100 people in the house," she said.

"But then our idea of a coffee was a little different from most people's," Mrs. Scollay said. "We announced any Republican was welcome, but Democrats had to bring two Republicans to get in."

"But we did do a good job. While Stevenson didn't win in Palatine, he did get a substantially larger vote here than in most of the other suburbs."

The '71 village elections followed, but didn't keep Mrs. Scollay too busy because the Democrats sat out the election. But Mrs. Scollay said she still felt a responsibility to help the voters, so she held a coffee for both parties who had candidates.

SO AFTER HER very active years of Palatine political activity, Mrs. Scollay became the first Palatine Township committeewoman in three years. But Mrs. Scollay, who is also active in the Palatine League of Women Voters, doesn't consider herself any kind of a political crusader.

"I just do what interests me at any particular time," she said. "And that's just what I'll do as committeewoman, whatever interests me."

"I guess I was ripe for political work," Mrs. Scollay said. "I was the type who always wrote to companies when I didn't like their product."

"But if you just complain to your neighbors you don't accomplish anything. And I feel I can accomplish a great deal by helping inform the voter on the many issues that confront them."

From The Library

by the Staff of the Palatine Library

One of the new books at the Palatine Public Library this week has made a most timely arrival. In the midst of renewed rioting in Northern Ireland, the library has received "The I.R.A." by the Irish journalist Tim Pat Coogan. Coogan gives an interesting historical account of the now-outlawed Irish Republican Army, considered by many to be a prototype of present-day guerilla movements.

As soccer gains more and more in popularity in America, Basil Kane's "Soccer for American Spectators" is good reading for new fans. Basic explanations as to rules, skills and strategy of the world's most popular sport are given in readable form.

Roger Caras analyses man as hunter and killer in "Death as a Way of Life." The author includes many aspects of this "instinct" — anthropological, ecological and economical.

"Combo: USA. Eight Lives in Jazz" is written in colorful language by the jazz authority Rudi Blesh. Armstrong, Teagarden, Krupa and Young are among those spotlighted in this unique book.

A number of excellent works of fiction have also arrived at the library this week, including Valery Tarsis' "The Pleasure Factory." It's the story of a people's resort on the Black Sea devoted to the rest and recreation of Soviet workers. A light-hearted heroine leads the sardonic scene.

In "The Murderer Vine," by Shepard Rifkin, a father hires Joe Dunne to kill the killers of his son, a civil rights worker. An authentic world of both North and South.

"Lives to Give" is a well-written novel against the background of the German occupation of France. Four leaders of the French Resistance have among them a traitor. It's by Sanche de Gramont.

District Delegates

Four members of the Kiwanis Club of Palatine will serve as delegates to the Illinois-Eastern Iowa District Convention Aug. 18-21 at the Drake Hotel, Chicago.

The four delegates are Dr. Edwin Laskowski, lieutenant governor; Ron Hunter, president-elect; and members Dave Hanner and Tom Lane.

Here A Penny Buys Something

There's not much left one can get for a penny, but there will be a whole carnival of things Friday night at the Palatine Park District's 2nd annual Penny Carnival.

Community Park will be filled with booths and games from 6:30 to 10 p.m., and tickets will all sell for one cent. The games will cost from one to five tickets each.

Some of the games will be a cakewalk, sponge throw and miniature golf. Each game will offer prizes.

There will also be a balloon launch, with each contestant putting his name in a helium-filled balloon and letting it go. The person whose name is returned from the farthest point will receive a prize.

AREA CHILDREN may see exotic forms of wildlife in a natural setting at the Town Square Wildlife Sanctuary. The Sica deer scratches himself, while the miniature goat eats.

Wildlife Lurks Near Shop Center

by PAT GERLACH

A young male Japanese Sika deer and a miniature goat contentedly roam their serene pasture in the heart of central Schaumburg, only feet from a busy shopping center.

Combined with varieties of Chinese and African geese, uncommon specimens of hybrid gold and green pheasants and other exotic waterfowl, the animals appear happily confined to Town Square Wildlife Sanctuary.

Town Square is on Roselle Road just south of the Schaumburg Road intersection.

A brainchild of George Shapiro of Morwell Builders, the sanctuary, which was begun last spring, surrounds a nearly two-acre retention basin.

"It was just really a wild idea that evolved after we fenced the pond to keep children from the water," Shapiro explained.

Viewing the fenced pond and its adjoining grassy area as a natural for waterfowl, Shapiro and Ray Hardy, owner of a heating and plumbing firm located in the shopping center, hit on the scheme of placing a few ducks and ornamental birds in the park-like setting.

With assistance of Charles Hume of the Small Animal Research Center in Arlington Heights, the deer, goat and most of the ducks and other birds were obtained.

"THEY SEEM TO BE thriving for the most part but the deer appears a bit lonely so we have decided to obtain a female companion for him next fall," Shapiro commented.

Both he and Hardy are also interested in further acquisition of a number of varieties of the miniature goat.

Spectator interest has run high ever since the sanctuary began to develop last spring and a walkway has been constructed around the exterior fencing of the pond area.

A barn to house the deer, goat and birds is also nearing completion.

"We are not by any means through since it is our intention to continue obtaining birds of rare species which face extinction unless carefully preserved," Hardy said.

He described his role in creating the sanctuary as one of "mainly broadening the idea" conceived by Shapiro.

Cost of the entire project to date has been minimal and both Shapiro and Hardy consider it a strictly private venture.

THEY HAVE A group of color photographs of the birds and animals which will be placed at the shopping centers main entrance to attract attention to the sanctuary.

The birds and animals are provided with regular type pellet feed, and Hardy and Shapiro soon hope to interest several area youth groups in installing vending machines near the fence.

"This would encourage children and adults to come and see and feed the birds and animals and the responsible organization would take any profit," Shapiro noted.

Formal creation of the physical part of the sanctuary will be completed this fall when a circulating system is installed to keep water from freezing during the winter.

Its population, however, is intended to increase with time, although Shapiro issued a caution to residents asking that they refrain from placing animals or birds in the area.

"Apparently someone decided that the sanctuary would be a good home for their pet rabbit and you had better believe that caused some real problems," he said.

The sanctuary is located just west of the Town Square Shopping Center parking lot and is open all day.

Library Report

Circulation of materials from the Palatine Public Library for the fiscal year May 1, 1970 to April 30, 1971 rose by almost 20,000 over the circulation for the previous year, according to the library's annual report.

But the just-released report shows more than a 3,000 person drop in Palatine residents who borrowed materials in 1970-71 than in 1969-70. There were 4,256 resident borrowers in 70-71.

The book collection grew to 47,701 books in 70-71, 4,100 more than in 69-70. The collection totaled about 40,000 books in 68-69.

Deny Zoning For Hospital Complex

by PAT GERLACH

The idea of constructing a hospital on a 20-acre donated land site on Schaumburg Road suffered a fatal blow Tuesday night when village trustees voted to deny issuance of planned unit development (PUD) zoning to J. Emil Anderson & Sons for a hospital-medical-residential complex.

Since its formal presentation to the zoning board of appeals last February, the plan has been opposed by area residents primarily from Timbercrest subdivision which is near the site.

The idea has also been thought to stimulate hospital planning in several other nearby communities.

In extensive remarks to trustees preceding the vote, Mayor Robert O. Atcher spoke for approval of the PUD and made it clear that the idea of a hospital in central Schaumburg was his own and had been picked up by the developer more than four years ago.

TRACING THE history of the Anderson firm in Schaumburg and its history of close cooperation with village officials through the years, Atcher referred to J. Emil Anderson & Sons responsibility for the creation of Woodfield Mall.

bought land when they were involved in industrial development and could have carried through with such a local project "but they saw our dream and recognized the need for a regional retail facility and were certainly helpful in bringing this about."

He said that since the inception of the Woodfield plan, the Anderson firm has acquired other properties in the immediate vicinity and has decided to develop these in line with an auxiliary center to the mall which will result in a total $200 million tax base for Schaumburg, its school districts and other taxing bodies.

The mayor has on several occasions asked trustees to mentally divorce themselves from the hospital concept in the PUD and consider the 37 per cent land donation being offered to the village.

Atcher stressed the fact that in all matters including the PUD in question the developer has concurred with the requests of the village.

"I FEEL that the integrity of this board is on the line and ask you to remember that once a developer gets zoning he can sell land to the highest bidder and that is not always the best quality firm."

"We want and we need his (Anderson's) cooperation and if your way of saying thanks for Woodfield is to treat him as though he is trying to do something wrong, you can point your finger at me," he said.

Also speaking against the PUD was Mrs. Jane Murphy, a Weathersfield resident interested in preserving the heavily wooded Sarah's Grove portion of the land involved.

Mrs. Murphy presented Atcher and the trustees with petitions against the project signed by 81 local residents and suggested that Anderson "develop an ecological conscience" regarding elimination of what experts say are "priceless specimens of trees."

Several trustees noticed that the PUD which would have included 567 townhouses and apartments in addition to the doctors' offices and hospital on the 57-acre total tract is not in keeping with guidelines for the requested zoning.

Several times during the discussion, it appeared that further postponement of the decision, suggested by the mayor, might result since contributions to Schaumburg's proposed cultural center had not been specified in the zoning board's recommendation to approve the plan.

HIS SUGGESTION to the developers counsel, Marvin Glink, that the hospital be eliminated from the plan and that the wooded area be instead donated to the village also failed.

Voting against the proposal were Trustees Herbert J. Aigner, James Guthrie, Gordon Mullins and Jack Larsen with only Ray Kessell and Mathew Helsper casting their vote for the PUD.

"I hope that the Village of Schaumburg is not going to be judged in the future from the standpoint of action taken tonight from the way this petitioner has been treated," remarked Atcher following the vote.

Kassuba May Spend $1 Million

Vow Major Improvements At Meadow Trace Complex

Major improvements to Meadow Trace apartment complex in Rolling Meadows to comply with city requests have been promised by Kassuba Development Corp., owners of the project.

Protest Chief's Refusal To OK Solicitor's Permit

The refusal of the police chief Lewis Case to issue a solicitor's permit to Jon Roesler was protested at the Rolling Meadows City Council meeting.

Calling the Chief's decision "arbitrary," Seymour J. Gaynes, Roesler's attorney, said he felt Case was not following the city's ordinance regarding the issuance of solicitor's permits.

Roesler of 2100 Wing St. had applied last week for the permit which would have allowed him to solicit work resealing driveways in the city.

Roesler said Chief Case gave him "all kinds of reasons (for denying the permit) but none were valid and most were not true."

Lack of experience at resealing driveways was one of the primary reasons given Roesler said. He claims he has resealed his parent's and neighbors driveways.

After hearing the presentation, Mayor Roland J. Meyer said he felt the reasons set forth by the chief were valid. He said a hearing would be set up before the police commission to review the matter.

Chief Case refused to comment on the matter.

A New Plan To Aid Families

Ex-Officials Head Welfare

Two former aldermen were appointed welfare officers of Rolling Meadows at the city council meeting Tuesday night.

Mayor Roland J. Meyer appointed Philip H. Prete as welfare officer and Nicholas Schmitt, Jr. as his assistant.

"In the past, the welfare officers was a name only. Since we've established funds for the youth referral committee, we now have funds to use for the needy within the city," Meyer said.

The city is not starting a full scale welfare program, according to Meyer, but is attempting to bridge the gap for families where the husband is sick or laid off from work.

"If the illness or layoff is prolonged we will work towards a goal of putting the family on public welfare roles at the township or county level," he said.

Palatine Township provides emergency assistance to needy families who do not qualify for county welfare roles. However, Mayor Meyer said the city will not be duplicating township services.

"WE'D JUST AS soon provide for our own," he said. "I don't believe they're offering services we can't provide."

Both appointees are volunteers and will not be paid for their services, according to Meyer.

Prete, 2703 Cardinal Dr., was alderman from the First Ward for six years. During this period, he chaired the license, police and health committee and the streets, alleys and utilities committee. He was president of the Police Juvenile Advisory Commission and served on the Rolling Meadows Park Board from April to June 1967. He is a former Republican Party precinct captain.

Schmitt, a 16-year resident of Rolling Meadows, is assistant vice president of Bantam Books, Des Plaines. He is a former alderman from the First Ward and served on the Police Juvenile Advisory Commission. Schmitt is active in Clearbrook School and the Board of Mental Health in Illinois. He is the Rolling Meadows' mental health representative on the board.

Family Night Ends Playground Season

The summer playground program in Rolling Meadows will end tonight with "family night."

A movie made by and starring the children in the Cardinal Drive playground group will be presented at 6:30 p.m. at the Cardinal Drive playground.

A cookout is scheduled for the families of children in the Carl Sandburg playground group. The cookout will start at 6:30 p.m. at Kimball Hill Park.

Road Work Proposal Approved By Council

The Rolling Meadows City Council approved a resolution Tuesday night to repave portions of School Drive and Industry Avenue.

The two streets will be added to a street maintenance program approved in March. According to Ald Stephen J. Eberhard, chairman of the Streets, Alleys and Utilities Committee, work on all the streets should be finished on schedule Tuesday.

The city plans to repave School Drive from Campbell Street to Meadows Drive and Industrial Avenue from Hicks to Rohlfing Road.

In another committee report, said the foundation had been completed for the new city hall. Work on the sewers and steel structure of the city hall are now in progress.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 23 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 20, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 846.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 388 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,480,000 the previous day.

The Weather

Committeewoman 'No Politician'

by PAUL GREENFIELD

When Ann Scollay was named Palatine Township Democratic Committeewoman two weeks ago by Committeeman Richard Mugalian, it was the culmination of her Democratic party work for the past three and one-half years. But Mrs. Scollay says she still doesn't consider herself a politician.

"I just want to work with people," he said. "I try to help inform the voters about various issues so they can make the right decision on them."

"It's not important whether they agree with me, as long as they have enough information to decide for themselves."

Mrs. Scollay, her husband, Jack, and two daughters, Mary and Joan, moved to their home at 669 Carpenter, Palatine, in 1968. But as other Palatine residents were to find out, their subdivision was not a part of the Palatine Park District even though they lived in the village. And to get in the park district, they had to get involved in local politics.

"We belonged to the rural park district, and that park board had to allow our area to leave before we could join the Palatine District," Mrs. Scollay said. "So to be sure the board would let us leave, we got my husband and another neighbor elected to it. Then they voted us out of the district."

THE SCOLLAYS then became active with the local Democratic party. "We were Democrats and we let everyone know it," Mrs. Scollay said.

Adlai Stevenson's senatorial campaign was a busy time for the Scollays. "We gave a coffee for him, and I just had no idea what was involved in giving one of those. We must have had at least 100 people in the house," she said.

"But then our idea of a coffee was a little different from most people's," Mrs. Scollay said. "We announced any Republican was welcome, but Democrats had to bring two Republicans to get in."

"But we did do a good job. While Stevenson didn't win in Palatine, he did get a substantially larger vote here than in most of the other suburbs."

The '71 village elections followed, but didn't keep Mrs. Scollay too busy because the Democrats sat out the election. But Mrs. Scollay said she still felt a responsibility to help the voters, so she held a coffee for both parties who had candidates.

SO AFTER HER very active years of Palatine political activity, Mrs. Scollay became the first Palatine Township committeewoman in three years. But Mrs. Scollay, who is also active in the Palatine League of Women Voters, doesn't consider herself any kind of a political crusader.

"I just do what interests me at any particular time," she said. "And that's just what I'll do as committeewoman, whatever interests me."

"I guess I was ripe for political work," Mrs. Scollay said. "I was the type who always wrote to companies when I didn't like their product."

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

Eight years ago there was a book published entitled 'The Moon'. A quote from it illustrates how rapidly science has advanced: "In a relatively short time, possibly within five years, probably within ten, and almost certainly within twenty-five, men will explore the surface of the moon."

Neil Ruzic has written in 1970 'Where the Winds Sleep'. According to the author, man has walked on the moon and, although a great feat, this adventure was but a primitive step toward the emotionally and intellectually fulfilling life to be led on the moon in the next seventy-five years. Man's colonization of the moon begins about 1975 to 2045. This story is not science fiction but extrapolated science, based on the most current programs of NASA. It is a projection of expectations of life on this other world: the economic advantages of manufacturing and mining, the ability to do scientific research impossible on earth, the use of the moon as a stepping stone to the planets.

In 'Gas Giants' the author, Willy Ley, describes how the astronomers have determined facts about the planets, the thickness of Saturn's rings, the composition of gases on Jupiter, the peculiar tilt of Uranus. Unfortunately Ley, an engineer and member of the German Rocket Society, died before the publication of this book.

'The Explosion of Science' postulates that even scientists themselves are astonished at their accomplishments in the past fifteen years. They are amazed by the rate knowledge, and consequently power, accumulates in their hands. This book attempts to give the layman more confidence in this new world by knowing something of the methods of scientific discoveries. For example, clocks and watches are replaced by the tick of an atom.

"That's one small step for a man; one giant leap for mankind," Neil Armstrong made history with those first words on the moon. 'Moon, Man's Greatest Adventure' with text by Werner Von Braun, Silvio Bedini and Fred L. Whipple, details the Apollo 11 Mission and 135 events from July 16 lift off from Cape Kennedy to splash down July 24, 1969. The first conversations between human beings on earth and the moon are recorded.

A listing of significant space flights, manned and unmanned, enroute to the lunar landing is given in chronological order in the back of the book. Because of the book's scientific value and cost, it has been placed in the reference collection.

Here A Penny Buys Something

There's not much left one can get for a penny, but there will be a whole carnival of things Friday night at the Palatine Park District's 2nd annual Penny Carnival.

Community Park will be filled with booths and games from 6:30 to 10 p.m., and tickets will all sell for one cent. The games will cost from one to five tickets each.

Some of the games will be a cakewalk, sponge throw and miniature golf. Each game will offer prizes.

There will also be a balloon launch, with each contestant putting his name in a helium-filled balloon and letting it go. The person whose name is returned from the farthest point will receive a prize.

AREA CHILDREN may see exotic forms of wildlife in a natural setting at the Town Square Wildlife Sanctuary. The Sica deer scratches himself, while the miniature goat eats.

Wildlife Lurks Near Shop Center

by PAT GERLACH

A young male Japanese Sica deer and a miniature goat contentedly roam their serene pasture in the heart of central Schaumburg, only feet from a busy shopping center.

Combined with varieties of Chinese and African geese, uncommon specimens of hybrid gold and green pheasants and other exotic waterfowl, the animals appear happily confined to Town Square Wildlife Sanctuary.

Town Square is on Roselle Road just south of the Schaumburg Road intersection.

A brainchild of George Shapiro of Morwell Builders, the sanctuary, which was begun last spring, surrounds a nearly two-acre retention basin.

"It was just really a wild idea that evolved after we fenced the pond to keep children from the water," Shapiro explained.

Viewing the fenced pond and its adjoining grassy area as a natural for waterfowl, Shapiro and Ray Hardy, owner of a heating and plumbing firm located in the shopping center, hit on the scheme of placing a few ducks and ornamental birds in the park-like setting.

With assistance of Charles Hume of the Small Animal Research Center in Arlington Heights, the deer, goat and most of the ducks and other birds were obtained.

"THEY SEEM TO BE thriving for the most part but the deer appears a bit lonely so we have decided to obtain a female companion for him next fall," Shapiro commented.

Both he and Hardy are also interested in further acquisition of a number of varieties of the miniature goat.

Spectator interest has run high ever since the sanctuary began to develop last spring and a walkway has been constructed around the exterior fencing of the pond area.

A barn to house the deer, goat and birds is also nearing completion.

"We are not by any means through since it is our intention to continue obtaining birds of rare species which face extinction unless carefully preserved," Hardy said.

He described his role in creating the sanctuary as one of "mainly broadening the idea" conceived by Shapiro.

Cost of the entire project to date has been minimal and both Shapiro and Hardy consider it a strictly private venture.

THEY HAVE A group of color photographs of the birds and animals which will be placed at the shopping centers main entrance to attract attention to the sanctuary.

The birds and animals are provided with regular type pellet feed, and Hardy and Shapiro soon hope to interest several area youth groups in installing vending machines near the fence.

"This would encourage children and adults to come and see and feed the birds and animals and the responsible organization would take any profit," Shapiro noted.

Formal creation of the physical part of the sanctuary will be completed this fall when a circulating system is installed to keep water from freezing during the winter.

Its population, however, is intended to increase with time, although Shapiro issued a caution to residents asking that they refrain from placing animals or birds in the area.

"Apparently someone decided that the sanctuary would be a good home for their pet rabbit and you had better believe that caused some real problems," he said.

The sanctuary is located just west of the Town Square Shopping Center parking lot and is open all day.

Library Report

Circulation of materials from the Palatine Public Library for the fiscal year May 1, 1970 to April 30, 1971 rose by almost 20,000 over the circulation for the previous year, according to the library's annual report.

But the just-released report shows more than a 3,000 person drop in Palatine residents who borrowed materials in 1970-71 than in 1969-70. There were 4,256 resident borrowers in 1970-71.

The book collection grew to 47,701 books in 1971, 4,100 more than in 69-70. The collection totaled about 40,000 books in 68-69.

Deny Zoning For Hospital Complex

by PAT GERLACH

The idea of constructing a hospital on a 20-acre donated land site on Schaumburg Road suffered a fatal blow Tuesday night when village trustees voted to deny issuance of planned unit development (PUD) zoning to J. Emil Anderson & Sons for a hospital-medical-residential complex.

Since its formal presentation to the zoning board of appeals last February, the plan has been opposed by area residents primarily from Timbercrest subdivision which is near the site.

The idea has also been thought to stimulate hospital planning in several other nearby communities.

In extensive remarks to trustees preceding the vote, Mayor Robert O. Atcher spoke for approval of the PUD and made it clear that the idea of a hospital in central Schaumburg was his own and had been picked up by the developer more than four years ago.

TRACING THE history of the Anderson firm in Schaumburg and its history of close cooperation with village officials through the years, Atcher referred to J. Emil Anderson & Sons responsibility for the creation of Woodfield Mall.

bought land when they were involved in industrial development and could have carried through with such a local project "but they saw our dream and recognized the need for a regional retail facility and were certainly helpful in bringing this about."

He said that since the inception of the Woodfield plan, the Anderson firm has acquired other properties in the immediate vicinity and has decided to develop these in line with an auxiliary center to the mall which will result in a total $200 million tax base for Schaumburg, its school districts and other taxing bodies.

The mayor has on several occasions asked trustees to mentally divorce themselves from the hospital concept in the PUD and consider the 37 per cent land donation being offered to the village.

Atcher stressed the fact that in all matters including the PUD in question the developer has concurred with the requests of the village.

"I FEEL that the integrity of this board is on the line and ask you to remember that once a developer gets zoning he can sell land to the highest bidder and that is not always the best quality firm."

"We want and we need his (Anderson's) cooperation and if your way of saying thanks for Woodfield is to treat him as though he is trying to do something wrong, you can point your finger at me," he said.

Also speaking against the PUD was Mrs. Jane Murphy, a Weathersfield resident interested in preserving the heavily wooded Sarah's Grove portion of the land involved.

Mrs. Murphy presented Atcher and the trustees with petitions against the project signed by 81 local residents and suggested that Anderson "develop an ecological conscience" regarding elimination of what experts say are "priceless specimens of trees."

Several trustees noticed that the PUD which would have included 567 townhouses and apartments in addition to the doctors' offices and hospital on the 57-acre total tract is not in keeping with guidelines for the requested zoning.

Several times during the discussion, it appeared that further postponement of the decision, suggested by the mayor, might result since contributions to Schaumburg's proposed cultural center had not been specified in the zoning board's recommendation to approve the plan.

HIS SUGGESTION to the developers counsel, Marvin Glink, that the hospital be eliminated from the plan and that the wooded area be instead donated to the village also failed.

Voting against the proposal were Trustees Herbert J. Aigner, James Guthrie, Gordon Mullins and Jack Larsen with only Ray Kessel and Mathew Helsper casting their vote for the PUD.

"I hope that the Village of Schaumburg is not going to be judged in the future from the standpoint of action taken tonight from the way this petitioner has been treated," remarked Atcher following the vote.

1,000-Acre Area Would Bring In 9,000

Zimmermann Backs Annexing Part Of Prospect Heights 'New Town'

Annexation of portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect to the Village of Mount Prospect has been recommended by John Zimmermann, village attorney, in a feasibility report released yesterday. Zimmermann was acting village manager when he prepared the report.

The study of the approximately 1,000 acres located northeast of the village was conducted by village department heads over the last few months.

The area under consideration is L-shaped. It is bounded by River Road on the east and Kensington Avenue on the south. The westernmost boundary is Crabtree Lane. From there the boundary runs east along Euclid Avenue, north along Wolf Road then Mandel Lane, and then east along Willow Road to River Road.

'New Town' May Get New Addresses

Residents in portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect may have new house addresses if the area is annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

Not only would their city addresses change from Prospect Heights to Mount Prospect, but their house number and the name of the street they live on may also change.

The feasibility study prepared on the annexation proposal states "All of the street numbers and addresses so that they will be compatible with the existing numbering system within the village." The names of 20 of the streets in the unincorporated area are identical to the names of Mount Prospect streets.

Village trustees will discuss the study and consider the annexation proposal at special meetings scheduled for Sept. 14 and 28.

Although the annexation is supposed to cost more than it brings in during the first two years, Zimmermann said it would be advantageous to the village in the long run.

"We do not expect the transition of jumping from a population of roughly 35,000 to a population of at least 44,000 will be an easy one," said Zimmermann. "Nevertheless, the consensus is that, if we are to survive as an entity apart from the other municipalities surrounding us, we must grow."

One factor influencing Zimmermann's decision is the possibility that the village method of taxation may change. He said "we will not be dealing with property taxes in the future as much as we will be dealing with per capita taxes. In view of that it would behoove this town to annex as much land and territory as soon as possible in order to insure that the potential to expand the population will not be cut off."

ZIMMERMANN ESTIMATED that the cost of services in the annexed area would be $60,969 more than revenue during the remaining six months of the 1971-72 fiscal year if the annexation is approved in October. During the 1972-73 fiscal year the deficit is expected to rise to $84,357. During the 1973-74 fiscal year Zimmermann expects the revenue to be $102,116 over the costs.

The village expects to pull out of the red in its services to the annexed area in 1973 because real estate taxes will become available in that year. These taxes will total about $369,553 based on a rate of .584 per $100 assessed valuation. If the village board approves the annexation after Dec. 31, 1971 the area would not

Fire Dept. To Absorb Volunteers

The Forest River Volunteer Fire Protection District will be absorbed into the Mount Prospect Fire Department if the village annexes portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect.

In a feasibility study recommending the annexation, John Zimmermann, as acting village manager, said the village will have to absorb the entire fire district and assume its bonded indebtedness. The same study also showed that the village will have to add to its police force to replace coverage formerly provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

When annexation petitioners first submitted their proposal to the Cook County Circuit Court, the Forest River Fire District objected on the grounds that not all of the district would be included in the annexation. Zimmermann said in the study, "The village must serve the entire district, including the Forest River subdivision which is excluded from the annexation, with the same quality of fire protection it has enjoyed in the past."

THE STUDY recommended that the Forest River subdivision be excluded from the annexation because it "contains neither sidewalks, curbs, gutters, storm sewers, water mains, street lights nor street signs." Zimmermann added, "We will have to serve this area with fire protection even though it remains outside of the village."

In addition the study recommends that produce tax revenues until May of 1974, to be used in the 1974-75 fiscal year, according to Zimmermann.

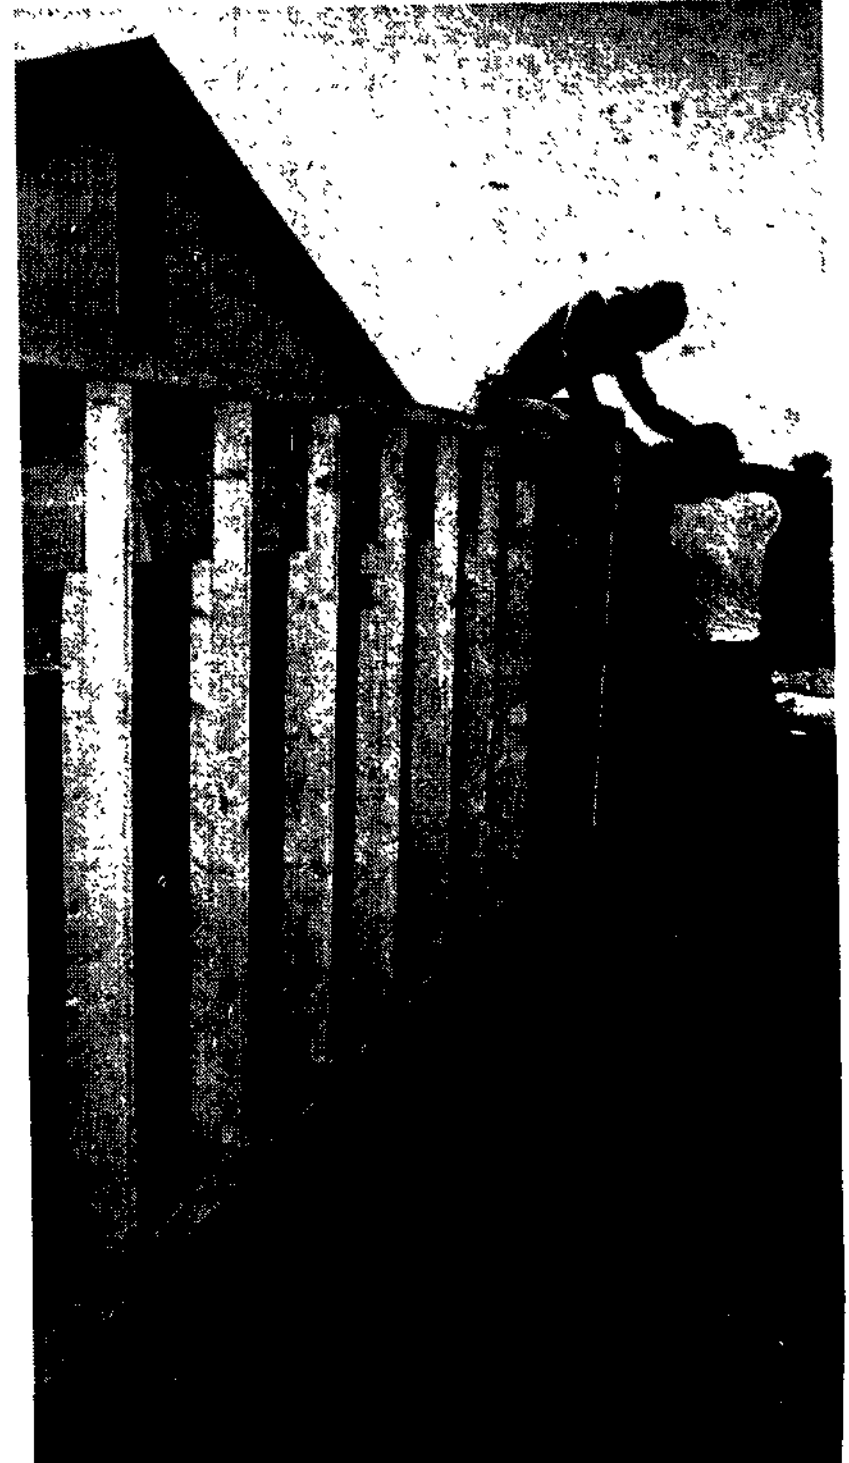

the village hire Forest River Fire Chief Charles Nick as a fire inspector at an annual salary of $12,766. It also recommends hiring Forest River fireman Paul Watkins (the district's only other full-time firefighter) at the same salary. The remaining firemen would be interviewed. Those qualified would then become part of the Mount Prospect Fire Department as volunteer members.

The village will become owner of the fire district's new three-bay station at Foundry (Kensington) and River roads if it absorbs the district. The study says this station will probably be "utilized as a temporary location to serve the new area. However at such time as the Old Orchard lane is developed, a third station should be erected between Old Orchard and the newly annexed area."

Other changes resulting from the proposed annexation would be a revision in the pattern of village police beats. The Soo Line R.R. creates a natural barrier that could delay patrol cars answering a call by six minutes. The village police department estimates it will be expected to respond to 1,175 calls and to serve an additional 1,500 inquiries during the first year after annexation.

The new area would comprise about one and a half police beats. According to the study each beat would carry the present single squad car with an additional car on general patrol as a "back-up."

The study recommends that the village add three lieutenants and six firemen to provide fire protection in the new area and the northernmost portions of the existing village. Salaries for these nine men at present rates would amount to (Continued on page 3)

Postpone Action On Sewer, Water Bill

The Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday night decided to submit its new sewer and storm water management ordinance to the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the village's drainage and clean streams commission before enacting the ordinance.

The ordinance is intended to reduce possible future flooding. It was prepared by Trustee George B. Anderson and the public works committee.

The submission to the two agencies is to insure the proposed ordinance, as now written, conforms to recent state legislation.

The ordinance will require provision for water retention and detention for all new commercial and industrial sites and for all new residential sites of over five acres.

By definition, a detention basin is an area set aside above or below ground for the purpose of holding accelerated storm water runoff for a specific period at times during and immediately following a rainfall. It also will have a controlled outlet with a predetermined flow-rate.

The retention basin includes the above but also contains a permanent body of water for storage.

New Pupil Registration Aug. 24-26

Registration for new pupils in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will be held Aug. 24, 25 and 26.

All new pupils who have not yet registered and plan to attend elementary school in the district should register between 9 a.m. and noon and 1 and 3 p.m. A child must be five by Dec. 1 to attend kindergarten and six by Dec. 1 to attend first grade.

New pupils should register at the school they plan to attend. Kindergarten classes will be offered at six of the district's seven schools. They are Westbrook, 103 S. Busse Rd.; Busse, 101 N. Owen St.; Fairview, 300 N. Fairview Ave.; Gregory, 400 E. Gregory St.; Lions Park, 300 E. Council Tr.; and Sunset Park, 601 W. Lounquist Blvd. Registration for all new junior high school students will be held at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

New pupils should bring a birth certificate and a report card or transfer form from the school previously attended. Kindergartners should bring a birth certificate, hospital record or baptism record.

Dist. 57 officials expect about 350 students to enroll in kindergarten according to enrollment projections made last year.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Slated For Lincoln St.

$22,000 In MFT Funds Set Aside

An additional $22,000 in Motor Fuel Tax (MFT) funds was set aside for the improvement of Lincoln Street between Can-Dota and See-Gwon avenues Tuesday night by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The $22,000 will be put with the $54,000 which became available when the low bid for a MFT resurfacing project came in under the village engineering department's project cost estimate. The major savings came through a reduction in the price of asphalt.

The current MFT project provides for the improvement and resurfacing of 13 portions of village streets.

The work on Lincoln Street will cost about $78,000, Village Atty. John Zimmermann said. He said it would normally cost about $100,000.

The area to be improved is bounded on the north by Lincoln Junior High School. The improvements include widening of the street to 36 feet wide.

In the discussion, Trustee Richard H. Monroe said he felt a policy determination should be made by the board on whether MFT funds should be used for such improvements or whether a special assessment should be levied.

MONROE SUGGESTED that perhaps a certain percentage of MFT funds be set aside each year for such capital improvements of collector streets such as Lincoln Street.

Normally MFT funds are used for the improvement and repair of major streets and not for capital improvements.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert, said that "Voting for this improvement (of Lincoln Street) would establish a policy of improving collector streets by MFT funds. Priorities would be established each year by the existing board."

Teichert pointed out, as did Monroe, that the block of Lincoln to the immediate east of Can-Dota Avenue has already been widened through the use of MFT funds. The Mayor said the board would have difficulty in setting up special assessments for Lincoln Street, Prospect Avenue and Mount Prospect Road because of the heavy traffic on those streets.

"In such cases, the public benefit is obvious," Teichert said.

But since the engineering department has estimated it would cost about $900,000 to improve all of Lincoln Street, Teichert said it was probably better to make the improvements on a piecemeal basis.

Bill McManamon, former village engineer who prepared the estimates and who was at the board meeting, said he hoped the project on Lincoln Street will be completed prior to the September opening of school.

Stone Pillars 'Safe'-Trees To Come Down

The stone pillars at Council Trail and Rte. 83 have withstood the latest effort for their removal. However, the pillars' neighbors, some large trees to the north may not be so lucky.

The Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday night voted to leave the pillars but to remove "as many trees as necessary up to 100 feet north along Elmhurst Road" (Rte. 83). There will also be no parking for 100 feet north along Elmhurst Road.

Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten, chairman of the public health and safety committee, said they were talking about "maybe three trees coming down at most." Trustee Donald B. Furst cast the only dissenting vote.

The contention that the stone pillars are a safety hazard was presented to the board by former trustee Lloyd Norris, when he recalled a traffic accident involving a private motorist's automobile and a state police car.

Norris told the board that both the trees and the pillars obstructed the view of a motorist going east on Council Trail. Norris further said he felt the intersection was the most dangerous intersection in the village.

Park District Investigates Drowning

An investigation into the drowning of a youth Monday at Kopp Pool in Mount Prospect is being conducted by Mount Prospect Park District officials.

A report on the incident will be made to park district commissioners Monday at a special meeting scheduled for 6:30 at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. The monthly meeting of the park board will follow at 8 p.m.

Kevin Kalita, 9, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead about 3:30 p.m. Monday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. He had been found unconscious with a cut on his head in about three feet of water about 30 minutes earlier by other swimmers.

Paul Caldwell, a park director, said the investigation began at the scene of the accident with the questioning of lifeguards on duty. An account of the incident given to park district officials and police by a woman witness will also be included in the report.

The woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, told police she saw the victim, who was running, slip at the east edge of the outdoor pool, hit his head and fall into the water. She said lifeguards were at his side "within a second or two."

According to police, the witness said she had warned the boy not to run in the pool area just before the incident occurred. She indicated he continued running, however.

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held in the matter, but no date has yet been set.

The pool where the drowning occurred is adjacent to Dempster Junior High School at 420 W. Dempster St. The drowning was the first to ever occur in a swimming pool operated by the Mount Prospect Park District.

McManamon, Esmond Are 'Honored'

Resolutions in gratitude for the services of retiring Police Chief Newell Esmond, and former Acting Village Engr. Bill McManamon were approved Tuesday night by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Esmond served 22 years on the Mount Prospect Police Department, six years as chief, before announcing his retirement last week. Esmond will move to Florida. His last day as chief is tomorrow.

McManamon served on the Mount Prospect engineering staff for 3½ years before he left last Friday to work for a private construction firm in Niles.

A certified copy of the resolution, engraved on parchment will be given to each. The presentation to Esmond will be made at tomorrow night's retirement dinner in his honor.

The 7:30 p.m. dinner will be at the Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. It will be preceded by a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m.

Reservations for the dinner are still being accepted by Diana McClory and Rosemary Sanders in the police department office. The cost is $9.50 per person. For more information call 392-6000.

Assist 23 Projects

Lions Club Gives $16,000 To Charity In 1970-71

Almost $16,000 has been donated to charitable causes by the Mount Prospect Lions Club during its 1970-71 fiscal year.

In all, the Lions Club made donations to 23 separate projects during the year. The largest single recipient of funds from the Lions was the Hadley School for the Blind. The school received $2,743 as partial payment for the production of a film about the school. The total production costs of the film, about $17,000, will be paid for by the Mount Prospect Lions.

Last fall the Lions set up a George Wittenberg Memorial Fund in honor of the village's first police chief who died last year. Interest from the $5,000 placed in that fund will be used to further Mount Prospect police work.

Among the other recipients of Lions funds were the following: the Extensioners Senior Citizens Group, E-Hart Girls, Mount Prospect Library, Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect, the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club, the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July parade, the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded and the Boy Scouts of America.

The money was raised primarily from the Lions' annual Fourth of July carnival and from the sale of candy on Lions Candy Day. This year, Lions Candy Day will be Oct. 8 in Mount Prospect.

"The money we have been able to donate is not really from us," said Louis Velasco, Lions treasurer, "it's from the public."

Eppley To Name Chief, Engineer

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley told the Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday that he hopes to name a new police chief and a new village engineer within 90 days.

Eppley said he will advertise throughout Illinois for candidates to fill the two positions, as he wants "to find the best men possible."

Concerning a new police chief, Eppley said there would be a police department meeting at which time all officers with the rank of sergeant or higher will be invited to submit applications for the job. Eppley said he would like to see a member of the present force promoted to the chief's post but would not restrict himself to the present force.

Eppley also told the board he would like to have the final candidates for police chief undergo psychological testing at the village's expense.

Lt. John Savage has been named temporary police chief, effective after Friday, Chief Newell Esmond's last day before retiring to Florida.

There has been no temporary village engineer named, although Ed Marsh, a member of the department, will be in charge of engineering until a new engineer is named. Bill McManamon resigned Aug. 6 to work for a private construction company at a higher salary.

community in early May. On May 19, Circuit Court Judge Harry Comerford forwarded the petition to the village after the sole objection to the petition was withdrawn. The objection had been filed by the Forest River Volunteer Fire Protection District.

From The Library

by LAURIE ROSSI

The circus has come to Randhurst, and the spirit of the circus is at the Mount Prospect Library. At the north end of the browsing room there's a 200-piece ceramic circus by Chick and Chuck of Mount Prospect. They specialize in ceramic gifts, supplies, and instruction. Their ceramic circus is available to any registered nonprofit organization within 20 miles. You can see the display for yourself now at the library, along with a lot more in the mood of the circus.

There's a great circus display at the main entrance of the library too, including posters, adult and children's library books on the circus, a circus film from the library's collection, the library's Merle Evans circus music album, and much more.

If you're planning to take your children to the free 11-day three-ring circus at Randhurst, there's no better way to prepare them for the high wire acts, clowns, and band than to read to them or have them read some colorful books on the circus. Reading circus books is just as appropriate an activity for after visiting the circus.

One book younger children will be able to read themselves is "The True Book of the Circus." It has colorful drawings and 98 per cent of the words are from the primary reading list. "Let's Go to a Circus" and "Here Comes the Circus" are illustrated in black, white, and red, and deal with the preparations for a circus to come to town and the behind the scenes people in a circus. "Circus" is an excellent book written in rhyme and illustrated with real circus photos taken by a noted New York photographer.

MANY MORE excellent circus books are on display in the entranceway. Make the circus one of your stops on the way to or from the library during this next week. It's just down the street, and will make your children's reading come that much more alive.

If your children have joined the summer reading club, make sure they check with the librarian if they're unsure of how many books they've read so far. Every year some children fail to fulfill the requirements only because they have lost count and think they've turned in more reports than they really have.

While they're up there, they can see Mark, John, and Margaret Hussman's display of animal figures and pictures, and an article on seal slaughter and extinction, and at the base of the stairs to the children's room there's a horse display by Corinne Falk, age 11.

Trumfio Heads Pupil Services

Harry Trumfio, previously an assistant principal in Niles School Dist. 63, has been hired as director of pupil services in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57.

Trumfio, who began his duties earlier this month, will receive $14,500 which includes payment for his job as summer school director.

Trumfio has had experience as a teacher, counselor and an administrator. He received a specialist certificate in guidance from Northeastern Illinois State College, a master's degree in social sciences from Northwestern University and a bachelor of science degree in humanities from Loyola University.

The new director was hired to fill a position recently vacated by Ronald Sterret. Sterret became principal of the Samuel A. Kirk Center in Palatine.

Zimmermann Backs Annexing Part Of Prospect Heights 'New Town'

Annexation of portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect to the Village of Mount Prospect has been recommended by John Zimmermann, village attorney, in a feasibility report released yesterday. Zimmermann was acting village manager when he prepared the report.

The study of the approximately 1,000 acres located northeast of the village was conducted by village department heads over the last few months.

The area under consideration is L-shaped. It is bounded by River Road on the east and Kensington Avenue on the south. The westernmost boundary is Crabtree Lane. From there the boundary runs east along Euclid Avenue, north along Wolf Road then Mandel Lane, and then east along Willow Road to River Road.

'New Town' May Get New Addresses

Residents in portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect may have new house addresses if the area is annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

Not only would their city addresses change from Prospect Heights to Mount Prospect, but their house number and the name of the street they live on may also change.

The feasibility study prepared on the annexation proposal states "All of the street numbers and addresses so that they will be compatible with the existing numbering system within the village." The names of 20 of the streets in the unincorporated area are identical to the names of Mount Prospect streets.

Village trustees will discuss the study and consider the annexation proposal at special meetings scheduled for Sept. 14 and 28.

Although the annexation is supposed to cost more than it brings in during the first two years, Zimmermann said it would be advantageous to the village in the long run.

"We do not expect the transition of jumping from a population of roughly 35,000 to a population of at least 44,000 will be an easy one," said Zimmermann. "Nevertheless, the consensus is that, if we are to survive as an entity apart from the other municipalities surrounding us, we must grow."

One factor influencing Zimmermann's decision is the possibility that the village method of taxation may change. He said "we will not be dealing with property taxes in the future as much as we will be dealing with per capita taxes. In view of that it would behoove this town to annex as much land and territory as soon as possible in order to insure that the potential to expand the population will not be cut off."

ZIMMERMANN ESTIMATED that the cost of services in the annexed area would be $60,989 more than revenue during the remaining six months of the 1971-72 fiscal year if the annexation is approved in October. During the 1972-73 fiscal year the deficit is expected to rise to $89,357. During the 1973-74 fiscal year Zimmermann expects the revenue to be $102,116 over the costs.

The village expects to pull out of the red in its services to the annexed area in 1973 because real estate taxes will become available in that year. These taxes will total about $369,553 based on a rate of .584 per $100 assessed valuation. If the village board approves the annexation after Dec. 31, 1971 the area would not

Fire Dept. To Absorb Volunteers

The Forest River Volunteer Fire Protection District will be absorbed into the Mount Prospect Fire Department if the village annexes portions of "new town" Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect.

In a feasibility study recommending the annexation, John Zimmermann, acting village manager, said the village will have to absorb the entire fire district and assume its bonded indebtedness. The same study also showed that the village will have to add to its police force to replace coverage formerly provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

When annexation petitioners first submitted their proposal to the Cook County Circuit Court, the Forest River Fire District objected on the grounds that not all of the district would be included in the annexation. Zimmermann said in the study, "The village must serve the entire district, including the Forest River subdivision which is excluded from the annexation, with the same quality of fire protection it has enjoyed in the past."

THE STUDY recommended that the Forest River subdivision be excluded from the annexation because it "contains neither sidewalks, curbs, gutters, storm sewers, water mains, street lights nor street signs." Zimmermann added, "We will have to serve this area with fire protection even though it remains outside of the village."

In addition the study recommends that the village hire Forest River Fire Chief Charles Nick as a fire inspector at an annual salary of $12,766. It also recommends hiring Forest River fireman Paul Watkins (the district's only other full-time firefighter) at the same salary. The remaining firemen would be interviewed. Those qualified would then become part of the Mount Prospect Fire Department as volunteer members.

The village will become owner of the fire district's new three-bay station at Foundry (Kensington) and River roads if it absorbs the district. The study says this station will probably be "utilized as a temporary location to serve the new area. However at such time as the Old Orchard lane is developed, a third station should be erected between Old Orchard and the newly annexed area."

Other changes resulting from the proposed annexation would be a revision in the pattern of village police beats. The Soo Line R.R. creates a natural barrier that could delay patrol cars answering a call by six minutes. The village police department estimates it will be expected to respond to 1,175 calls and to serve an additional 1,500 inquiries during the first year after annexation.

The study recommends that the village add three lieutenants and six firemen to provide fire protection in the new area and the northernmost portions of the existing village. Salaries for these nine men at present rates would amount to (Continued on page 3)

12th Attempt To Settle Teacher Contract

'Crucial' Negotiations Set

Tonight's teacher contract negotiations meeting in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 has been termed "crucial" by both school board and teacher bargainers.

"After the meeting we will have a better idea if we will have a contract settlement before school starts," Leo Floros, chairman of the board's bargaining team, said yesterday.

According to David Metzler, chairman of the negotiations team for the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), the meeting is crucial because "we will find out in what direction and how much the board will move on salary."

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. behind closed doors at Lincoln Junior High School, will end a temporary standstill in negotiations reached early last month when both sides could not agree on a meeting date. Tonight's meeting will be the twelfth time the two teams have attempted to negotiate a 1971-72 contract.

Floros said he did not know if a settlement would be reached tonight. "I don't know because I haven't had direct contact with members of the MPEA," he said. "But I am encouraged by discussions between Metzler and the superintendent."

AS A RESULT of talks with Supt. Eric Sahlberg earlier this month, David Metzler, MPEA negotiations chairman, agreed to meet with the board. Teachers previously said they would not meet with the board until it raised its current salary offer.

Metzler said he does not anticipate a settlement tonight "because I don't think the board will move that much."

Floros said the board "will make some changes" in its current salary schedule offer but would not say what the changes would be. He indicated, however, that changes may come in salaries of teachers, who under the current schedule, would not receive raises. About 20 per cent of returning teachers are currently on a step in the schedule where increasing their education is the only way they would receive a pay hike.

The latest MPEA proposal is based on a cost-of-living increase of about 6 per cent, according to Metzler. The proposal includes salaries ranging from $9,356 for a teacher with two years experience and a bachelor's degree to $16,472 for a teacher with 18 years experience, a master's degree and 30 hours of additional credit.

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 846.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 338 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

Slated For Lincoln St.

$22,000 In MFT Funds Set Aside

An additional $22,000 in Motor Fuel Tax (MFT) funds was set aside for the improvement of Lincoln Street between Can-Dota and See-Gwon avenues Tuesday night by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The $22,000 will be put with the $54,000 which became available when the low bid for a MFT resurfacing project came in under the village engineering department's project cost estimate. The major savings came through a reduction in the price of asphalt.

The current MFT project provides for the improvement and resurfacing of 13 portions of village streets.

The work on Lincoln Street will cost about $76,000, Village Atty. John Zimmermann said. He said it would normally cost about $100,000.

The area to be improved is bounded on the north by Lincoln Junior High School. The improvements include widening of the street to 36 feet wide.

In the discussion, Trustee Richard H. Monroe said he felt a policy determination should be made by the board on whether MFT funds should be used for such improvements or whether a special assessment should be levied.

MONROE SUGGESTED that perhaps a certain percentage of MFT funds be set aside each year for such capital improvements of collector streets such as Lincoln Street.

Normally MFT funds are used for the improvement and repair of major streets and not for capital improvements.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert, said that "Voting for this improvement (of Lincoln Street) would establish a policy of improving collector streets by MFT funds. Priorities would be established each year by the existing board."

Teichert pointed out, as did Monroe, that the block of Lincoln to the immediate east of Can-Dota Avenue has already been widened through the use of MFT funds. The Mayor said the board would have difficulty in setting up special assessments for Lincoln Street, Prospect Avenue and Mount Prospect Road because of the heavy traffic on those streets.

"In such cases, the public benefit is obvious," Teichert said.

But since the engineering department has estimated it would cost about $800,000 to improve all of Lincoln Street, Teichert said it was probably better to make the improvements on a piecemeal basis.

Bill McManamon, former village engineer who prepared the estimates and who was at the board meeting, said he hoped the project on Lincoln Street will be completed prior to the September opening of school.

Stone Pillars 'Safe'-Trees To Come Down

The stone pillars at Council Trail and Rte. 83 have withstood the latest effort for their removal. However, the pillars' neighbors, some large trees to the north may not be so lucky.

The Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday night voted to leave the pillars but to remove "as many trees as necessary up to 100 feet north along Elmhurst Road" (Rte. 83). There will also be no parking for 180 feet north along Elmhurst Road.

Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten, chairman of the public health and safety committee, said they were talking about "maybe three trees coming down at most." Trustee Donald B. Furst cast the only dissenting vote.

The contention that the stone pillars are a safety hazard was presented to the board by former trustee Lloyd Norris, when he recalled a traffic accident involving a private motorist's automobile and a state police car.

Norris told the board that both the trees and the pillars obstructed the view of a motorist going east on Council Trail. Norris further said he felt the intersection was the most dangerous intersection in the village.

Park District Investigates Drowning

An investigation into the drowning of a youth Monday at Kopp Pool in Mount Prospect is being conducted by Mount Prospect Park District officials.

A report on the incident will be made to park district commissioners Monday at a special meeting scheduled for 6:30 at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. The monthly meeting of the park board will follow at 8 p.m.

Kevin Kalita, 9, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead about 3:30 p.m. Monday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. He had been found unconscious with a cut on his head in about three feet of water about 30 minutes earlier by other swimmers.

Paul Caldwell, a park director, said the investigation began at the scene of the accident with the questioning of lifeguards on duty. An account of the incident given to park district officials and police by a woman witness will also be included in the report.

The woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, told police she saw the victim, who was running, slip at the east edge of the outdoor pool, hit his head and fall into the water. She said lifeguards were at his side "within a second or two."

According to police, the witness said she had warned the boy not to run in the pool area just before the incident occurred. She indicated he continued running, however.

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held in the matter, but no date has yet been set.

The pool where the drowning occurred is adjacent to Dempster Junior High School at 420 W. Dempster St. The drowning was the first to ever occur in a swimming pool operated by the Mount Prospect Park District.

McManamon, Esmond Are 'Honored'

Resolutions in gratitude for the services of retiring Police Chief Newell Esmond, and former Acting Village Engr. Bill McManamon were approved Tuesday night by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Esmond served 22 years on the Mount Prospect Police Department, six years as chief, before announcing his retirement last week. Esmond will move to Florida. His last day as chief is tomorrow.

McManamon served on the Mount Prospect engineering staff for 3½ years before he left last Friday to work for a private construction firm in Niles.

A certified copy of the resolution, engraved on parchment will be given to each. The presentation to Esmond will be made at tomorrow night's retirement dinner in his honor.

The 7:30 p.m. dinner will be at the Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. It will be preceded by a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m.

Reservations for the dinner are still being accepted by Diana McClary and Rosemary Sanders in the police department office. The cost is $9.50 per person. For more information call 392-9000.

Assist 23 Projects

Lions Club Gives $16,000 To Charity In 1970-71

Almost $16,000 has been donated to charitable causes by the Mount Prospect Lions Club during its 1970-71 fiscal year.

In all, the Lions Club made donations to 23 separate projects during the year. The largest single recipient of funds from the Lions was the Hadley School for the Blind. The school received $2,743 as partial payment for the production of a film about the school. The total production costs of the film, about $17,000, will be paid for by the Mount Prospect Lions.

Last fall the Lions set up a George Wittenberg Memorial Fund in honor of the village's first police chief who died last year. Interest from the $5,000 placed in that fund will be used to further Mount Prospect police work.

Among the other recipients of Lions funds were the following: the Extensioners Senior Citizens Group, E-Hart Girls, Mount Prospect Library, Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect, the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club, the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July parade, the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded and the Boy Scouts of America.

The money was raised primarily from the Lions' annual Fourth of July carnival and from the sale of candy on Lions Candy Day. This year, Lions Candy Day will be Oct. 8 in Mount Prospect.

"The money we have been able to donate is not really from us," said Louis Velasco, Lions treasurer, "it's from the public."

Eppley To Name Chief, Engineer

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley told the Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday that he hopes to name a new police chief and a new village engineer within 90 days.

Eppley said he will advertise throughout Illinois for candidates to fill the two positions, as he wants "to find the best men possible."

Concerning a new police chief, Eppley said there would be a police department meeting at which time all officers will be invited to submit applications for the job. Eppley said he would like to see a member of the present force promoted to the chief's post but would not restrict himself to the present force.

Eppley also told the board he would like to have the final candidates for police chief undergo psychological testing at the village's expense.

Lt. John Savage has been named temporary police chief, effective after Friday, Chief Newell Esmond's last day before retiring to Florida.

There has been no temporary village engineer named, although Ed Marsh, a member of the department, will be in charge of engineering until a new engineer is named. Bill McManamon resigned Aug. 6 to work for a private construction company at a higher salary.

Theft Reported

Thieves took $325 and two adding machines and a brief case, valued at $250 sometime early Sunday from the Yankee Doodle Dandy Restaurant, 10 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect police reported.

Police said the office door had been forced open. In addition, police said one empty coin bag was found in a garbage can in the back parking lot.

Believe Teen's Death Due To Drug Overdose

A 17-year old Arlington Heights youth was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital early yesterday morning, the apparent victim of a drug overdose.

Dennis Grinnell, 1912 Spruce Terr., was found late Tuesday night motionless on his bedroom floor by his father, Richard.

Arlington Heights police do not know what type of drug killed Grinnell, a Wheeling High School student. A Cook County Coroner's office spokesman said an inquest into the death will be held in about two or three weeks.

Dennis is survived by his father, Richard; his mother, Evelyn; a brother, Jeffery, 19; and a sister, Susan, 14. Visitation at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vail, Arlington Heights will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m.

From The Library

by LAURIE ROSSI

The circus has come to Randhurst, and the spirit of the circus is at the Mount Prospect Library. At the north end of the browsing room there's a 200-piece ceramic circus by Chick and Chuck of Mount Prospect. They specialize in ceramic gifts, supplies, and instruction. Their ceramic circus is available to any registered nonprofit organization within 20 miles. You can see the display for yourself now at the library, along with a lot more in the mood of the circus.

There's a great circus display at the main entrance of the library too, including posters, adult and children's library books on the circus, a circus film from the library's collection, the library's Merle Evans circus music album, and much more.

If you're planning to take your children to the free 11-day three-ring circus at Randhurst, there's no better way to prepare them for the high wire acts, clowns, and band than to read to them or have them read some colorful books on the circus. Reading circus books is just as appropriate an activity for after visiting the circus.

One book younger children will be able to read themselves is "The True Book of the Circus." It has colorful drawings and 98 per cent of the words are from the primary reading list. "Let's Go to a Circus" and "Here Comes the Circus" are illustrated in black, white, and red, and deal with the preparations for a circus to come to town and the behind the scenes people in a circus. "Circus" is an excellent book written in rhyme and illustrated with real circus photos taken by a noted New York photographer.

MANY MORE excellent circus books are on display in the entranceway. Make the circus one of your stops on the way to or from the library during this next week. It's just down the street, and will make your children's reading come that much more alive.

If your children have joined the summer reading club, make sure they check with the librarian if they're unsure of how many books they've read so far. Every year some children fail to fulfill the requirements only because they have lost count and think they've turned in more reports than they really have.

While they're up there, they can see Mark, John, and Margaret Hussman's display of animal figures and pictures, and an article on seal slaughter and extinction, and at the base of the stairs to the children's room there's a horse display by Corinne Falk, age 11.

The library is open 9-9 weekdays and 9-5 Saturdays.

In Youth Workshop

Eric Ornberg of 6 W. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights was among 115 senior high school age students from throughout Illinois who participated in a youth conservation workshop program this summer at Western Illinois University in Macomb. He received a scholarship for the three-week course from the Prospect Heights Woman's Club.

Set Dinner-Dance

The annual Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce dinner-dance will be held Sept. 18 at Fritzel's Steak House in Arlington Heights.

A prime rib of beef dinner will be followed by dancing with music provided by the Dick Carlton Band.

Tickets are $12.50 a person. For more information call Matt Pryor, the Chamber's executive secretary, at 392-2470.

Trumfio Heads Pupil Services

Harry Trumfio, previously an assistant principal in Niles School Dist. 63, has been hired as director of pupil services in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57.

Trumfio, who began his duties earlier this month, will receive $14,500 which includes payment for his job as summer school director.

Trumfio has had experience as a teacher, counselor and an administrator. He received a specialist certificate in guidance from Northeastern Illinois State College, a master's degree in social sciences from Northwestern University and a bachelor of science degree in humanities from Loyola University.

The new director was hired to fill a position recently vacated by Ronald Sterret. Sterret became principal of the Samuel A. Kirk Center in Palatine.

EEC To Take Inspection Tour Of Pond

One of the first tasks of the Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission (ECC) will be to take an inspection tour of Hasbrook retention pond next Wednesday in an effort to help ECC members decide the fate of the basin.

At the ECC's first meeting held last night, Chairman Edward Kokkelenberg decided that ECC will meet at 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the basin, located just west of Chestnut and north of Thomas St., to inspect the area.

The ECC is trying to decide the fate of the small basin, which had been an issue of disagreement among Hasbrook subdivision homeowners and village officials.

Kokkelenberg said there are two major proposals open to ECC: fill the pond in as the village planned previously, costing some $66,000; or turn it into a nature center according to rough plans submitted by the Hasbrook Civic Association.

The latter proposal, making it into a conservation area, was the idea of several teens who approached the village board several times, and finally succeeded in getting the matter deferred for further study by ECC.

Other proposals offered last night were to leave the pond in its present state, or let a local school district use it as an outdoor laboratory.

Mrs. Sally Dodd of Hasbrook Civic Association, said most of the 511 homeowners in the subdivision favor the teens' plan to conserve the pond and the wildlife it fosters.

Whatever is done, Mrs. Dodd said some renovation was necessary to treat mosquitoes fostered by the basin.

"This is the main problem, the bugs," she said. "But whatever comes out of this, I think the people of Hasbrook generally feel these seven to 10 kids have gone through the channels and we want to back them."

In other business, Chairman Kokkelenberg appointed members to four subcommittees of ECC. They are:

— The ordinance review and advisory subcommittee, which is charged with considering amendments to the village ordinance which created ECC, and to make recommendations by Aug. 31.

— The incinerator-investigative subcommittee, charged with investigating and reporting back by Oct. 1 on the village's proposed incinerator at the landfill site north of town.

— The last two committees set up were designed to outline goals and objectives of ECC, and another group was formed to study state, local and federal law pertaining to the environment.

Meetings This Week

Thursday, Aug. 12

The Dist. 25 Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary school district's administration building, 301 W. South St.

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements will meet at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

The joint committee on the master plan for Arlington Heights will meet at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building. The committee includes members of the Arlington Heights Village Board and the Plan Commission.

The Dist. 21 Board of Education will meet at 8:15 p.m. in the elementary school district's administration building, 990 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

OFFICER EUGENE KORN makes a daily living by rounding up strays like these two. Korn who also serves as a regular patrolman with the Arlington Heights Police Department, has been the village animal welfare officer for the last 12 years. During that time he has dealt with every type of animal native to this area. "You can't fear an animal," Korn said. "You've got to be the boss and show it."

'Dog Catcher' A Real Animal Lover

by TOM ROBB

A woman and her daughter stood guard on the gate to her back yard fence. Only moments before she had called the Arlington Heights police for help.

"There, it's inside the fence," she said pointing to the rear yard.

Arlington Heights patrolman Eugene Korn stepped by the worried lady, swung open the gate and looked down upon his "catch" for the day: a very old dog which had dissipated into nothing more than skin and bones.

"She's not sick, just old," said Korn, as he coaxed the weak and bewildered animal into the back of his station wagon squad car.

Sitting amidst nooses, leashes, heavy gloves, a tranquilizer gun and a .22 caliber pistol, Korn reached for the ignition key and confidently repeated, "I don't think she's sick, just old, very old."

FOR THE LAST 12 years, 37-year-old Korn has been what people used to simply call the dog catcher.

Turning his squad car onto Euclid Avenue, Korn headed for Prospect Animal Hospital, 821 N. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect, the animal pound for strays caught on the north side of the railroad tracks. "Lay down, baby, lay down," he said, turning in the drivers seat toward the

Eye School Operating Budget

A $7,162,000 operating budget for Arlington Heights Elementary School Dist. 25 will be presented tonight by Donald V. Strong, district superintendent, at the board of education meeting.

The proposed 1971-72 budget represents a $300,000 reduction from last year's expenditures, with most of the cuts in personnel. Seventy people, nearly 50 of them certificated teachers, have been cut from the salary rolls.

The budget will be available to the public on Friday through Sept. 15 at the district administration building, 301 W. South St.

Most of the cuts in personnel, supplies and programs are the result of the defeat last spring of a referendum for a tax rate increase.

A formal hearing has been set for Sept. 15, when residents may ask questions about specific budget provisions.

The board is also expected to agree tonight to change its regular meeting days to the second and fourth Thursday of every month. It now meets on the second, Thursday and fourth Monday, except during the months of July and August when only one meeting is held.

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 21 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 946.38. Advances led declines, 335 to 338 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,376,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

Eye on Arlington

Youth Council Needs Direction

by KURT BAER

The Arlington Heights Youth Council tried twice last week to convene a meeting but, as so many times in the past, it just couldn't quite put it all together.

Since its inception seven years ago, the youth council has been a study in ineffectiveness. Unsure of its role in the governmental hierarchy, the council has the dubious distinction of having done less for more people than any other municipal group — advisory or otherwise — in recent memory.

At a time when it could be acting as a clearing house and coordinator for the mushrooming number of youth counseling programs which have begun to clamor for support, the youth council is as directionless as ever, four members short and lacking a chairman.

THE LATEST CHAPTER in the saga came several weeks ago when the finance committee of the village board decided the youth council's recommendation that Arlington Heights contribute $14,000 to help support a Palatine-based counseling service was "too vague" for consideration.

The money has been requested to pay the salaries of two additional counselors for The Bridge, an experimental federally-funded program serving families in Arlington Heights and Palatine Township.

Also derailed somewhere between the youth council and the finance committee are requests for funds needed to initiate both the hotline and street worker phases of the Community Action Program (CAP).

Village Pres Jack Walsh has repeatedly expressed his belief that Arlington Heights must begin to experiment and fund more and better programs for its youthful citizens, despite the inherent difficulties in evaluating the effectiveness of such programs.

"It's easy to spend money to lay so many feet of sewer pipe, or resurface a road," Walsh has said. "We can all see the results of this kind of project. But there's a need to develop programs and allocate money to help people too, even though the results are often harder to determine."

CREDIT HAS TO be given to the Arlington Heights police department for actually having gotten a forward-looking youth program beyond the talking stage.

With a pledge of $24,000 from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, the police department, which now has five youth officers, has begun to implement a unique youth worker program to combat juvenile delinquency.

But police programs by themselves are not enough. As one high school member of the youth council put it, "The last place anybody wants to go with a problem is to the cops."

So much has been said about the need to revitalize the youth council that another plea along that line would seem to be almost a preordained failure. But at a time when other communities are moving ahead with hotline and street worker programs, it should be a source of embarrassment to someone that in Arlington Heights youth council members are apparently too disinterested to even show up for a monthly meeting.

TWO YOUTHS WERE arrested Monday for allegedly cultivating this crop of marijuana, found by Arlington Heights police on a sundeck at 820 N. Ridge. Not visible from the street, the plants, about 50 all together, were discovered after police received an anonymous telephone call tipping them off.

Girls Win Trophy At Cheering Camp

Seven girls returned from the Mary Evelyn Thurman Twirling and Cheerleader Camp at Lake Forest, last week with a first-place trophy.

The girls are members of the John Hersey High School majorettes. The majorettes march with the school band and appear at all of the school basketball and football games. They received their trophy at the one week camp for their technique.

Stable Minister To Address Rotary

The Rev. David Krueckeberg, minister of the stable area at Arlington Park Race Track, will relate some of his experiences of life on the backstretch to Arlington Heights Rotarians who meet at noon today at Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Krueckeberg is pastor of St. Philip's Church, a roving interdenominational, non-sectarian organization which follows the racing circuit to various tracks throughout the year.

His work is done under the auspices of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, English District.

Establish 2nd Recycling Location

The second location at the north fire station, 3030 N. Arlington Heights Rd., was stocked yesterday with labeled bins for glass and metal. The station is on the west side of Arlington Heights Road between College and University Drives, a part of the Arlington Industrial and Research Center.

The first drop-off location was established in June by the village at the south fire station, 2000 S. Arlington Heights Rd. The station is on the west side of the road between Golf and Algonquin roads. As of yesterday, more than 50,000 pounds of glass and metal had been collected from the first drop-off location since it opened less than two months ago. The total includes 7,600 pounds of metal and 42,500 pounds of glass.

MARKED BINS are provided at both locations, which are open 24 hours a day. Residents may deposit bottles and cans in the bins, separating them into receptacles for white, brown, green and other colored glass. Bins are also provided for metal cans, either tin or aluminum. No receptacles are provided for newspapers and other paper because these items are not part of the recycling project.

All caps and rings should be removed from the bottles before they are deposited in the bins. Metal cans should be smashed flat after cutting off the top and the bottom.

Previously, residents were not required to smash the cans but officials say the volume taken up by unsmashed cans has become a problem because the bins fill up too quickly and must be emptied more often.

Village public works' department employees empty the bins periodically and take the cans and glass to recycling plants. Funds received from the plants will be set aside in a special fund for ecology projects.

Later, both drop-off locations and residents' participation will be evaluated to determine if a third location is needed, probably in the central part of the village.

A Long-Time Animal Lover

animal "You know, I'm also a regular patrolman in addition to being the village animal welfare officer," he said.

"I've been around animals all my life," said Korn, who was raised on a Wisconsin farm and came to Arlington Heights after being stationed at the U.S. Army Nike Missile Site.

"You can't fear an animal, or you've got trouble," he said, slowing down a little to check on his canine passenger.

"LOOK HERE," he said, spreading his hand widely. "No scars, I've only been bitten twice in 12 years and that was during my first two years here. But you learn fast," he added.

And Korn has learned fast, fast enough to have logged a record of chasing down everything from opossums and ground hogs to ducks and squirrels.

"Only last week he climbed a local rooftop to ferret out a nest of raccoons. People around here, most city people, don't know these animals so they usually fear them," he said, turning onto Rand Road and heading north.

For as many times as he has dealt with people bitten by any variety of animals, he has been assigned to just as many cases where "man bites dog, so to speak."

Around Christmas time you see it a lot," he said. "I call them Christmas dogs, the puppies who usually end up thrown out in the snow and left unclaimed because their owners had their fill of furniture being chewed and rugs messed up."

"Here we are," Korn said, pulling his squad into the animal hospital. Korn helped the limping dog out of the car and into the hospital, where veterinarians greeted him with the familiarity of an old and long-time customer.

"GIVE ME THE book," he said, taking a registration card in hand and writing down the dog's breed, day and location it was found wandering loose and other pertinent information.

"Too bad people don't realize that a dog in a large town shouldn't be kept unless it is chained up. I've picked enough up along roadsides and taken enough of the luckier ones to the pound to know the consequences," he said, leading the dog down a corridor lined with wire cages.

Above the deafening roar of dozens of dogs barking, a young veterinarian said, "Hey Korn, it sounds like they know you're here again."

Aid Senior Citizen Park Costs

The Arlington Heights Park Board decided Tuesday night to underwrite the cost of senior citizens participating in park programs held within the district's boundaries.

Although the board has previously approved a senior citizens' "golden key" pass, it had not specifically determined which programs the pass would cover. At first, board members thought the pass would apply to all programs.

However, members of the recreation staff pointed out this policy could become expensive for programs such as six trips to the Goodman Theater in Chicago. This, and certain other programs, require out-of-pocket expenses for the park district for the cost of admission.

After discussion, the board decided the Golden Key pass for park district residents, 65 years old and up, would be valid for all programs within the park district, and those programs outside of the park district boundaries which cost the district no out-of-pocket expenses.

PROGRAMS SUCH as the Goodman Theater trip will be offered at reduced rates to Golden Key holders. The normal price is $25, including bus transportation to the matinee performances. The rate for senior citizens will be $18, just enough to cover the cost of tickets.

Programs such as holiday crafts, oil painting and others which are offered in facilities within the park district's boundaries will be free to senior citizens, with the park district absorbing all costs.

Although board member Robert Stenzel was concerned this policy might become expensive, parks director Thomas Thornton said he would like to "take a chance on it." If the district finds the classes become overloaded, the policy can be reconsidered.

Board member William Meister said many Arlington Heights senior citizens do not participate in park programs. "It may cost us some money, but they deserve it," he said.

The main concern was how many senior citizens might register for classes, thus costing the park district money and preventing fee-paying residents from taking certain classes. U.S. Census figures from 1970 show Arlington Heights population include 1,850 people who are 65 to 74 years old.

ROY BRESSLER, park board vice president, said the original purpose of the senior citizens pass was to include "these people in all our programs."

The park board will review the policy after a year to see if any changes should be made.

Later in the meeting, Thornton reported he and officials from Elk Grove and Mount Prospect park districts had been meeting with officials of School Dist. 59 to discuss ways of sharing the use of facilities. Dist. 59 has one school in Arlington Heights, Juliette Low, 1530 S. Highland.

Thornton said the school and park officials have worked out the joint use of facilities for this year and Dist. 59 is hoping to eventually turn all schools over to the respective park districts at the end of the school year.

This arrangement means park districts would have complete charge of maintenance and scheduling of events after school was dismissed. Thornton said, "That's what most of the progressive communities in the country have done."

The park director said Dist. 59 was working towards the concept which would hopefully be in operation for the fall of 1972, pending approval by the school and park boards involved.

THORNTON SAID the proposal is feasible because Dist. 59 has only one school within the Arlington Heights Park District boundaries. The school is adjacent to Heritage Park, a swimming-pool complex which does not include a fieldhouse for year-round park activities and programs.

Arlington Heights Park District uses the multipurpose room at Low School for programs because it has a six-year contract with Dist. 59. When Low was built, the park district and school district entered into an agreement which cost the local park district $13,000.

According to the agreement, the multipurpose room at the school was designed so it could accommodate the park district's needs. The district was also promised free use of the room for the length of the contract.

Thornton said the additional cost of the park district taking over the school at the end of the year "wouldn't be exorbitant. Eventually, we'd hope to do this with all the school districts within our boundaries."

The park board authorized Thornton to continue discussion of the matter with Dist. 59 officials. Before any formal agreement is signed, it will have to be approved by the park board.

PONY RIDES WERE a feature of the last week of summer school at Dist. 59's Juliette Low School and Lisa Bednerz took part. A carnival was presented by students during the last week of school.

Park District's Survey Progressing

The Arlington Heights Park District's survey is progressing "steadily," according to Ronald Dodd, superintendent of recreation.

The district is aiming for personal interviews with 400 residents on their ideas and attitudes towards the facilities and programs of the park district.

About 25 volunteer interviewers are conducting the surveys of a random sampling of taxpayers. Dodd told the Park Board Tuesday night that almost 200 of the survey forms had been distributed to interviewers.

Originally, park officials estimated they would need about 40 to 50 volunteer interviewers. "We're getting there, but we could use more help," said Roy Bressler, a member of the Park Board.

Officials: Sons Not Told To List Family Incomes

by LEON SHURE

Des Plaines Ald Robert Hinde (4th) and Public Works Commissioner Joseph Schwab yesterday said their sons were told by the Illinois State Employment Service (IES) only to obtain signatures of their parents on poverty job applications and not to answer questions about family income levels.

Both officials, whose sons and three other youths were dropped last week from the federal anti-poverty Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) program that provided partial salaries for their summer jobs with the city, said they were never told that the program is limited to low-income families.

E F Callaway, manager of the local IES office at 601 Lee St., Des Plaines, yesterday refused to confirm or deny that someone in his office inserted incorrect income figures on the poverty job applications of the officials' sons.

Callaway also refused to comment on declarations by the two city officials that an IES interviewer told their sons they did not have to fill out the sections of the applications pertaining to income.

Callaway's refusal to confirm or deny that the incorrect income figures came from his office, followed a statement Tuesday by an IES official in Chicago that the income figures were not inserted by anyone in the IES.

The question of who inserted those figures on the NYC job applications has not been answered since the Herald first disclosed last week that the five Des Plaines youths each were receiving weekly checks of $37 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity (CCOEO) as part of their pay for jobs with the city.

THE YOUTHS were Hinde's son,

Thomas; Schwab's son, Steven; John Thomas, son of Ald. Howard Thomas (6th); John Leer III, son of former alderman John Leer; and Stephen Holmbeck, another youth whose father is not connected with the city.

In each case, parents of the youths have said they were not told the NYC is for poverty-stricken families or have not been available for contact. The parents deny inserting the incorrect income figures on the NYC applications.

The CCOEO first suspended payments, began an investigation, then demanded repayment of the funds after it determined that all the families involved have incomes above the federal poverty level — $4,400 for a family of four, $5,000 for a family of five, $5,600 for a family of six.

The CCOEO determined that the youths had become eligible — not through intent to defraud — but through error, lack of communications, ignorance and misunderstanding, CCOEO spokesmen said Tuesday.

Clyde Brooks, CCOEO head of the NYC program, said his responsibility in the investigation only extended to determining if the families earned more than the federal poverty level, and he would not comment about possible mistakes at the IES.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel said the city should pay the $1,200 back to the CCOEO, because he thinks the youths would not have gotten involved "in the comedy of errors" if the city had not asked them to apply to the NYC program, Behrel said.

Summer Ends Aug. 31 For Students

The 1971-72 school year for Des Plaines School Dist. 62 children will begin Aug 31, according to Leon Smaage, school superintendent.

Daily class sessions will begin on that date for all children except kindergartners.

Most students in grades one through eight have already been registered by mail, a system used by the district for six years, school officials said. Registration materials were mailed early this month for all students who were enrolled in Dist. 62 schools last spring. Parents were asked to complete the registration procedure by mail.

Registration materials for new students and those who did not receive the forms by mail may be obtained in the offices of the individual schools.

OFFICIALS SAID all students entering Des Plaines elementary schools for the first time must present physical examination reports. Forms may be obtained at each school office.

Kindergarten fees must be paid by mail, with enrollment completed by appointment with the kindergarten teacher. Officials said most parents have already been notified of their appointments by mail. Parents of kindergarten children who do not have an appointment are asked to call the school principals and arrange one.

According to Dist. 62 policy, a child may enter kindergarten if his fifth birthday occurs on or before Dec 1. A birth certificate and a completed physical examination report must be presented before a child will be enrolled in kindergarten.

The daily schedule for Dist. 62 classes will be: Morning kindergarten, 9 to 11:30 a.m.; afternoon kindergarten, 1 to 3:30 p.m.; grades one through three, 9 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; grades four through six, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; grades seven and eight, 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with staggered lunch periods.

The starting hours of 8:45 a.m., 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. indicate the tardy bell or starting of class sessions. A call bell will be rung 10 minutes before the start of class sessions, followed by an entrance bell five minutes later.

All classes will be dismissed at 3:15 p.m. Mondays to permit teachers to attend faculty, committee and professional meetings and to participate in in-service activities.

Schools included in Dist. 62 are Algonquin Junior High, Central, Chippewa Junior High, Forest, Iroquois Junior High, Maple, North, Orchard Place, Plainfield, South, Terrace and West.

Investigate Drowning

An investigation into the drowning of a youth Monday at Kopp Pool in Mount Prospect is being conducted by Mount Prospect Park District officials.

A report on the incident will be made to park district commissioners Monday at a special meeting scheduled for 6:30 at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. The monthly meeting of the park board will follow at 8 p.m.

Kevin Kalita, 9, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead about 3:30 p.m. Monday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. He had been found unconscious with a cut on his head in about three feet of water about 30 minutes earlier by other swimmers.

Paul Caldwell, a park director, said the investigation began at the scene of the accident with the questioning of lifeguards on duty. An account of the incident given to park district officials and police by a woman witness will also be included in the report.

The woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, told police she saw the victim, who was running, slip at the east edge of the outdoor pool, hit his head and fall into the water. She said lifeguards were at his side "within a second or two."

According to police, the witness said she had warned the boy not to run in the pool area just before the incident occurred. She indicated he continued running, however.

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held in the matter, but no date has yet been set.

The pool where the drowning occurred is adjacent to Dempster Junior High School at 420 W. Dempster St. The drowning was the first to ever occur in a swimming pool operated by the Mount Prospect Park District.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

John V. Lindsay, mayor of New York City, has formally quit the Republican Party in favor of the Democrats, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced he will seek a second term.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he will introduce legislation prohibiting the sale of small-caliber handguns. Bayh said these guns, known as "Saturday night specials," account for about one-third of the nation's gun murders.

The World

British troops stormed barricades and attacked buildings sheltering snipers in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in a fourth successive day of street fighting that claimed more lives and threatened the capital with economic strangulation. Britain brought in 600 more reinforcements. Four civilians were killed in the latest fighting in the Roman Catholic districts, raising the four-day toll to at least 22 dead. Hundreds have been injured.

A Soviet airliner crashed on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, in the worst-known Soviet commercial airliner disaster, travel officials announced.

The State

David R. Bradley, 30, Sterling, son of Sterling Police Chief Delbert Bradley, has been sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted murder. A Sterling fireman, he was arrested July 15 by state police in connection with an attack on a 17-year-old Sterling girl who was hospitalized for stab wounds.

Chicago's Mayor Daley says he is happy that New York Mayor John V. Lindsay has "finally seen the light" and become a Democrat. He refused to comment, however, if there was a place for Lindsay on the national Democratic ticket.

President Nixon will visit Springfield Wednesday to sign a bill establishing Abraham Lincoln's home as a national historic site. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the President also plans to visit the Illinois State Fair. He will be at the fairgrounds on "Governor's Day" with Gov. Ogilvie and other state dignitaries.

The War

Screaming Communist troops assaulted a South Vietnamese Ranger camp in the Mekong Delta, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding 13 before they were driven off by artillery and helicopter gunships, a military command spokesman said. The spokesman said the Communists were unable to penetrate the circle of Claymore mines ringing the position 45 miles southwest of Saigon. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command said four hours of allied air strikes killed 50 Communists and destroyed ammunition dumps 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Market

The stock market has scored its first advance of the week in what was termed "a technical recovery from an oversold condition." The Dow Jones Average had a gain of 6.79 at 846.38. Advances led declines, 935 to 388 on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover expanded to 11,370,000 shares from 9,460,000 the previous day.

Resurfacing Of O'Harc Interchange May Be Done Early

Temperatures may take a nosedive this weekend if the hopes of the state highway department come true.

Officials: Sons Not Told To List Incomes

wife and by Schwab, indicate that both officials make about $4,000 a week — a figure which they say is absurd and obviously not inserted by them or members of their families.
Brooks had told the Herald that the figures of $4,000 shown on each of the five applications were yearly, not weekly incomes — which would have indicated that the families were below the federal poverty level.

Brooks said yesterday that this does not matter, because in his investigation, he had verified the parental signatures on the application for the federal anti-poverty funds.

"It's like a blank signed check. Everything that is written on the application, even if it wasn't written by the parent himself, is that parent's responsibility," Brooks said.

In a statement to the Herald, Hinde noted that he received a letter from Schwab stating that all applicants for city summer jobs had to make an appointment with James Ballew of the local IES to apply for a job subsidy program.

Schwab and City Comptroller Duane Blietz have told the Herald that the IES never mentioned that the program was only for poverty-stricken students.

The IES spokesman in Chicago said Tuesday the program was completely explained to the Des Plaines officials and it was specified that only poverty-stricken youth could apply.

ACCORDING TO THE Hinde statement, his son made an appointment with Mr. Ballew and went to see him on May 21, 1971. Tom came home with this blank form from Mr. Ballew and said his mother or dad had to sign it but did not need to fill it out.

"Lorraine (Mrs. Hinde) asked me and I said Duane (Blietz), mentioned something about student summer help program with Cook County and that's probably it, so sign it. She did, and Tom took it back to Mr. Ballew's office. That was that."

In his statement Schwab said, "My son, Steven, brought home a form, Summer Neighborhood Youth Corps Parent Permission form, which I signed after he had typed in his name, birth date, and number of family. The weekly salary line was left blank because when my son said that he did not know any exact weekly salary, someone at the Illinois State Employment Office said it was not important and that he need not fill the blank indicating family weekly income."

Mrs. Wayne Holmbeck, mother of Stephen Holmbeck, said Tuesday that her husband had not filled out the application section on income because he had felt it was "nobody's business."

Leer and Thomas could not be reached for comment.

CCOEO director, Charles Hughes, said the local IES office completes the forms and then tells the CCOEO who is eligible. Later, the application forms are sent to the downtown CCOEO office, and they are checked. The CCOEO and IESS accept signed statements of family income on "trust" and are not required to check these, CCOEO officials said.

Hughes said the applications are checked to see if a statement of family income on one application signed by the youth is in agreement with the statement signed by the parent.

He said he does not know how a statement of weekly earnings at approximately $4,000 on the five applications could escape CCOEO detection.

He said the IES interviewer may have explained to the applying youths that he wanted the yearly income, despite the printed section of the application that asked for "weekly" income.

Ballew, the apparent interviewer of the students in the program, has been on vacation and the Herald has been unable to reach him for comment.

The heat plunge — in both drivers' minds and automobile radiators' temperatures — may come about if a two-mile spur from the Kennedy Expressway in and out of O'Hare Field is opened ahead of schedule this weekend.

Charles McClean, regional operations engineer for the state highway department, said yesterday resurfacing of the spur may be completed as early as tomorrow afternoon.

The resurfacing, only part of the massive project to improve the Kennedy and Day Ryan expressways this summer, has caused monumental traffic jams near the airport and along the intersecting Tri-State Tollway.

Although McClean said, "We're aiming for a weekend completion," he explained he couldn't pinpoint exactly when the road could be fully reopened. "They told us this weekend," McClean said, "And we're hoping that means before Friday afternoon."

The engineer also said his department hoped to open a portion of the westbound Kennedy from the Tri-State toll plaza to O'Hare late yesterday.

THE BOTTLENECK around O'Hare has been compounded by resurfacing work being done on the exit ramps from the Tri-State onto the Kennedy.

Wally Schulz, an engineer with the tollway authority said the northbound exit ramp has been narrowed from three lanes to one since the resurfacing project started, with the southbound ramp squeezing from four lanes eventually into one lane into O'Hare. "There's nowhere to go," Schulz said.

Despite the snarl, airline spokesmen at O'Hare said they have not noticed any significant number of problems with passengers missing their flights.

He explained that flight crews have enough "cushion" built into their reporting times that the congestion has "not jeopardized flight departure."

The expected relief to motorists may be short-lived, however.

Schulz explained the tollway authority has contracts out for various tollway repairs. He said the work has been delayed because of the surrounding jam-ups. Schulz said the work is planned along the Tri-State roughly from the East-West Expressway to the Northwest Tollway.

"As soon as the state finishes its work around O'Hare and on the Kennedy, we will start our work," Schulz said.

Fulle Opposed To New County Proposal

County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines yesterday labeled as "ill advised" a proposal to deannex six townships in the Northwest Suburbs into a new county.

"I'm opposed to it," Fulle said, when asked if he would endorse the idea. He added, however, that he would not object to outright consideration of deannexing all of the suburban townships in Cook County into a separate county.

On Monday, the Herald reported that two Palatine village trustees are organizing a committee to study the feasibility of forming a new county composed of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hanover and Barrington townships. The study committee will include representatives of all townships involved, the two men reported.

ACCORDING TO AN eight-page report issued by Wendell Jones and Merwyn T. Soper, the proposed county (tentatively named Lincoln County) would contain 350,000 residents and would rank as one of the five largest counties in the state.

Fulle said he thought the proposal came as "the aftermath of an interparty scrap," mainly a bitter village election in April. "Those sores have not healed yet," he said.

He said basic services are indeed provided now by Cook County government, and he singled out "millions and millions of dollars worth of highway construction" and the thousands of acres of forest preserve land in the suburbs — used mainly by suburbanites he reported.

Formation of a new county would require a long complex process, he explained. For example, county-owned property would have to be divided on some sort of proportional basis if the deannexation did occur.

The new county would also have to provide such basic services as formation of health and highway departments. "The investment can be tremendous," Fulle said.

He added that the procedures to follow during the deannexation would be difficult to determine under the new state constitution. However, he said he "had a hunch" that all Cook County residents would have to vote to determine whether to permit deannexation.

IT WOULD TAKE from five to seven years to form a county if all of the suburbs broke away from Chicago, he said, and he said he couldn't tell how much longer than that the six-township plan might take.

Another suburban commissioner Joseph Woods, said he would study the proposal before commenting on it.

Jones told the Herald that, among other features in the proposal for a new county, the six township clerks would become county clerks, to keep administration de-

Carnival Slated

A group of children on the 1000 block of Irwin Avenue in Des Plaines will hold a back yard Carnival Against Dystrophy this Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The carnival, which will take place at 1065 Irwin, will feature games, prizes, popcorn and cookies, with all money raised going to muscular dystrophy charities, according to Gloria Kauke, 1072 Irwin.

The eight-page report issued by the two village trustees reported that attempts to dissolve present township government represent a step toward metropolitan government. Deannexation "seems to be the best possible solution to the problem," they reported.

Student Workshops Slated

Student workshops consisting of speeches, "rap" sessions, and a preview of student activities will be offered to new and returning Oakton Community College students Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

The schedule for each of the three days will be the same, and students will be invited to attend on one of the days, depending on which junior college "cluster" or "group" they belong to.

According to a report entitled "The College Group Concept at Oakton Community College: Ends and Means" issued to the college's board of trustees by Richard Jordan, dean of faculties, students are assigned to groups based on their high school rank and grade point average, A.C.T. scores, curriculum choice, age, sex and whether they are a returning or new student.

The workshops will be held in Building Four of Oakton's interim campus at 7900 Nagle Ave., Morton Grove and will begin each day at 10:30 a.m. with an opening address by a student coordinator, who is yet to be selected.

THE STUDENT speaker will be followed by a speaker chosen from the board of trustees, William Koehnline, college president, will talk, in addition to Jordan, John Donohue, dean of student personnel, two members of the student development faculty, and a faculty member representing each of the three college "groups."

After a lunch break the workshops will move into hour and a half long "rap" sessions between students, faculty members and administrators.

According to Jordan, the sessions will give the students the opportunity to meet the faculty members associated with their "group" and they will give the faculty members a chance to find out what the students might want out of the "group."

Leading the "rap" sessions Aug. 25 will be Len Holstad, assistant professor of business and speaker for the first day "group." The leader Aug. 26 will be John Tosto, assistant professor of student development. Harvey Irlen, assistant professor of communications, is the college "group" chairman for Aug. 27.

Following the "rap" sessions students will be able to obtain information about different student activities by walking in and out of activity booths which will be set up throughout the student lounge.

ACTIVITIES REPRESENTED will include the bridge club, cheerleaders, intramurals, ecology club, ski club, karate club, chess club, drama club, student newspaper and student government. Space will be available for students wanting to organize a new activity or club.

According to Adam Lewkowicz, Oakton student and spokesman for student government, representatives of a student committee which is currently writing a new constitution for student government will be on hand in one of the booths to explain the goals and projects of the organization.

Kingman Makes Climb — Bat Makes Noise

by PAUL LOGAN

When Willie Mays was playing for the first time with the New York Giants back in 1951, Dave Kingman was just a toddler playing in his Pendleton, Ore. backyard.

Since then the Giants and Mays have moved to San Francisco and the Kingman family also made several moves before settling in Mount Prospect.

Dave finally bridged the seemingly impossible gap that had been between these two men for two decades last month when he was called up to the Giants' parent club. And, after nearly two weeks in baseball's major leagues, it's still hard for Dave to believe he's playing among the super stars.

"All the way through little league you have your big league idols, you know," said Kingman in the Giant dressing room before Sunday's doubleheader against the Cubs in Wrigley Field. "Willie Mays has been one of mine and Willie McCovey has also been an idol. All of a sudden you're playing on the same team and it's got to have some effect on you. It's a great thrill just to be on the same team with them, much less playing with them."

Dave starred as a pitcher for the University of Southern California as a sophomore (11-4, 1.38 ERA). He was moved to the outfield his junior year and this proved to be the biggest break of his career.

"I always enjoyed hitting and I enjoyed pitching in the same breath," said the 6-6, 215 pound giant of a Giant. "At first I had trouble making myself switch from thinking pitching to thinking hitting, but I'm pretty grateful for that now. I think I better stick with my hitting and forget about my pitching."

As a senior he helped lead his team to the national championship with a .355 batting average and slugged nine homers despite being sidelined part of the season with a broken wrist. His effort helped him earn a berth on the Sporting News

All-America team in 1970.

He was the Giants' first pick in the 1970 free agent draft. Dave hit .285 and clubbed 15 homers in just 60 games with Amarillo in the Class AA, his first professional season.

Dave continued his hot pace this year with Phoenix. Nicknamed "The Hammer" by his teammates, big No. 45 smashed 21 homers, 24 doubles and five triples while knocking in 84 runs in his first 93 games in Class AAA ball.

"He turns that wind around," said Phoenix General Manager Rosy Ryan of Dave's power even against the wind which usually blows against righthanded hitters in Phoenix. "He's one of the strongest men I've ever seen. He has the chance of becoming one of the game's great sluggers."

This is quite an endorsement coming from Ryan, a former star with the New York Giants and an ex-roommate of Babe Ruth.

The Giants decided they needed "The Hammer's" power in the lineup late in July and he joined the club on July 30, the same date that another big guy — McCovey — came up back in 1950.

Kingman arrived just in time to play one of the most crucial series of the summer, a four-game set with the red-hot Pittsburgh Pirates. His first at bat wasn't very auspicious.

"I pinch hit and popped up to the second baseman," recalled Dave. However, the three games that followed were a complete reversal. "The next day I lined for McCovey in about the fourth inning and I got two hits, a double and a grand slam."

This big blast helped beat the Pirates and was a thrill of a lifetime for this youngster. "I was riding on 'Cloud Nine' all the way around," said Dave of his home run trot. Then next day he was almost doubly elated as he belted a pair of two-run homers as the Giants swept the doubleheader and the series.

Since then he has recorded several more extra base hits and it wasn't until the 11th inning of Sunday's first game that he recorded still another first in his career — a single. He led off the 11th with a line drive which helped the Giants rally for two runs and a 4-2 win.

When Dave was called up, he was playing both first base and the outfield. "I'm more than happy to help out wherever I can," he says. "I think they were mainly looking for me to fill in for Willie Mac when he wants to rest."

"Willie McCovey and Willie Mays are more than happy to answer any questions that I might have pertaining to playing the outfield or first base, and they've really been helpful even in my hitting. They had quite a few suggestions for me."

Manager Charlie Fox is always happy to have another potential super slugger on his side of the diamond.

"There's no question in my mind that he's going to be a big league ball player," says Fox. "We're asking an awful lot of Dave to come on in a pennant race and help us, but he's already done that."

"I think he has the capabilities of being one of the real bright stars of the game. Of course, the lack of experience in little things is going to hurt him at different times, but there might never come an occasion where he could be hurt by a lack of experience."

"I will say this, he does all the basics — he runs well, he has good footwork, good hands, good fielder, he throws well, he's got power and he can hit. And playing with the raw material that he has, which is great, he just might carry us."

The word "King" is printed on Dave's big first basemen's mit. It might have some significance in the future. Maybe a couple of years from now the predictions of a Charlie Fox and a Rosy Ryan will come to pass.

Maybe after the two Willies have retired, the kids at Wrigley Field and the other parks in the league will be screaming for Dave's autograph, the name of the Giants' leading power hitter.

Then the comment won't be heard coming from the front row boxes, as it was last Sunday, "What's his name?"

Meyer Material Wins Title

The 4A Boys Baseball City Playoff between South and West Parks turned out to be a rematch of the South Park Championship game between Meyer Material and Rich Port Realtor. Only this time the outcome was different as Meyer Material edged Rich Port in a come from behind victory 6-5 to win the City 4A Championship.

Rich Port had previously defeated Meyer in the South League Championship to take first place and Meyer finished second.

To reach the city finals Meyer Material from South defeated the West Park Champions Johnson's Sporting Goods 4-2 and Rich Port also of South beat West Parks second place team Jaycees 6-3.

South 4A made a clean sweep of the playoffs by also beating West two straight games in the Annual 14 year old All-Star games best two out of three. Friday's game ended in darkness after seven innings tied 3-3, but in the continuation of the game on Sunday South All-Stars won 4-3. South All-Stars also won the Saturday game 6-1 to sweep the series.

Determination — Determination To Help The Giants In Crucial, Closing Weeks Of Pennant Drive, And In Future.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THERE WAS A LOT of pressure from both "sides," but the Illinois Department of Conservation decided, nevertheless, to go ahead with the annual Special Teal Season again this year.

Actually, there are really three points of view involved, making the controversy a triangular one, rather than a simple standoff.

The prevailing point of view, and the one the Department elected to follow, is based on the fact that teal migrate earlier than most other duck species. They move from their northern nesting grounds ahead of the big fall waterfowl movement and as a result, the teal are well south and out of shotgun range by the time the regular waterfowl season opens. If duck hunters are to have a legal shot at teal, they must have a season in mid-September.

So the Federal authorities, who have the final "say" on migratory waterfowl, came up with the "early season" concept, some five years ago. They approved additional hunting days for states who were interested in "testing" a special teal season.

States in the midwest offered the opportunity were Iowa and Illinois. And duck hunters in both states botched it up something fierce. In Illinois, the hunters were either unable to distinguish between a teal and an illegal mallard or woodcock, or they didn't think the distinction was important. Some conservationists and others who thought it was important did do some checking, however, and found hundreds and hundreds of shotgun killed woodies and mallards left decaying near blindsites, left there by the hunters who had "mistaken" them for teal, then having discovered the error were afraid to take them home.

After two such years, the Special Teal Season was abandoned by the state. But pressure mounted and so after the one year hiatus, hunters were again given a chance at the teal. Fortunately, they appear to have learned a lesson and we hear fewer and fewer reports each year of negligent shooting.

But while hunters who liked the idea worked to have it reestablished, there was an almost equal number of other hunters who did not want the teal season. Among their numbers were those of us who had toured some of the lakes and potholes in northern Illinois, finding the woodies and mallards that had been shot during the teal season.

The concern, which this typist voiced only when asked a direct question, is that far too many gun owners who hunt ducks (which is to distinguish them from a special duck hunter) cannot identify the species of a duck in flight under the best conditions. To expect him, then, to be able to tell the difference between, for example, a green-winged teal and a woodcock in the brief three or four seconds available for the decision, is asking too much.

On the other hand, I also happen to believe that it is grossly unfair to deprive the experienced duck hunter, one who can tell the difference, on the basis that there are too many incompetents in duck blinds everywhere. In short, I am glad it was the Department of Conservation and not I, who had to make the final decision.

I said that this was in reality a three-sided argument. And the third side is presented regularly to game departments and to outdoor writers everywhere. That is the point of view that no man has the right to kill anything, anytime, anywhere, for any reason.

It is fortunate for the mythological Rhadamanthus that he was never appointed a director of the ancient Greek's Department of Conservation by his father Zeus. Because he surely would have blown the image, faced with decisions like the above.

Oh, yes, the facts: Special Teal Season: Begins September 18 and runs through September 26 with shooting hours from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Limit, four teal per day. Hunters need a valid Illinois hunting license, and if 16 years or older, a 1971 Federal Migratory Waterfowl hunting stamp.

IN OTHER HUNTING NEWS, the Department has also set dates for quail, cock pheasants, Hungarian partridge, mourning doves, woodcock, snipe and rabbits for Illinois.

The dove season opens September 1 and ends November 9, with shooting permissible from 1 p.m. to sunset each day. Daily limit is 12 per day.

The woodcock season and the snipe season both open October 15 and continue through December 15. Sunrise to sunset. Five woodcocks per day limit; eight snipe per day limit.

Quail, pheasant and partridge shooting opens November 13 and runs through December 31. All three of these seasons open at noon the first day and are from sunrise to sunset the rest of the season. Pheasants are limited to two per day; partridges, two per day; quail, eight per day.

The Illinois rabbit hunting season opens this year at noon on November 13 and continues through January 31, 1972. Shooting hours after the first day will be from sunrise to sunset. The daily bag limit for rabbits is five.

As far as prospects are concerned, according to the Conservation Department's supervisor of Wildlife Resources Jim Lockart:

"The breeding population for mourning dove shows an increase of 15 per cent over last year's figures, or about the same as it was in 1969" (a pretty good year). The quail population, according to Lockart, is lower on a statewide basis than last year with the major quail range in the south and southwest portions of the state.

While it is still a little early to speculate on the pheasant breeding population, early indications are that we are within about 10 per cent of a year ago. The major Illinois pheasant population is in the central and east central portions of the state.

In north central Illinois, the rabbit population is up slightly, but it is down in the north and northwest counties and in some southern counties.

Des Plaines Bows Out Of World Series Play

Des Plaines' last hope in the Little League World Series Tournament was eliminated in Crystal Lake.

Freeport scored five times in the first inning on one hit one walk and four errors. After the first inning was over Freeport couldn't get on the board again, but the damage was done.

Des Plaines, after two quiet innings, started the third with a single by pitcher Frosty Wantroba. He was forced at second as Bill Garesche hit one to the pitcher. Tim Platek walked, Steve VanVleck beat out a bunt and Bob Zuccarini hit a line drive toward right that looked like two bases, but the first baseman made a leaping catch and turned it into a double play to end the inning.

In the fourth, Kevin Miller bounced to the pitcher, Tim Adams singled, Terry Willett forced Adams, but Wayne Wishnew and Bob Bahr hit back to back doubles to score two runs. Rick Sandri then bounced to second to end the inning. After that the Freeport pitcher held Des Plaines in check allowing only one more harmless single in the sixth inning.

Set For League Playoffs

In the College 16-inch Softball League Red League teams, Nick's LaCantina and Mike Kraft, assured themselves last Wednesday of seedings in the playoffs to be held August 18. Nick's downed the Cosmos 13-3 while the Mike Kraft team was awarded a game under protest against the Troubadours for fielding players residing outside the Park District. The Seeds of Onan squeezed by the Bob Mack team on Friday 15-14.

Blue League leaders, the Curtins, defeated Rick Skala in a late-inning rally 12-7. Markworth and O'Neill, tied for 2nd place, won their games over the Rosebuds and the Deviates 18-15, and 15-8 respectively.

Full Schedule In Softball

A full schedule of six games was played over the past weekend in the 16 inch league.

West Side Inn defeated Villas Lounge by a score of 9-0. In the first of two confrontations against one another, E. J. Doyle Pro Shop edged Nick's LaCantina in an 8 inning thriller 6-5. Lenny Toll of E. J. Doyle drove in the lead run in the top of the 8th and then himself scored the winning run on a single by Mark Bonnier. Ron Ziemann drove in two runs for Nick's.

The two teams met again on Saturday and provided another thriller as E. J. Doyle Pro Shop again edged Nick's LaCantina, this time by a 4-3 count. Doyle's first inning lead with two runs in the top of the 1st, Nick's went ahead with a three run burst in the bottom of the third. Doyle's took the lead to stay in front in the top of the sixth when Mike

LEARNING TO REACH OUT and touch other people is part of the social therapist's training. He undergoes intensive group therapy to insure he is in good mental health before he deals with others.

The Social Therapist

Para-professional Career Vital To Mental Health

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Professionals with advanced degrees of training are in short supply in the United States. New vocations, that of para-professionals, are cropping up to meet the needs of an increasing population.

Both medicine and law are now training and using para-professionals. Skilled in a specialty, they work alongside the professional and ease his work load.

In Des Plaines, Forest Hospital, a private mental health facility near River and Rand roads, is training social therapists, a para-professional in the psychiatric field, at its post-graduate center.

To date, more than 90 social therapists have received training at Forest and another group is scheduled to begin their 20-week course in September. Training is supervised by Dr. Robert Willford, executive director of the center, and is conducted at the hospital.

"THE PSYCHIATRIC community can't possibly produce enough standard professionals to meet the needs of the country," Willford said, adding that what Forest is doing is a new and exciting thing.

The role of the social therapist (ST) is to react between and with people in a therapeutic way. Therapists trained at Forest have gone on to work in community health centers, in schools as counselors and special education teachers, and some have remained at the hospital assisting in the training of other STs.

The program, which to this point has only been open to those with bachelor degrees, costs $823 and gives the student nine hours of credit toward a master's degree at Northeastern Illinois College, Chicago.

Four areas are taught during the first 10 weeks: psychopathology, group systems, leadership and personal growth. Psychopathology is the study of the causes and symptoms of mental disorders and is taught by the psychiatric staff of the hospital. Eight major group systems are taught, including psychodrama, encounter, sensitivity training, family therapy, marital therapy, crisis intervention, Gestalt and psychomotor therapy.

DURING LEADERSHIP training students practice their abilities as group leaders with the aid of video-taped sessions and personal training by hospital staff. They conduct group sessions with other STs and assist with groups that come to the hospital.

The area of personal growth training is what makes this program unique. "We believe an ST is more than a technician who understands group dynamics," said Willford. "He must be a representative of good mental health. His own personality and the way he conducts his own life are as important as his knowledge of other people. We expect a commitment from each person to pay attention to his own problems and hang-ups."

Intensive group therapy is conducted with the STs to insure that they are in good mental health before they attempt to deal with the mental health of others.

SPECIALIZED TRAINING is given during the next two weeks. The ST can choose the specific area he wants to work in such as with families, adolescents, the elderly, etc. This curriculum will contain the uniqueness of each choice.

The remaining eight weeks are spent in the community as an intern with STs being placed in locations consistent with their areas of specialization. STs from the post-graduate center supervise the trainees during the internship.

Where does an ST go once he is trained? Forest is contacting agencies and institutions to help them see where STs can be put to work.

"Any place where people come together and have emotional involvements can benefit from having a trained social therapist," Willford explained. "Police departments, emergency rooms, nursing homes, nursery schools, drug and crisis centers, community mental health programs need people trained in mental health."

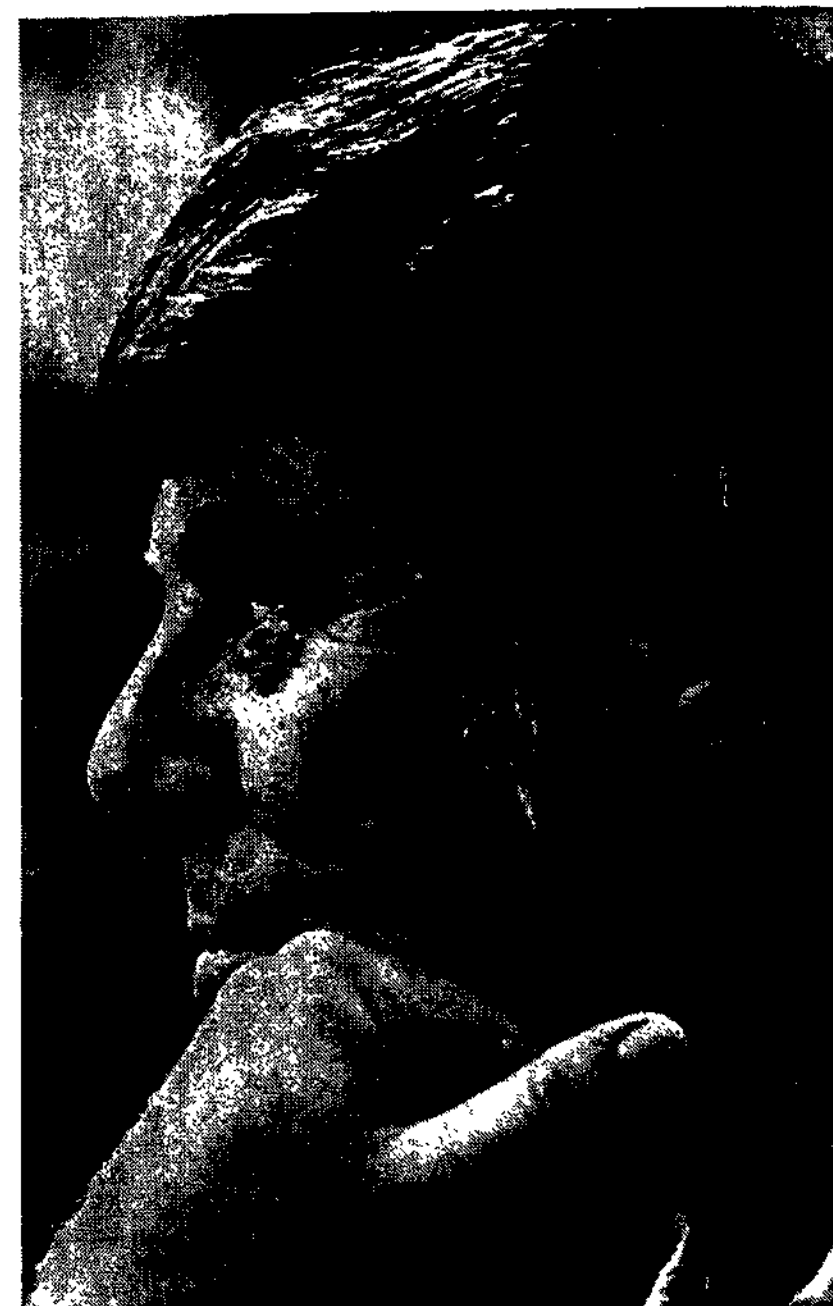

The post-graduate center is working on expanding its present program to include people without bachelor degrees. They are currently negotiating with Harper College in Palatine to include the ST training program as part of its associate degree curricula.

WOMEN OUTNUMBER men as applicants for the ST program. "Mental health is a profession wide open to women," said Willford. "Women are predisposed to this profession. Men seem to have a harder time getting out of their heads and into their feeling and being able to develop a rapport with other people."

There is a greater incidence of mental health disorders today than there has ever been, Willford said. The ST — para-professional — is a vital ingredient if the tide is ever to be turned, he emphasized.

"Utopia would be to have an ST in every neighborhood to jointly help another become mentally healthy. This type of person, with his specialized training, should ideally be in every school and hospital," he continued.

"We must take mental health to the community rather than waiting in an institution for it to come to us. There is a silent majority of people who need mental help. Much of the ST concept is to get out of the office and into the community to serve the needs of that silent majority."

DR. ROBERT WILLFORD, director of the Forest Hospital Post-graduate Center for Mental Health Education, oversees the training of the social therapist, a para-professional vocation in the psychiatric field.

Area B&PW President Attends Convention

Mrs. Marian W. Baker of Mount Prospect has just returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where she attended the national convention of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. (BPW).

Mrs. Baker, who is president of the Mount Prospect BPW Club, and Miss Marian Henken, president-elect, report that one of the highlights of the convention was an address by U.S. Rep. Martha W. Griffiths (D. Mich.) who discussed the proposed Equal Rights Amendment and other pending legislation affecting women.

One of approximately 2,000 delegates who attended the July 25-29 convention were representative of every state in the nation plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Mrs. Baker participated in business meetings, workshops, passage of the 1971-72 BPW Legislative Platform, and the election of new 1971-72 national officers.

She also attended a panel program, "The World Women Want," which was presented by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation. The discussion on how career women can work to solve problems in the western hemisphere was led by Margaret Hickey, public affairs editor of the Ladies Home Journal.

PANEL MEMBERS were Dr. Jennifer Macleod, executive director of the Center for the American Woman and Politics of the Eagleton Institute of Politics of Rutgers University; Monica Barnes, a government attorney in Trinidad and Tobago; Elena Mederos de Gonzalez, UNICEF liaison officer; and Katherine Peden, past national president of BPW and Kentucky's first woman nominee for the U.S. Senate. Other participants included International Young Career Women from Canada, Argentina and Panama, who were brought to the Convention on BPW Foundation educational grants.

Another convention highlight was an address by Mrs. Barbara Hackman Franklin, a special assistant to President Nixon. She discussed the President's increasing efforts to place women in top-level federal jobs and urged BPW members and their friends and associates who could qualify for such jobs to submit applications to the Talent Bank originated by BPW in 1970. Mrs. Franklin works closely with the National Federation in seeking potential female job candidates.

ALSO ADDRESSING the convention delegates was Patricia Reilly Hitt, Assistant Secretary for Community and Field Services, United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

More than 40 Young Career Women who were selected by state federations for their outstanding abilities were special guests at the convention. In addition to participating in the general convention sessions, they attended a seminar featuring author Caroline Bird.

National Federation 1970-71 President Mrs. Ruth Moss Easterling, Charlotte, N. C., presided at the convention.

Last year's convention was held in Honolulu, Hawaii, and next year's will be held in Atlantic City, N. J.

Ear Piercing Complications

Pierced ears may be part of today's "in" look, but if the simple procedure necessary to produce the effect is performed by untrained and unknowing amateurs, the price of fashion may prove expensive to your health.

This is the message of an article titled "Complications of Ear Piercing" authored by Drs. Thomas A. Cortese Jr. and Richard A. Dickey and carried in the August issue of American Family Physician magazine.

To study complications resulting from "the present indiscriminate practice of ear piercing by inexperienced or unknowledgeable persons," Drs. Cortese and Dickey conducted a survey of 100 female nursing students at the Indiana University Medical Center, Indianapolis. Of these hundred 73 girls had had their ears pierced, but the survey showed that "only one-third of the ear piercing procedures had been performed by physicians."

Complications incurred by the girls included inflammation of the skin due to metal allergies, bleeding, infection accompanied by purulent drainage, cyst formation and nonpurulent draining and crusting. IN ADDITION to these hazards, inexpensive earrings labeled "14-karat gold posts" pose a second threat. The doctors caution that "usually, the post holder and the backing of the earrings are not 14-karat gold-plated and many contain nickel or another skin-sensitizing metal."

According to the authors, ear piercing is a procedure which should be left to physicians. Many factors exist which would positively prevent the operation. The presence of these factors can be determined only by a doctor. They include a predisposition to hemorrhage or to form unusually hard, tumorous skin known as keloid tissue, anatomically deformed earlobes, the presence of earlobe cysts or metal sensitivity.

The doctors also caution that persons affected by diabetes mellitus, rheumatic fever, congenital heart disease or any acute or chronic skin disorder affecting the earlobe should seriously consider the possible consequences before allowing their ears to be pierced. In all cases, the advice of the family physician should be heeded.

Newlyweds Wend Way Across United States

An automobile trip through the United States was the honeymoon choice of a young couple who set aside the whole month of August to follow their travel whims after their July 31 wedding. September will find them at home in Bronxville, N.Y.

Theresa Mary Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Koch of Mount Vernon, N.Y., and John Charles Rosengren, son of Mrs. Warren J. Rosengren, 1335 Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, and the late Mr. Rosengren, were married in Mount Vernon at Sts. Peter and Paul Church. Officiating at the 12:30 Nuptial Mass was Rev. Clement J. Cahill, C.S.S.R., of Puerto Rico. Assisting were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles O'Connor Sloane, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Albert Polt, of Stamford, Conn.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length white satin organza gown with high collar, yoke, fitted waist and hem of Chantilly lace. The same lace outlined the self-train and fingertip mantilla. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses, daisies and cornflowers.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Carl Vincent D'Orazio of Mount Vernon, served as matron of honor. Her sleeveless, floor-length gown was of navy blue voile, its bodice appliqued in white Venise lace. A white bow adorned her head, and she carried yellow and white daisies and roses in a white straw basket.

Two sisters of the groom served as bridesmaids, Mary Ann and Susan Rosengren of Des Plaines, as did Linda Pappas of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., and Noel McNamara of Brighton, Mass. The bride attendants matched the maid of honor in attire and flowers, even to the little flower girl, Cathy Bruckmann of Fairfield, Conn., the bride's 5-year-old cousin.

PETER ROSENGREN of Des Plaines served his brother as best man. Other groomsmen were Philip J. C. Koch of Mount Vernon, the bride's brother; Edward Kaplan of Des Plaines; Robert Gradeville of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and Joseph Roy of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Following the ceremony, a buffet for 160 guests was served at the Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y.

The new Mrs. Koch, a graduate of Marymount Secondary School, has a bachelor's degree from Marymount College in Tarrytown, N.Y., and a master's in teaching from Boston College in Chestnut Hill, Mass. She is a mathematics teacher at Hackley School in Tarrytown.

Her husband was awarded his bachelor's degree at Loras College, Des Moines, Iowa, and is a graduate of Boston College Law School. He is employed by the law firm of Ide and Haigney in New York City.

Announce Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rainey of Des Plaines announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Robert A. Rechner, son of Marie C. Rechner of Springfield, Ill., and the late Albert C. Rechner.

Mary is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, attended Harper College two years and is employed in Des Plaines for Central Telephone Co. Her fiancé is a '68 graduate of Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. He taught at St. Viator and Forest View High Schools and is now with the American Dental Association in the Bureau of Dental Health Education.

Their wedding will take place in November.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy This country is known for its sudden fads — whether it be clothes or food. So I'm not a bit surprised at the sudden popularity of yogurt. Curious though, as to whether it has particular nutritive value? — Ann Scharf

You're right about fads in general, but yogurt is neither a fad, nor is its popularity sudden. It has a long history and many a venerable Balkan claiming to be 105 or 110 or 115 and a brand-new papa has attributed it all to yogurt. It's not my dish, but thousands go for it, including his nubs. Basically, it has the same nutritive and caloric values as the milk from which it is made. However, when made from partly skimmed milk, as is often the case, yogurt is lower in fat and in calories than when made from whole milk. It is still a good source of other milk nutrients, particularly calcium, riboflavin and protein. Oh, one other thing. Yogurt has a fine curd which permits it to be digested more quickly than plain milk. Watch out for those yogurt-spooning centenarians.

Tip to Brides: While butter or margarine can be used in place of a vegetable shortening without any change in amounts when used in cakes and cookies, it does not hold true for pastry. In these cases use vegetable shortening.

Dear Dorothy: Have you ever heard that putting naphtha soap in dogwood trees will keep borers away? If this does work, why? — Julia Y.

Lionel Hampton At Blue Max

Regency Hyatt House Worth Seeing

by PAT ADAM

If you're a jazz lover in search of night life, Lionel Hampton and his band are living things up at the Blue Max in the Regency Hyatt House through next Saturday.

Recently returned from a world tour that took him to Europe, the Near East and the Orient where he "jammed" with the king of Thailand himself, Hampton appeared to be glad he was back entertaining the home folk when he opened at the Blue Max last Friday night. And the audience gave him a rousing welcome home.

However, if it will be your first look-see at the new Regency Hyatt House, allow yourself time to wander around and enjoy the environs. They are impressive but not ostentatious, and a joy for anyone with an eye for color and a love of flowers and plants.

THOSE RESPONSIBLE for the decor included nature in their scheme. Pots of mums in abundance, real instead of fake plants and live trees enhance the huge open-to-the-roof lobby.

Teardrop-shaped elevators of a glass-like material glide up and down the outside of a central column, giving riders a panoramic view of the entire lobby. Bands of blinking lights on their exterior impart a fairyland look to the elevator cars as they travel smoothly between floors.

Paintings, prints, wall hangings, sculpture and a cylinder of colorful pennons that resemble butterfly wings must awe every first-time visitor to this newest of motels in the area of O'Hare Airport.

HALLWAYS TO THE motel rooms line each side of the 10-floor high square lobby. Open on the lobby side with plants set atop the waist-high wall-railing, they appear as balconies instead of halls. The otherwise stark concrete walls take on a pink tone as light reflects from wine-colored carpet.

You can dine moderately at the Garden Terrace Cafe in the scenic lobby or splurge in Hugo's. There only for a cocktail, you can sit in intimate cubicles around the fringe of the lobby and order your drink from the ding-a-ling, a mobile bar.

And for a view of Chicagoland by night, tie yourself in one of those teardrop elevators to the top of the Regency for a cocktail in its revolving Polaris Room. All that's missing is San Francisco Bay.

March Of Dimes Warns

Pre-natal Care Inadequate

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Across this land right now dozens of young women are announcing to parents and friends that they're "in the family way."

What's going on, in any case, at the prenatal level?

Not a sufficient amount of attention, often enough to prevent birth defects, stillbirths, and miscarriages, according to an "alert bulletin" issued by the National Foundation-March of Dimes to its chapter leaders nationwide.

The reason for the alert: Countless girls and women fail to get proper medical attention during pregnancy. Without prenatal care they are shortchanging their child's chances for normal birth or even survival.

MOST PRENATAL neglect occurs among pregnant women considered "high risk." Their health is poor because of undernourishment or untreated disease. During pregnancy these problems may jeopardize the mother's health and impair the baby's normal development.

"What often follows is an unusually high incidence of prematurity, low birth weight, infant mortality, and heavy dependence upon society for care of children damaged mentally and physically before they begin life," according to the bulletin.

To counteract this health issue, the National Foundation-March of Dimes is reinforcing its prenatal care (PNC) programs and coordinating them with local, state and federal health agencies, the medical profession and community service groups.

THE ULTIMATE AIM of the research and medical service programs of the March of Dimes is to secure for every baby the best chance for normal development from the moment of conception.

"Public health education and community action are urgently needed if we are to change the conditions known to contribute to faulty prenatal development," the foundation told its leaders in chapters across the country.

In discussing the need to establish maternity centers in deprived areas, Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier, president of the American Medical Association, has said:

"THESE CENTERS should be within walking distance for most people. The facility should be staffed with: Physicians, nurses to help with delivery of babies, outreach people to comb the neighborhood to contact the pregnant girls and women; and in some cases, personnel to bring at least some prenatal care to the mother who has no one to babysit with her family."

If the foundation can recruit enough volunteers for the people-to-people task, the hope is that things will improve at the prenatal level.

AOPI Alums Win Convention Honors

Not only Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter but several individual members of the area group won honors at the recent 49th international biennial convention of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. The meetings were held in Dallas, Texas, and attended by over 400 members — both collegiate and alumnae — from the United States and Canada.

The Northwest Suburban Alumnae received a Distinguished Service Award because of involvement in community and sorority activities.

The chapter also earned the National Alumnae Philanthropic Award for contributions and service to the Arthritis Foundation, AOPI's national philanthropy, and to the Illinois Children's Hospital School, its local philanthropy.

SEVERAL WOMEN from this area were honored for their individual contributions. Mrs. Laurence Frerk of Arlington Heights received one of 12 Rose Awards for outstanding alumnae service. She is a past president of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae and currently is president of the Chicago Area Council.

Mrs. W. R. Mottweiler of Mount Prospect accepted the position of international executive vice president for the next two years. Mrs. Charles Kallevang of Park Ridge was honored as retiring international president.

This year's convention awarded a $13,000 grant to Dr. Jane Schaller, director of Pediatric Arthritis Clinic at University Hospital in Seattle, Wash., to continue research into the cause of arthritis in children. A $3,000 grant went to Henri Andre Menard, a fellow of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

The local alumnae are in Region IV, which includes Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky in the sorority's area set-up. At the convention the region took home a total of 24 awards for outstanding work in scholarship, philanthropy, service to the sorority, Panhellenic cooperation and song writing.

PWP Members Study Taboos

A discussion centered around the "no-nos" and taboos of heritage will be featured at Wednesday, August 18, meeting of the northwest area group of Parents Without Partners. The meeting will take place at the Cardinal House, 5159 W. Belmont, Chicago, at 8:15 p.m.

The discussion will cover such areas as the roles our parents play, how the "no-nos" have been a blessing in disguise and how education and training eliminate those taboos that are detrimental to growth and character.

Parents Without Partners is devoted to the interests and welfare of single parents and their children. Meetings are held each Wednesday evening at the Cardinal House. A social mixer follows each meeting.

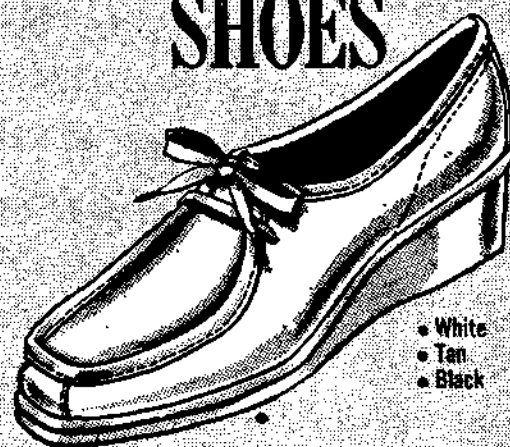

Single parents are welcome to attend. A donation of $1 is accepted.
